KNDL DIAL-LOG

Clarence B. Randall, president of the Inland Steel company, and the man who has charged President Truman with having started an "Industrial Revolution in America," will be the guest holding a press conference on the air this evening at 6 on "Meet the Press." Tune in the "Wrestling Parade" beginning at 9:30 tonight.

SUNDAY: A couple of ex-convicts who foolishly return to the scene of a former crime with murder in their minds, fail to count on Roy Rogers, Dale Evans and Gabby Hayes upsetting their apocalyptic dream. "The Roy Rogers Show" broadcast tomorrow at 3 p. m. At 3:30, a young American flyer, captured by the Germans during World War II, is imprisoned in this country for supposedly having informed on his buddies when they planned an escape from the Nazis. "Nick Carter, Master Detective" helps the lad when he solves "The Case of the Unlucky Seven."

In keeping with its policy of representing listener-requested dramas, "The Family Theater" program will again air its adaptation of the "Story of Joyce Kilmer." The Kilmer story, air-adapted originally for the "Family Theater" by Timothy Muivy under the title "Song for a Long Road," was presented on the program of May 13 of last year. For its repeat performance broadcast, Audrey Tetter and Richard Baschert will be co-starred with Danny Thomas as host. The drama presents vignettes from the famous poet's life prior to his army service in World War I (4:30-5 p. m., Sunday).

Marta Toren, the Swedish-born Hollywood star, will be the guest panelist for the "Twenty Questions" broadcast tomorrow night at eight. Miss Toren, star of "Sword in the Desert," will be joining regular panelists Fred Vandevanter, Florence Rinard, Herb Poleis and Bobby McGuire for this radio version of the ever-popular parlor game. Bill Slater is emcee.

Stolen Gum Machine Returned To Lions Club
LA GRANDE, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The La Grande Lions put back their gum machine today and dusted off their faith in human nature.
The gum machine, whose proceeds are used to buy eyeglasses for needy children, disappeared from a hotel here four months ago. Lions muttered about the character of the thief.
But this week the gum machine, intact with coins and gum, arrived in the mail from a Portlander, who said he had taken it one night "in a bit of drunkenness." He offered, too, to pay any charges involved and even signed his name.
But that the Lions club, in appreciation, did not make public.
