

Britain's Socialist Regime Faces Fight For Re-Election

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

England's experiment with socialist government is headed for a stormy showdown in the next general election, which will determine whether the country wishes to continue the regime or return to the old system of free enterprise on which the greatness of the empire was built.

The Labor (Socialist) government which came into power in July of '45 would have a normal life of five years—that is until next summer. However, England's economic crisis has reached such a grave pass that it's anybody's guess whether it will get better or worse. This confronts the socialist leaders with the problem of whether to hang on until the end of their term in hope of improvement—or to force an early election on the chance that things are better now than they will be later.

Anybody's Guess
As things stand, that decision must hinge largely on crystal gazing. Much will depend, it strikes me, on the outcome of the British-Canadian-American conference opening in Washington to seek a solution of John Bull's predicament. If relief can be devised, the socialist political chances might be improved.

England's socialist leaders are under no delusions about the political dangers ahead. Both Sir William Lawther, president of the great British Trades Union congress, and James Griffiths, chairman of the Labor party, warned the annual conference of the T. U. C. Monday that Socialism is facing a tough fight.

This blunt warning is aimed at wildcat strikes which have been complicating the economic crisis. Both leaders declared labor might lose the next general election if it didn't stay on the job. Sir William asserted that some work stoppages have been instigated by Communists.

Socialists Worried
So Britain's socialist leaders are worried—and for good reason. Things haven't worked out as they anticipated when they took office. Economic difficulties which they inherited as the result of the war, have gone from bad to worse.

Inevitably there has arisen the searching question of whether the situation has worsened because of socialist policies or whether the same misfortune would have dogged the Conservatives if they had been continued in power. That's a question which the voters most certainly will want answered before they go to the polls.

The burden of proof will rest with the Socialists, and it won't be easy to produce the evidence. They can claim with perfect right that they inherited serious economic difficulties. Few will dispute that. But the next question is tough: "Have the socialist policies, during more than four years of government, improved the economic situation any?"

The answer obviously is in the negative.

Paralysis Victim Dies Before He Sees His Son

PORTLAND—(AP)—A 20-year-old veteran would have seen his son Sept. 19 as a birthday surprise—but his death Monday of infantile paralysis came too soon.

Officials said he had planned to relax rules against children visiting the Veterans hospital after learning John S. Riddle, 20, Bellingham, Wash., had seen his son just once, when a month old.

The visit was to have been a surprise on Riddle's 21st birthday. His son is now 8½ months old. Riddle had been confined to the hospital here since last year.

Chester Lansdown Cogan, the man who invented the perpetual motion machine which quit at sundown is the leadoff subject for Marvin Miller's broadcast this afternoon at 4:30. This story will be paired with another about a man who travelled the world over in search of wealth only to return home and learn that the farm he left behind contained all the wealth he'd ever need.

Another "Here Comes the Bride" broadcast gets under way this evening beginning at 7:30... followed by "Hopalong Cassidy" at 8:30. Andy Clyde and Joel Devel share the "California" role on Don Lee's "Hopalong Cassidy" series. Clyde made the first 26 transcriptions while Devel took over for the remainder of the waxings.

Instead of "The Fishing and Hunting Club of the Air"—you'll hear the "Girls of Note" directed from the Shalimar room tonight at 8:30. At 8:45, another transcribed discussion between Congressman Harris Ellsworth and Walter Norblad will be aired. "The Fishing & Hunting Club" will be moved to the 9:15 time period one time only. These programs will all be heard at their regular hour next week and thereafter. Just like to confuse you once in awhile. "The Adventures of the Falcon," starring Les Tremayne, is the mystery-shot tonight at ten.

Tomorrow afternoon at five, Clara Dudley, famous color consultant, will be heard in a half-hour discussion over KRNR. Jossie's Home Furnishings is responsible for obtaining the nationally known Miss Dudley for interested Roseburgian... a service usually granted to a more metropolitan city. So consider yourself fortunate, and pick up a few free tips from the Clara Dudley decorating-know-how via KRNR tomorrow afternoon at five!

National Defense Heads Claims Village Capture

CANTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The national ministry claimed capture of several villages from communist forces driving toward the Canton-Hankow railroad from Huchung, 170 miles north of Canton.

The ministry's announcement said ground was recovered up to a point 20 miles west of Jucheng. That would place the fighting halfway between Jucheng and the railroad.

Five communist divisions were reported preparing to attack Anjen, 40 miles east of Hengyang, some 120 miles northwest of Jucheng.

Premier Yen Hsi-Shan flew to Chungking during the day presumably to play the role of mediator between Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Yunnan's Gov. Lu Han.

High quarters here think Lu is trying to get Chiang to leave the Indo-China border province of Yunnan out of the civil war, which would mean to recognize the independence Lu proclaimed after his bloodless coup at Kunming Saturday.

South China, despite large mountain areas where few people live, has a far greater population than the United States although it covers less than one-fourth the land area.

Longshoremen Temporarily Barred By Court

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The CIO Longshore union was temporarily barred by court order today from picketing with ships ready to load or sail for Hawaii, where Longshoremen have been on strike since May 1.

But the stevedores still refused to work the Matson company's Hawaiian refiner here, or the Hawaiian logger at Wilmington, Calif.

Federal Judge George B. Harris temporarily restrained the union from picketing the ships and set hearings for 2 p.m. today (PST) on whether his order shall be made permanent.

The Hawaiian local of the longshoremen sent two members here several weeks ago to picket the refiner, and one man to picket the logger. Longshoremen then refused to load the ships.

Despite withdrawal of the pickets, the Matson company said no longshoremen reported for work on the refiner last night. The company asked for about 85 longshoremen to report at 7 p.m. About 40 showed up near the pier but left again, the company said, after two union agents showed up.

The temporary restraining or-

ASTORIA CONSIDERS TIME

ASTORIA, Sept. 8.—(AP)—City officials said today that Astoria probably will follow the lead of Portland and return to Pacific Standard time at midnight, Sept. 25. Brewer Billie, city manager, said that an ordinance to that effect was being prepared.

Its uniform quality constantly tested in Crown's own Celia Lee kitchens, Crown Best Patent assures better baking every time. That's why the best cooks in town use Crown!

CROWN BROWNIE BARS
(Celia Lee Tested Recipe)

Place in a large bowl:
1/2 cup shortening
2 squares chocolate, melted
1 cup sugar

Mix until well blended. Then add:
2 eggs
3 tablespoons hot water
Beat until smooth.

Sift into the mixture:
1 cup sifted CROWN BEST PATENT FLOUR
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder

Mix thoroughly. Add:
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped nuts

Spread in a well greased shallow pan. Bake in moderate oven (375°) about 20 minutes. Cool slightly, cut in squares, and remove from pan. Makes 24 two-inch squares.
