

Yugoslavs Not Disturbed Over Russian Threat

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Spreading rumors of Soviet army troop concentrations near Yugoslavia's frontier attended speculation over the new Russian denunciation of Premier Marshall Tito.

(Diplomatic officials in London said British and U. S. restrictions on the sales of military equipment to Yugoslavia may be eased to bolster Tito's regime).

Officially there was no confirmation of troop movements nor of talk that Yugoslavia may seek United Nations intervention in her blossoming dispute with Russia.

But it should be emphasized that the Yugoslavs themselves are showing no concern over the possibility that the propaganda and economic struggle between this country and her communist neighbors will turn into a shooting war.

There was no immediate Yugoslav response to the Soviet note, announced Tuesday, blasting the Tito government as an ally of the western powers.

The United States embassy was taking things calmly and showing scant signs of anticipating a showdown now in the Yugoslav-Russian dispute.

Receiver Named For Farm In Horsemeat Scandal

PORTLAND, Sept. 1.—(AP)—A receiver was named Wednesday for Holgate farms by Circuit Judge Alfred P. Dobson after Oregon Egg & Poultry company filed a complaint charging the firm was either insolvent or in danger of becoming so.

The farms and its manager, Talmadge P. Staley, were in the news recently when they were sued by an inn which charged ground horsemeat was bought there under the misapprehension it was ground beef. Staley answered with a counter-suit for damages.

The receiver named to safeguard assets and keep the firm operating is William H. Klepper, one-time part owner of the Portland Baseball club.

DEER HORN FARMS
MOSCOW, U. S. S. R.—In the Soviet Far East special farms are busy growing deer horns. This sounds like a strange occupation, but in fact it is a profitable one. For the deer are the exceedingly rare spotted deer and the young horns of this species possess medicinal qualities highly valued by specialists.

The spotted deer is found only in the Maritime districts of the Soviet Far East. The deer farms have a double task—to collect this valuable product and to permit the spotted deer to multiply.

When they hand out prizes for nonchalance, Max Fein, a 63-year-old office worker who fell from the eighth floor of a downtown Los Angeles office building, will win the jackpot.

A business man who witnessed the fall from his second floor office, reported in a "Mutual Newsreel" interview (Mon. thru Fri.—6:15 p. m.), "I leaned out the window, and there was this little old guy lying down there in a pile of broken glass. Mr. Fein had landed on a skylight. He looked up and said, 'I just fell from the eighth floor. . . what floor is this?' I told him it was the second. He thought for a moment, then asked, 'where's my glasses?'" Mr. Fein escaped with minor injuries.

Tonight at 7:30, Miss La Verne Shown and Dwight Pope will be interviewed on the regular Thursday night "Here Comes the Bride" program. They'll be quizzed about marriage plans and romance background by Del McKay. Tune in "Hopalong Cassidy" at 8 . . . and "The Fishing & Hunting Club of the Air" at 8:30. Must an automatic shotgun be plugged for all types of hunting? Is a hunter entitled to the bag limit of his guide as well as his own? Which affords the better field practice, traps or skeet shooting? These and many other listener-submitted questions will be answered by outdoor experts Dave Newell, Jim Hurley, Gail Borden and Jeff Bryant for tonight's "Club" broadcast at 8:30. The new trio currently appearing nightly at the Shalimar Room will be heard tonight at 9:30. "Girls of Note"—they're known as. Mike "The Falcon" Waring will be heard tonight at 10.

CHILDREN EXAMINED
Thirty-four first grade children were examined at the Green-Glengary school by Dr. George Lenz, with the cooperation of the county health department, Wednesday.

In 1875, nails were first manufactured from wire.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fullhart of Ash Valley, operators of a grocery store there, recently moved their business to a new location and erected a combination residence and business building.

One of the drawbacks of their new location was an inadequate water supply, and this being an unusually dry year, they soon found this drawback a serious one.

Strawberry Plants Morsels For Deer Invading Wade's Flat

By S. S. SMILEY
News-Review Correspondent

Residents on Wade's flat. Reedsport residential section, have about despaired of trying to raise either berries, vegetables, or flowers, especially those living along the foothills on the north edge of the district.

While neighboring towns are having to curtail the watering of their lawns and gardens, due to shortage of water, these Reedsport residents find themselves unable to curb the damage done by deer from the hills close by.

Strawberry patches seem to be the chief attraction for the deer in this locality, as they make regular calls just before time to pick the berries, and help themselves. But they do not hesitate to help themselves in vegetable gardens, either, or in flower gardens.

Local state police officers have a product for distribution that is supposed to keep the marauders away from the gardens and berry patches, and still not injure the berries and vegetables for domestic use, but this product has not yet been thoroughly tried out.

In the meantime, the four-legged intruders continue to be exceedingly unpopular.

One theory advanced for the deer being more of a nuisance than usual is that the hills are so dry now that the feed is short, and the well-watered lawns and gardens are especially attractive.

Constructing Slaughter House
Walter Walker of Schofield creek, operator of a large stock ranch, is constructing a new slaughter house on his ranch to replace the old one. Mr. Walker does a considerable amount of custom butchering and meat cutting in addition to butchering his own stock.

Lois Transferred to Siuslaw
The gasoline-powered launch Lois, owned by the Columbia River Packer's association and used as a pick-up boat during the shad season and for general utility work, was taken to the Siuslaw river last week to be put to similar use there. With the Reedsport plant almost inactive since the closing of the shad season June 30, the company's plant at Florence is busy receiving troll fish and the gillnet season on the Siuslaw River opens Sept. 1.

Logging Camps Under Slow Bell
C. O. Nottage of Scottsburg, pioneer resident of that vicinity, was a Reedsport visitor Monday. He states that logging camps in that neighborhood are running "under a slow bell" in many instances, with some of them closed down until next spring.

Might Have Been Real Tragedy
The report that reached Reedsport Saturday of the drowning of three fishermen on the Umpqua river bay near Winchester bay seem to have been slightly exaggerated, as a later report says no lives were actually lost.

But the difference between the false report and what actually happened seems to have been an extremely narrow one, and the false report was so nearly a true one, that many who know the details of the case are still marveling that no lives were lost.

Small boats manned by ardent fishermen, and a bar that can change from calm water to rough water almost instantly, are the makings of a tragedy.

Deep Well Provides Water
Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fullhart of Ash Valley, operators of a grocery store there, recently moved their business to a new location and erected a combination residence and business building.

One of the drawbacks of their new location was an inadequate water supply, and this being an unusually dry year, they soon found this drawback a serious one.

Not caring for the prospects, even for the few dry months each year, they arranged for a well-drilling concern from Roseburg to see what could be done about it.

The result is an adequate supply of water, secured from a depth that insures sweet, cold water the year round.

Other residents of the valley, facing diminishing water supply because of the heavy logging operations in that vicinity, are seriously considering deep wells as the solution.

Round-Up Attracts Visitors
It seems as if almost a third of the residents of this community made the trip to Pendleton this year to attend the Round-Up. One local logging operator stated that he had been trying to get to Pendleton for that event for 20-odd years, but that something always interfered.

But this year, with an unusually large number of logs in booms, rafts and cold-decks in the woods, and the seemingly uncertain lumber market, several of the camps in this vicinity have been closed down entirely or their output curtailed.

In this instance, this operator was enabled to get to the Round-Up.

One of the young lads making that trip for the first time remarked on his return that "those teacher seals are the hardest to sit on." But he enjoyed the show!

Russ-Yugoslav Affair Seen As "War Of Nerves"

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Secretary of State Acheson said Wednesday that developments on the Yugoslav border appear to be part of a war of nerves.

He told a news conference that the developments appear to be taking place with a sort of calculated publicity. He did not say specifically what he had in mind but there are rumors of Soviet Yugoslav frontier.

In response to a question, Acheson said that as far as he knows no consideration is being given to lifting British and U. S. restrictions on arms shipments to Yugoslavia.

Diplomatic officials in London reported such a move is under study as a way to bolster Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito in his quarrel with Moscow.

Yugoslavia, Acheson said, has made no request for easing of the restrictions.

On other matters, Acheson said: Russia is trying to impose impossible burdens on Austria in writing a peace treaty for that country. British-Russian-American discussions on the treaty are now being held in London by the foreign ministers' deputies.

Acheson said the negotiations have made some progress but a big difficulty is that Russia is trying to put impossible burdens on the Austrian government whereas the western powers are trying to assure Austria's existence as a free and independent nation.

The Greeks, by their recent Garmos mountain military victory, appear to be on the road to solving the problem of the Communist guerrilla revolt. He said the Greek army has made excellent and highly gratifying progress.

Actress Sees Friend Die In Fiery Plane Crash

CANNES, France, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Count Groggi Cini, wealthy Italian businessman, died in a plane crash Wednesday before the horrified eyes of Film Actress Merle Oberon. She had gone to Cannes airport to wave goodbye.

The two-engine plane carrying Cini, whose name has been romantically linked with that of the actress, circled low after taking off, caught a wingtip on the ground, crashed and burned. Cini's pilot, Giorgio Giradello, 26, also was killed.

Miss Oberon burst into tears and, suffering from shock, was taken back to her hotel. Witnesses theorized Cini, 30, had ordered his pilot to circle back over the airport for a last farewell wave to the pretty brunette actress.

Until 1879, all nails in the United States were made of iron.

LaGrande Threatened In Water Shortage

LA GRANDE, Sept. 1.—(AP)—This town's irrigation water was rationed more tightly Wednesday after a drastic fall in the city reservoirs threatened to exhaust drinking water.

City Manager Ed H. Ford banned all sprinkling three days a week, and divided the city into two sections, each to be watered on two days a week.

The lowered stream flow and heavy irrigation demands have cut the water supply in reservoirs to almost one-half the normal day's supply.

Ford said many people have been running hoses all night, in violation of city rules. "If violations persist," he warned, "La Grande is going to find itself without drinking water in the near future."

Nails were scarce in the early American colonies.
