Barbequed Fish Fine For Picnic

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

An outdoor grill—or just a good fire on the rocks—can produce a wonderful picnic treat: barbequed fish. That's a Labor day picnic thought worth studying.

But first you must catch (or buy) your fish. Any small fish such as butterfish, flounder, porgie or sea trout may be used.

Barbequed Whole Fish

Clean and dress fish and place on the barbecue grill. Sprinkle with garlic salt and pepper. Place a square of butter on each fish. Cook for 10 minutes over glowing coals. Grill should be about 3 inches from the hot coals. At the same time the fish is being grilled, grill large onion slices with a slice of tomato atop each. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Barbequed Fish

To barbeque small whole fish in the open when there's no barbecue grill, sprinkle cleaned fish with garlic salt and pepper. Run a thin sharp stick into the fish's mouth and through its body lengthwise. Prop or hold the stick over hot embers and cook until it is brown and tender, but be sure not to overcook—3 to 5 minutes on either side. Dip in hot barbecue sauce and serve piping hot, right on the stick.

Barbequed Sauce

One cup catsup, 1 cup vinegar, 1/2 cup salad oil, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 tablespoon Tabasco sauce, 1 onion, sliced.

Cleaned Ingredients and heat to boiling point.

Fried corn with onions and green pepper should go to the picnic, too. Just chop the onions and green peppers at home and carry them to the picnic in a covered jar. Canned corn and the other ingredients can go in the picnic basket.

Fried Corn With Onions And Green Pepper

Two tablespoons fat, 1/2 cup chopped onions, 1 cup chopped green pepper, 1/2 teaspoon salt, pepper, 1 cup milk, 1 No. 2 can whole kernel corn.

Melt the fat in a frying pan. Add the onion, pepper and drained corn. Heat gradually and stir until the vegetables are somewhat dry and lightly browned. Stir in the salt and pepper. Add the milk and cook for a few minutes longer.
