

John D. Rockefeller 3rd Has Real Chance To Help His Fellow Man

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—There will be no more peace in our time. John D. Rockefeller 3rd has seen to that. He has carried his family's generous tradition of philanthropy right out the window.

John D. Sr. did wonders for world health with his millions. John D. Jr. made a hopeful bid for world order by donating a fine site for the United Nations to build its echo chambers.

And John D. three? What is he doing? Why, he's building a guest house for visiting relatives. There is no doubt he and his wife probably need it. They hardly have room in their East side apartment to entertain the 95 relatives who showed up for their wedding in 1932.

But young Rockefeller has put some 3,000,000 other New York families on the spot. Because— you know how relatives are— their hinterland kin are going to expect the same kind of treatment.

"Rockefeller built a house for his relatives," they'll sneer. "Why don't you? Getting too big for us, eh?"

And this will be difficult to answer. Because most out-of-town visitors are sure that everybody here lives like Rockefeller—or Tommy Manville. Maybe they do, but it is often on a smaller scale.

The trouble with John D. 3rd's adventure in family goodwill is that he built his guest house as if he really wanted all his obscure relatives to visit him. It has a living room with a fireplace, three bedrooms and three baths. It has a sunlit patio complete with a goldfish pond and a live tree. Wonderful place for a city picnic.

And it would be a fine gesture of good will if young John D. three would rent the joint out occasionally when his own folks weren't having a clam bake. A lot of fellow citizens here could use it to show their relatives a hot time.

Annual Blight
But, like me, they would probably want to make some modifications. I have in mind entertaining my fourth cousin, flap-Boyle, Cousin Squeegie lives in Corport, Iowa, and earned his dime bet he could wash a department store window with one ear without using a ladder.

Squeegie still has the dime—also a wife, a pet parrot, and eight flap-eared children. Everybody else in our family regards Squeegie as a worse plague than the locust, which appears only once in 17 years. The Squeegie tribe is an annual blight.

Old Home Atmospheric
It would be necessary, as I say,

Emcee discovers he has no dough as curtain starts to rise on show: Bill Gwinn, "What's the Name of That Song?" emcee, was rescued from a very trying situation by a night grocery-store manager just before the show hit the airwaves a week or so ago. It was discovered that the usual arrangements for providing the $15.00 cash prize to each of six contestants had gone awry. Bill was about to go on the air with no dough! Of course, none of the staff happened to have $90 to help out in an emergency, either. Bill grabbed a page boy and pleaded "Get ninety dollars some where quick!" Dnitfully, the boy tried several shops in the vicinity of the Mutual Network studios but didn't have any luck until he finally came to Thomas Foley of the Hollywood Ranch Market, who is hip to the exigencies of show business. The page boy soon sped to the studio just in the nick of time for Bill to hand a cash prize to his first contestant. Foley got his money back next day . . . and two complimentary tickets to next week's showing of "What's the Name of That Song?" (Wednesdays . . . 8 to 8:30 p.m.)

Thomas Gives Up Probing Official Use Of Planes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.) has dropped his demand on Secretary of Defense Johnson for information about the use of military aircraft by President Truman and other top government officials.

Thomas told reporters he was dropping it because Undersecretary of Defense Stephen Early had assured him that use of military aircraft will be restricted in the future to "public business."

Thomas added that he now considers a "closed matter" the controversy stirred up by Johnson's objection to a request from a group of senators for a military plane to fly them part way around the world.

Thomas is chairman of a senate appropriations committee that passes on funds for the armed forces. He plans to lead members of the group to Europe to check on expenditures in public funds.

Some of the members want to go around the world, and Thomas informed Johnson last week that they would like to have a military plane fly them.

Escaped Convict Being Held In Ohio Hospital

SALEM, Sept. 7.—(AP)—William P. Benson, who went over the state prison wall with lifer John O. Pinson last Memorial day, will be returned here from Columbus, O., as soon as he recovers from a suicide attempt.

Warden George Alexander said last night that Columbus police would advise him as soon as Benson was able to make the return trip to prison.

Benson was picked up in a Columbus alley Sunday. He had taken poison and when questioned in a hospital, said he was suffering from cancer and was going to die anyway.

Alexander said he doubted that Benson had cancer.

Columbus police said Benson reported going under an assumed name, but revealed his identity at the hospital and said he was wanted for breaking prison. Police put a guard on his hospital room. His condition was "fair."

Pinson, convicted slayer of a state policeman, still is at large and Benson refused to give any information on him, Columbus police reported. Benson was serving five years for armed robbery.

U. S. Must Buy More From Japan Or Support Her

PORTLAND, Sept. 7.—(AP)—David M. Maynard, economic counselor in Tokyo, said here that the United States must buy goods from Japan or face the prospect of supporting that country.

He criticized the tendency of disapproving imports from Japan. That, he said, will simply mean that Americans must go on paying out more money to support Japan.

"The goal is to have Japan completely self-sustaining by 1953 at the latest, but obviously to do that she must increase her exports greatly," he said.

Production, Maynard said, is climbing steadily. The main problem now is selling the goods.

The Rev. Stanislaw Junusz and his seven co-defendants were convicted of membership in the illegal organization WIN (Freedom and Independence), the agency said.

Playful Trucker Must Replace Mail Boxes

NEWPORT, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Stephen Arthur King is going to have to replace a whole group of mail boxes and put up four signs for the State Highway department.

Several days ago the North Lincoln county truck driver thought it would be fun to see how many mail boxes and signs he could knock down, driving from Rose lodge to Otis Junction. It turned out he could knock down quite a lot.

The judge suspended a 30-day jail sentence on condition King replace all the damaged signs and boxes.

Handless Veteran Is Elected Head Of AMVET Group

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Harold Russell, the handless war veteran who owns a motion picture academy award, is the new commander of the AMVETS.

The national convention of the AMVETS (American Veterans of World War II) Monday elected Russell, 32, of Watertown, Mass., as the organization's chief officer. He holds an "Oscar" for the film, "Best Years of Our Lives," showing how he overcame the handicap of the loss of both hands.

Mrs. Cliff Lairdson of Waterloo, Iowa, was elected president of the AMVETS auxiliary. She was unopposed.

In a final business session yesterday, the AMVETS refused to reconsider a resolution passed Sunday asking a federal bonus up to $4,500. The bonus had been opposed by the AMVETS leadership.

Two More Networks Join Fight On Give-Away Ban

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Two more major networks joined the American Broadcasting company Friday in a court fight against the ban on give-away shows. The National Broadcasting company and Columbia Broadcasting system filed civil suits to enjoin the federal communications commission from enforcing its ban on such programs. The FCC interpreted them as lotteries.

to fix up the Rockefeller guest house a bit for the Squeegees. First, I'd stop up the fireplace flue with concrete and get a good smudgy fire going. Then I'd put a garter snake in every bureau drawer, and five furnished rats in each kitchen cabinet.

A wild falcon would be perched on the tree to take care of the parrot; the pond would be full of snapping turtles instead of goldfish. I'd put two live grizzly bears in the master's bedroom to entertain Mr. and Mrs. Squeegie. There'd be four wildcats in each of the other two bedrooms to play with Squeegie's eight little monsters.

As I left I'd scatter rucks and cat glass on the living room rug, as the Squeegees usually arrive barefooted—"It feels so cool, cousin Hal, and you know what they want these days for shoe leather."

When the Squeegees arrived, I'd usher them in, back out fast, lock the door and throw the key down the nearest manhole.

Lots of people have relatives like Squeegie. If young Rockefeller would rent out his guest house, he not only would go down as a benefactor of mankind—he'd make a profit.

We just heard the Rockefeller Foundation is planning to investigate normal, happy people. That's as encouraging as a letter from home. Movies, radio programs and books are so full of people whose personalities are split more ways than an exploding firecracker that you begin to wonder whether anyone else in the world is normal. What ought to be done is to glamorize the folks who wouldn't know a neurosis from a Hottentot lullaby. But when you get to "normal" that brings us back to the old saying, "Everyone is a little queer except thee and me . . . and sometimes I think thee art a little queer."
