

NEW POLICE RADIO—Believed to be the first of its kind, this new radio receiver, worn by patrolman Floyd Lee is examined by Police Chief Charles Pray, of Portland, Ore. The radio, which may soon become regular equipment for Portland patrolmen, receives orders direct from police radio headquarters; calls are answered by telephone call box.

Employes Fund Will Be Tapped For New Building

SALEM, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The new $2,500,000 state office building in Portland will be financed by borrowing from the State Employees Retirement fund, the state Board of Control announced.

The fund will be repaid to the money by rentals assessed against departments using the building. The fund will receive two and one-half percent interest.

The board said it does not yet know if the proposed 10-story building can be built for $2,500,000. It might have to settle for a smaller structure.

It will take four or five months to draft preliminary plans, and another six weeks to advertise for bids. The board said several contractors already have asked for plans.

The board deferred action on a letter from the Portland Central Club council of Portland, asking for an investigation of state institutions. Members of the council want to do the investigating themselves.

Governor Douglas McKay said, however, the request is "ridiculous."

The council charged that some persons are being committed to the state hospitals, and that cured persons are being kept there.

Secretary of State Earl T. Newberry said that patients are committed to the hospitals by the courts, and not by the board.

Prison Warden George Alexander asked the board to build a $200,000 correction cell block. It would contain 56 cells, and would be used for the worst prisoners.

Camden Slayer Was 'Mild' Person Says Ex-Sergeant

PORTLAND, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Howard Unruh, the berserk gunman of Camden, was a cool, quiet, Bible-reading soldier with a passion for guns, his war-time sergeant recalled here.

Norman E. Koehn, of Portland pointed to a picture of Unruh, who killed 13 persons in Camden, N. J., yesterday, in a booklet telling the history of the 342nd Armored Field Artillery battalion.

"Howard was a quiet kid," Koehn, his section chief in Battery C, said. "He never associated much with the other fellows, but he was intelligent—a pretty smart kid. I don't think anybody gave him much credit for that. He was cool, too. Never excitable."

Unruh wrote long letters—page after page—to his mother while overseas in Italy and France, Koehn said, and spent hours reading the Bible.

But his hobby was guns; "guns and bayonets. I've because he had dozens of guns." His marksmanship was deadly, Koehn added, telling of an experience which he considered a narrow escape from Unruh's rifle. He said he had spotted a wild boar while seated in a mortar crater in Austria one moonlight night, fired, then took after it. Unruh, on sentry duty, challenged him.

"I gave the countersign right back, quick," said Koehn. "He would have dropped me in my tracks if I hadn't. Nothing wrong with that thought—that's just good soldiering."

Bureau Of Mines Begins New Organization Plan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The 39-year-old Bureau of Mines began reorganizing on a regional basis today.

Harold P. Greenwald, superintendent of the Pittsburgh central experiment station of the bureau, was appointed director of the North-Eastern region, with headquarters at Pittsburgh.

Other regional headquarters will be set up at Juneau, Alaska; Albany, Ore.; San Francisco, Calif.; Denver, Colo.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Bartlesville, Okla., and Tuscaloosa, Ala.

The Washington staff office of the bureau also has been reorganized.

Rescue Workers Report Plane Wreckage Is Gone

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Rescue workers reported yesterday that wreckage of a C-47 has disappeared completely since its crash last Friday in Cook Inlet.

No sign of debris has been seen since approximately 12 hours after the mid-day crash.

Neither have searchers located bodies of any of the seven victims. Elmendorf field authorities branded erroneous a previous unofficial report that three bodies were found.

Student Is Recovering After Mountain Rescue

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK, Mont., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A husky University of Washington student is recovering in a Whitfish, Mont., hospital after a spectacular rescue in the Montana Rockies.

Thom Moulds, 23, of Santa Barbara, Calif., was carried down from the foot of an ice field on 9,147-foot Reynolds mountain where he had lain injured for more than 2 hours.

It took 29 men, supplied by a pack string, all day Monday to reach the point where Moulds fell down the snow-covered mountain side late Saturday and carry him on a stretcher eight miles to a highway.

The 190-pound Washington athlete suffered a broken right foot and lacerations of the right arm. He was taken to the hospital after an ambulance met the rescue

Harvard U. President Visits Hanford Plant

RICHLAND, Wash., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Dr. James Conant, president of Harvard university, arrived here Tuesday to visit the Hanford plutonium works.

He left immediately on an inspection of the plants and was expected to be there all day. He was accompanied by Fred C. Schlemmer, manager of the Hanford project for the Atomic Energy commission.

Dr. Conant is a member of the General Advisory committee on atomic energy. This is his first visit to Hanford since July, 1945.

Canada has 144 ports of entry which handle vehicles, 48 for railroads and 81 at airfields.

Wheat Commission Will Send Analyst To East

SALEM, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Oregon Wheat commission has decided to send its market analyst east "to get the true facts about the possible industrial uses for wheat."

The analyst is Richard Baum, Pendleton, who plans to go first to Minneapolis to confer with General Mills officials. Baum said the firm already has conducted a survey on coast markets where wheat might be used industrially.

He also will discuss production of starch and gluten and conversion of wheat starch into dextrose and glucose at the USDA regional laboratory in Peoria, Ill.

Baum said he then would talk with Department of Agriculture officials in Washington and banking company officials in New York.

Actress Seeks Divorce From Jackie Cooper

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Actress June Horne wants divorce from Jackie Cooper, 27, one-time film juvenile player, claiming he has caused her "anguish, pain, humiliation and embarrassment."

The 30-year-old actress, in her suit filed Friday, said she has "conducted herself with kindness and affection" but Cooper has treated her cruelly.

She asks custody of their son, Johnny Anthony, three. The Coopers were married Dec. 11, 1944, and separated last May 1, her complaint stated.

State And Private Land Fires Boosted This Year

SALEM, Ore. — (AP) — There were 723 forest fires on state and private lands up to August 15, compared with 320 in the similar period of last year, the state forestry department reports.

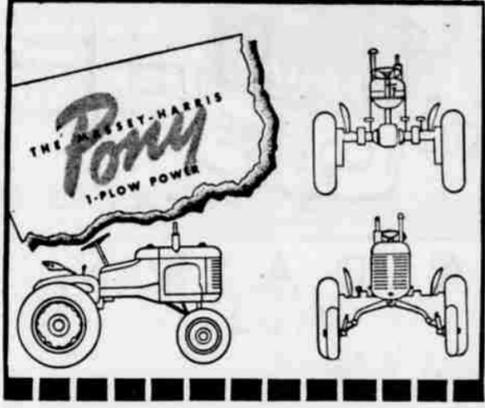

This year's fires burned over 11,971 acres during the period, compared with 1,626 acres in the similar period of last year.

The department said that the fire hazard has been well above normal ever since June 1.

The biggest fire this season was near Cave Junction in southwest Oregon, where 1,000 acres were burned on July 15.
