

Proposed Anderson Farm Program Likened To Wire-Tied Junk Pile

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—New farm legislation now before the Senate Agriculture committee can best be likened to a farmyard junk pile being put together with bailing wire.

Maybe there's no use getting excited about it, yet. The sixth draft of the bill being assembled by New Mexico Senator, and former Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson's subcommittee may be rewritten again, a number of times.

Brannan's own producer payments farm plan was of course criticized to death in the House. But the proposed Anderson bill substitute, in its present form, is a complete political patchwork.

It takes parts of the Aiken bill, the Hope bill, the P. C. bill, the Steagall amendments, the new Gore farm bill recently passed by the House, and even parts of the Brannan plan itself. On top of this it piles some new ideas which are best identified as representing the views of Allan Kline, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Congressman Gore's house bill was also generally credited with having been inspired by the Farm Bureau. Gore is planning to run for the Senate in 1950. Other Tennessee congressmen have accused Gore of backing this legislation to win Farm Bureau support in Tennessee.

National Farmers' Union has been backing the Brannan plan from the start, and was against the Gore bill. Just as consistently, the Farm Bureau has been opposing the Brannan plan.

Feuding Inside Bureau
Inside the Farm Bureau, however, there has been considerable feuding. Kline, representing largely northern and western

O. N. Jones Named Brand Inspector For Local Area

Otto N. Jones of Roseburg has been appointed state livestock brand inspector for this area by the State Department of Agriculture. Jones has lived in Roseburg four years. Prior to taking over his new work he was a federal meat grader in this district.

Jones, who lives at route 1, box 19, has been on the job for several weeks. He will make regular inspections at the sales yards at Roseburg and Sutherlin and also at all slaughter plants in the Roseburg area, as well as handling request inspections.

He will carry on this work under the 1949 livestock identification and theft prevention act. This law requires that all livestock moving on the public roads must be accompanied by either a transportation certificate or a brand inspection. Animals coming under the law are all cattle (both beef and dairy), horses, mules and donkeys. The law does not apply to movement of sheep or hogs.

Transportation certificates are available from Jones who may be contacted by phone by calling 1052 L. Roseburg. The cost is .25 for a book of 50. Brand inspection certificates are issued only by the brand inspector and cost of inspection is .25 per head. Livestock producers in this section having questions about the new law are urged to get in touch with their new inspector here.

KDND DIAL-LOG

President Harry S. Truman will be heard in a special address before the opening session of the Golden Jubilee Convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars this afternoon at 3. The Chief Executive will speak from the auditorium at Miami, Fla. Mutual-Don Lee reporter on the national scene, Fulton Lewis, Jr., returns to his weekly news commentary over the Mutual-Don Lee network today at 4 p. m. Mr. Lewis has been vacationing during the past four weeks, with newsmen Phelps Adams and Walter Trohan pinch-hitting for him. Curley Bradley, the cowboy singing star whose western ballads and folk songs are heard on KRNR each week-day at 5:45, leaves for a three-week vacation beginning today. Substituting for him during that period will be singer Lee Bennett, who will also feature songs of the western plains.

"Yes, Yes in Your Eyes," "Poor Butterfly," "A-You're Adorable," "I'm in Love With a Wonderful Guy," and "Out of Love," title tonight's musical selections on the "Sammy Kaye Showroom" at 7:15. Several years before 1870, the mummy of one of the greatest Egyptian Pharaohs was stolen, and the Egyptian government believed that it was brought to America. In the latest episode of "The Cisco Kid," "Cisco" discovers "The Mummy in the Desert." (Tonight, 7:30-8.)

George Valentine goes fishing tonight at 8 . . . but instead of fish, he comes up with a dead midget . . . then runs into a town full of ex-circus people run by a woman who calls herself the "Express of Fish Falls." Tune in another Stake-race direct from the Roseburg track tonight at 10. At 10:30 . . . "Murder Spins the Plot" titles the "Mysterious Traveler" mystery drama. Take one egocentric mystery writer. Add one publisher who ridicules his stories. Mix well, and you've got "Murder Spins the Plot."

Next Time Bull Will Get Ride

FOND DU LAC, Wis.—(AP)—Joe King left for market with a 1,600-pound bull but got paid for only 1,410 pounds. That's to teach Joe never again to walk a bull to town.

King lives in the town of Empire, 13 miles from the packing house. Joe has a truck but decided he and the bull would hoof it.

"It was kind of cool," he said. "And it seemed like a good idea at the time."

Six hours and 15 minutes later Joe and the bull arrived at the packing house.

The packing house paid King $274.95. The bull lost 190 pounds en route. That cost Joe about $30, to say nothing of the wear and tear on his disposition.

"I'll learn," said Joe.

Wool Output in Oregon Declines

Oregon's 1949 shorn wool production, estimated at 5,249,000 pounds by the Portland office of the USDA crop reporting service, is by far the smallest output in 50 years of record.

It is 14 percent less than the previous 1948 low of 6,100,000 pounds. The decreased production is a combination of smaller numbers shorn and lighter average fleece weights. The record large clip in Oregon was in 1931 when 22 million pounds were produced.

Number of sheep shorn this season is estimated at 648,000 head, the smallest of record—this marks the 15th consecutive year of decreased numbers shorn. The decrease in number shorn this year is largely due to the heavier than usual losses as a result of the severe winter.

Total stock sheep on hand January 1 was little changed from a year ago.

Filbert Growers Get Advice To Avert Losses

PORTLAND, Aug. 22—(AP)—Filbert growers can be saved from heavy financial loss only if 30 percent of the nut crop is declared surplus.

That was the testimony of John Trunk, manager of the Northwest nut growers, Dundee, at a Department of Agriculture hearing here. Only 70 percent of the crop should be put on the market, he said, to bolster prices.

The hearing is designed to get data on which to decide whether a federal marketing agreement should cover filberts.

The first opposition witness was Kenneth A. Brown, Gervais. His advice: "Sack the entire proposed program."

At the meeting's close, however, Trunk asked that the program be put into effect by Oct. 1, so as to cover this year's crop.

CVA Supporter Admits He Was '$50 A Day Boy'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—(AP)—Washington's Republican Senator Cain told the Senate that a Walla Walla attorney, who wrote an article favoring the Columbia Valley administration, had been a "$50 a day boy" for the Interior department.

The attorney, Charles Luce, promptly agreed that it was true, and asked what was wrong with that.

Luce's article was inserted in the Congressional Record by Washington's Democratic Senator Magnuson, who favors a CVA. Magnuson described Luce as a prominent attorney.

Then Cain, who opposes a CVA told fellow-senators yesterday that they should know of Luce's connection with the Interior department in evaluating his CVA stand.

Contacted at The Dalles, Ore., last night, Luce said it was no secret that he had been employed to prepare testimony for CVA hearings at "the usual basis—$50 a day."

"If the government wants to hire me for organizing a hearing, I expect to charge them something," he said. "So far as I know, Mr. Cain is not working for nothing."

As far as the article is concerned, Luce said he wrote it for the Walla Walla Union-Bulletin in reply to an earlier article which had opposed a CVA. Both the pro and con articles were inserted in the Congressional Record, he added.

Women's Club Announces Classes For Annual Sutherlin Flower Show

By MRS. BRITAIN SLACK
News-Review Correspondent

Plans are being rapidly perfected for the annual flower show sponsored by the Associated Business Women's club of Sutherlin, next Saturday, and classifications have been announced as follows:

- 1—Annuals—asters, petunias, marigolds, zinnias, stocks, any variety not listed elsewhere.
- 2—Perennials—chrysanthemums, carnations, phlox, snap-dragons, hydrangeas, any variety not listed elsewhere.
- 3—Herbs.
- 4—Gladioli.
- 5—Dahlias.
- 6—Decorative arrangements—table and miniature arrangements.
- 7—Potted plants—flowering plants, foliage plants, succulents.
- 8—Potted display.
- 9—Tuberous begonias.
- 10—Lilies.
- 11—Artistic basket.
- 12—Carnages.
- 13—Mixed flowers.

The general chairman, Mrs. Olga Biedman, announced that there will be specially built tiered shelves for displaying table arrangements, and it is hoped to have many entries in this classification.

Hobby displays will include the following classifications: china, antique, miscellaneous, including quilts and rugs; rock and metal; high school division; grade school division; millinery; boys and girls house display, and girls dressed doll display.

Entries will be received from 10 a. m., with judging at 11. Cut flowers must be exhibited in glass fruit jars, using quarts for tall flowers and pints for smaller flowers. Decorative arrangements must be artistically arranged by the exhibitor. Bird houses and dresses for dolls must be made by exhibitors. Boys and girls entering must not be over 14 years of age. Cafeteria style luncheon will be served at 11:30, and business people are especially invited.

The Grand Banks area off the coast of Newfoundland, in the path of the world's busiest water trade routes, is the iceberg danger zone.
