

3 Railroads Threatened With Walkouts Today

men of the Monongahela connecting railroad is set for Saturday and the one calling out 1,200 brakemen and conductors on the union line is scheduled for Tuesday. The union road is the inter-plant line between all mills of U. S. Steel corporation subsidiaries in the Pittsburgh district.

Other major labor developments across the nation included: In New York, Cyrus S. Ching, head of the federal mediation and conciliation service, planned separate conferences with negotiators in attempts to effect a settlement of the 131 day old Hawaiian dock strike, Harry Bridges, head of the CIO International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's union, demanded that picketing and "blacklisting" issues be settled before any general settlement is reached in the dispute.

After yesterday's new violence in the 13 week-old Bell aircraft strike at Buffalo, N. Y., Gov. Thomas E. Dewey called for a halt "to such lawlessness." Six persons suffered injuries.

In Detroit, there appeared no indication of a major break in the strike-threatening negotiations between Ford and the CIO United Auto Workers. A state labor mediator sat in at a similar bargaining session between Chrysler and the UAW and made preliminary arrangements for a strike poll among nearly 80,000 workers.

The presidential fact-finding board which investigated the steel industry dispute is expected to report its findings to President Truman Saturday.

Jobless Number Increases In Idaho Miners Strike

WALLACE, Idaho, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The ranks of the jobless stood at 2,400 in the Coeur d'Alene mining district today as 550 workers struck the famous Sunshine Silver and Lead Mine.

It was the fourth property struck by the CIO International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers since Aug. 20. About half the men out of work are on strike. The others were laid off by companies which curtailed production because of a smelter plant strike.

Another negotiation session was scheduled for today by Louis Ziman, federal conciliator.

Moving Of Boeing Works To Wichita Protested

want to build two models—the B-47 and the B-52—in the same plant, because an enemy might destroy "both planes with a single bomb."

Symington said the air force is leaving the construction of its number one transport, the C-97, and also the experimental development of the B-52 bomber in the Seattle Boeing plant.

"To the best of my knowledge, the B-52 will be built here," he replied in answer to a question, and then quickly added several ifs, including whether Alaska is properly fortified by that time. Actual production work on the B-52 is about three years away.

The air secretary made it clear that work is now "light" at Boeing's Seattle plant and that employees are facing a loss of their jobs.

He said the air force is trying to "help" Boeing by urging the routing of more "subcontracts to the Seattle plant."

His reference to subcontracting was picked up quickly by Governor Langlie.

"If Boeing slips down to subcontracting, we will have to write off that plant as an important segment in our economy," the Washington governor declared.

"Any serious crippling of this plant would throw the economy of the entire Northwest completely out of balance."

"There is no better way to help Russia or Communism than to put the economy of the Northwest into a tailspin."

The Sutherland city council turned thumbs down Wednesday night on a proposal to close theaters and taverns on Sundays.

The council's regular meeting was visited by a large delegation sponsored by the Assembly of God church, with Pastor Betty Williams acting as spokesman.

Request was made for an ordinance providing Sunday closure of all taverns and theaters.

After discussion of the matter with the delegation, which filled the council chambers and left a large overflow standing outside, the council voted to reject the request.

Sponsors indicated a written petition would be placed in circulation soon in an effort to bring the issue to a vote of the people.

son of Mrs. Farnsworth, also testified as to these conversations, saying, "She talked pretty rough for a woman."

Mrs. Ray Farnsworth Sr., operator at the Drain telephone exchange, described Miss Sanders on the occasion she came into the telephone exchange, the same day that Mojonner was discovered dead in his home. She recalled that Miss Sanders said she "was going to make a telephone call, but it was too late." Victoria appeared to be nervous.

Mrs. Dale Farnsworth, when she was on the stand, also testified as to Victoria's "nervousness" when she came to the Farnsworth home and asked to be driven into Drain the day before Mojonner's death. She had told Mrs. Farnsworth that she was "in a hurry."

Carl Buehler, Drain butcher, and Anton Giovannini, now of Oakland, but then employed in a Drain feed store, both testified that Victoria had cashed checks in their establishments the day before Mojonner's death was discovered. They said they had no reason to suspect that the checks would not be good.

Chamber Of Commerce Drops Pasadena Offer

required for the proposed trip. Charles A. Ricketts, band director, states that the action by the Chamber of Commerce is very embarrassing to the Band Parents association and others who had promoted the trip to the extent of securing influence from U. S. Senator Guy Cordon, Congressman Harris Ellsworth, Governor McKay, the Portland Rose Festival committee and others in drawing the invitation away from other towns, one of which, Cloquet, Minn., was most active, and one of the first to send its congratulations to Roseburg.

Only one invitation was given a school band outside southern California, and Roseburg was successful in obtaining that bid, Ricketts explained.

"Some of our faces are going to be mighty red when we have to notify Pasadena we can't come," the band director said.

rate of $100,000 a day to fight the epidemic, and at this rate, there is only enough money to last about 11 more days.

In the emergency fund drive, arrangements have been made for the Postoffice department to deliver contributions addressed only to "Polio" in care of any local postoffice in the country.

Assistant Postmaster General V. C. Burke directed postmasters throughout the country to "cooperate in every possible way in this worthy project."

O'Connor said that so far this year, 20,513 cases of the disease have been reported across the nation—the largest total ever recorded in the first eight months.

The Public Health Service in Washington put the figure to date at 23,458.

O'Connor predicted the total will climb to 40,000 by Christmas, far above the all-time high of 30,000 cases in 1916's record epidemic.

The foundation has sent out $5,662,164 in epidemic aid so far this year, O'Connor said, and only has $1,500,000 left.

O'Connor said that both the severe epidemic this year, and the carry-over costs of the large number stricken in 1948 had caused depletion in foundation funds.

The final 1948 total was 28,000.
