Give Your Crowd Soft Drink Juleps

By GAYNOR MADDOX

When it's your turn to have the crowd for a summer evening get-together, surprise them with this cooling "Soft Drink Julep." Carbonated beverages speed up respiration and moisture evaporation and also offer a number of possibilities for unique services. The "Soft Drink Julep" is just one.

Soft Drink Julep (Serves 4)

Eight bottles (7-ounce size) lemon-lime soda, 2 lemons, 2 limes, fresh cherries, fresh mint sprigs. Chill the bottles of lemon-lime carbonated beverage in the refrigerator. When very cold, pour the contents of bottles into a freezing tray; add the juice of the lemons and limes, mix gently and freeze until almost solid. To serve, scoop generous portions of the frozen beverage into tall glasses; garnish with a fresh cherry and a sprig of mint. With each glass, serve a bottle of chilled lemon-lime soda which is to be poured over the frozen mixture.

Apricot Punch

One can apricot nectar, 2 large bottles gingerale, fresh mint sprigs. Chill the gingerale and the apricot nectar. Pour contents of one bottle of gingerale into ice cube tray and freeze. To serve, fill tall glasses 1/2 full of the apricot nectar, add several cubes of frozen gingerale and fill the glasses with chilled gingerale. Mix lightly, add a sprig of fresh mint and serve at once.

New York Cooler

Peel rind of one large lemon in a long, thin strip and put it in a 2-quart pitcher with 12 cubes of kola carbonated beverage frozen in ice cube tray. Pour in one 12-ounce well-chilled bottle of kola carbonated beverage, 1 large bottle cherry soda, stir lightly and garnish with half slices of lemon.

Marshall Plan, Freight Rates Threats To Apple-Growing Industry, Association Told

CHICAGO, Aug. 11—(AP)—The Marshall plan and high domestic freight rates bode no good for the apple-growing industry, shippers of the fruit were told here.

J. Walter Hebert of Yakima, Wash., president of the International Apple Shippers' association, said present business conditions are particularly unfavorable for continued concentration of growing in the state of Washington. "This summer, for the first time since the depression of the 1930s, we have seen cars of fine fruit sell for less than freight costs at eastern auctions," he said.

"We have seen thousands of tons left on the trees, tons which in other years of the past decade would have been harvested and sold at a profit. If rail carriers want to maintain fresh fruit tonnage, they must give consideration to what the traffic will bear."

He said Marshall Plan funds were making it possible for foreign countries which formerly bought 12 percent of the nation's apple crop, and 30 percent of the northwest's output, to make bilateral agreements with each other for their fruit requirements. "It's time we took a more realistic view of the world trade situation," Hebert declared. "We should adapt our trading policy to facts rather than visionary pollyanna thinking."

"We cannot hope to impose our multilateral trade policy on the other nations of the world. Their mental processes do not function in terms of magnanimity and broad concepts. "A happy solution to our export problem would be restoration of the British market in exchange for like quantities of Canadian apples sold on United States markets. But that would be a return to multilateral trade, on which Britain seems to have turned her back."

Hebert said apple trade prospects may force relocation of a large portion of the northwest orchardists in the central and eastern states. Such a general move occurred following World War One.

Cancer-Stricken War Veteran Kills Himself

MOSES LAKE, Aug. 11—(AP)—A Seattle war veteran shot himself fatally at 4:30 a.m. Wednesday while sitting beside his two sleeping brothers in Moses lake state park.

He was Grant Lee Bishop, 24, a University of Washington student. He had camped out with his brothers, Robert 27, and Daniel, 20, on a return-trip from Pullman.

Sheriff Cecil H. Gilman said the brothers reported he was suffering from cancer. He was twice wounded during the war in Europe.

Driving Classes Here Open To Applicants

Persons may enroll in the Roseburg Junior Chamber of Commerce-sponsored driving classes, held each Monday and Friday, at Alair's parking lot, corner of Main and Washington, by calling at the Tipton-Perkins' insurance office, 214 W. Cass st., or by phoning 1277-R.

Prospective instructees are urged not to call the Senior Chamber of Commerce offices, which organization is not connected with the Jaycee-sponsored driving school.
