KDNB DIAL-LOG
Tonight at 7:30 "The Cisco Kid" brings one of the most ingenious bandits of them all to justice as told in the dramatization of "The Cisco Kid and One-Eye Jake." Jack Mather is "Cisco," and Harry Lang is "Pancho." "Straight Arrow" will be heard at eight . . . and the "Affairs of Peter Salem" fill the mystery-bill tonight at ten.
SATURDAY: Grab the nearest phone tomorrow morning at 9:30 . . . call number 4 . . . give us your song request and dedication. From there, it's typed on a small slip of paper, which, in turn, is slid under the studio door . . . and eventually played on the studio piano by "Telephone Request" star, Esther Geddes. Tomorrow afternoon at 3:30, Hank Henry presents the third in his series of "Let's Talk About Music" . . . an entertaining 45 minutes of music played by top men in the business . . . plus informative chatter from Mr. Henry about those men and their music.
New K.K.K. EMPEROR TO "MEET PRESS": The new imperial Emperor of the Knights of the Ku-Klux-Klans of America, Lycurgus Spinks, will hold his first public press conference during tomorrow's "Meet the Press" broadcast at six p. m. The 64-year-old Thomasville, Alabama Klans head was inducted into his new office on August 23, and succeeds the late Dr. William Green. Drew "I predict" Pearson, and Lawrence Spivak, Editor, American Mercury Magazine, are two of the interviewers already set. Noted columnist Drew Pearson, has been a severe critic of the Klan and its activities . . . so nail that radio of yours to the floor when he meets the new KKK "Big" tomorrow night at six. (We'll not be held responsible for any shattered tubes, broken speakers, or fouled-up radio mechanisms as a result of this broadcast.)

Epidemic Of Misfortune Hits Family Children
ELPASO, Texas, Sept. 2.—(AP)—On July 26 Mrs. Corine C. Osborne's small grandson fell and stuck a stick through the roof of his mouth.
On August 19 her daughter had an emergency appendectomy. Three days later her son fell ill with double pneumonia. A day later her other daughter, a 15-year-old, had an emergency appendectomy. A day later her other son suffered head injuries and shock in an accident.
Mrs. Osborne? She's just tired and pessimistic.
Wife Quits Screen Tarzan, Says "Going Too Rough"
HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Tarzan's wife has moved out of her mate's home in the Hollywood jungle.
Mrs. Lex Barker said that she had separated from the handsome screen Tarzan.
"The going has become too rough after a series of misunderstandings over the last two years," she said. She did not disclose any plans for divorce. They have been married eight years and have two children.
Petals of freshly cut flowers are placed in vessels together with special liquid (solvent)

Returning From Vacation To Job Is Civilization's Cruellest Ordeal
By (HAL BOYLE)
NEW YORK — (AP) — Some wise men believe that the greatest shock in life to the nervous system occurs at birth. It's such a change.
This I hold to be a grievous error.
The average man is usually born only once. He has small memory of the occasion, and it merely leaves him with a slight feeling of gratitude toward his mother. Some mothers even claim their offspring lose this sensation in time.
A greater shock to the nervous system than birth is coming back to work after a vacation, because it is an annual agony. Medical science has done much to make birth as pleasant as possible for all concerned—except for the forgotten man with the pocketbook who caused it all. But it has done nothing to cushion the mental suffering a man undergoes at having to return to his job after two carefree weeks of holiday.
This is the cruellest ordeal inflicted by a heartless civilization. The poor wretch lies shivering in his bed as the alarm clock bugles a call for him to rise and do his duty. Madly he tries to crawl back into his dreams, hoping vainly that somebody will drop an atom bomb or lightning will strike the place, he earns his daily bread—anything, anything to stay joyously carefree for another week, a day, an hour . . . a minute . . . longer.
"Get up," says his remorseless hausfrau, "and go earn me a living."
And shivering and shaking, the respondent creature gets up, puts on his hairshirt, scratches himself and mopes off to his daily routine at office or factory.
All day long gibing co-workers keep coming by and asking if he had a nice time at the seashore or "where you been?" Sick? I haven't seen you lately."
Blow To His Soul
For a whole week the fellow doesn't do enough work to break a gnat's back. He daydreams—listening to the sea's song grow dimmer . . . dimmer . . . dimmer. By Friday he has accepted the harness again, but meanwhile his soul has suffered an immortal blow.
Cut such a man open and you'll find he shows his age much in the same way as the rings in its trunk betray a tree's antiquity. You count the big scars on his nervous system—one for each year he returned from a vacation—and add 21 for the time he spent learning to earn. The total ful time. No, it wasn't too expensive—only twice what I could afford. Yes, I know I have a nice tan, and you don't have to say it ought to be good for at least three more days. I know it won't last long. Yours didn't either. No, I'm not glad to be back. I hate it like hell. Please don't ask me any questions, or I'll break down and cry."

The boss would then step up and say:
"Son, take the rest of the week off. I know how hard it is—I used to be a working man myself."
That would solve the whole misery—a good post-vacation vacation.
