Romance Told Of Victoria And Mojonier

Acquaintanceship Starts In California; Rejoins Ralph Later in Oregon

In the resort setting of Ocean Park pier at Santa Monica, Calif., Victoria "Vicky" Sandevis met Ralph Mojonier while both were working in restaurants there, Ralph's sister testified in Victoria's murder trial yesterday afternoon.

Sylvia M. Gleason, owner of a restaurant on the pier, took the stand to describe the relationship between her brother and the girl who is now charged with his murder. Ralph was employed by Mrs. Gleason, Victoria by "Mrs. Langley," also on the pier.

Under questioning of District Attorney Robert G. Davis, Mrs. Gleason said she had known Victoria "three or four years," the acquaintanceship starting about a year-and-a-half before Ralph came to work in his sister's restaurant.

Lived in Guest House
At that time, he was living in Venice, Calif., where he owned a house, Mrs. Gleason said. When he came to work for his sister, he moved into a guest house located behind Mrs. Gleason's house. He lived there nine months. Victoria did not live with him in the guest house, said Mrs. Gleason.

Funeral Services Held For Reedsport Resident

Funeral services were held at the Unger Funeral home Tuesday for David Holladay of Reedsport, who died at the Eugene hospital Sept. 4 following an operation and a prolonged illness.

Mr. Holladay until recently operator of a small sawmill at Ada, north of Reedsport, was born at Oakland, Calif., Aug. 17, 1889, and came to Reedsport in 1926.

He survived by his widow, Bertha Holladay, and an adopted son, Jerry.

Interment was in the Reedsport Masonic cemetery, with Rev. Geo. Mortenson of the Reedsport Community church officiating. Mr. Holladay was at one time a member of the Eagles in Coos Bay.

Portland police department, told how they arrested Victoria at a Catholic convent in Portland, where she said she had come to have her child baptized. They questioned her about the checks she had cashed at Drain. They said she told them that she had "no recollection" of her actions from the time she lay down on a couch in her home, until she "woke up" on a Portland-bound bus.

When the Portland detectives informed her of Mojonier's death, she expressed surprise and shock, but her shock seemed "feigned," Sgt. Nolan testified. She also had spoken of Ralph "in the past tense," he said.

Alvin M. Cornett, Southern Pacific station agent at Drain, testified a telegram had been received addressed to Mojonier after his death was discovered. He thought it was signed "Victoria," wording of the telegram consistent with Dale Farnsworth and Mrs. Ray Farnsworth, and found Mojonier's body on the bed.
