Repeats Statement

Victoria's accident with the medicine bottle occurred the night of Nov. 11. Her statement, given to the Williamses, she repeated to Sgt. Harrell four days later, when he visited her at the jail. "On the afternoon of Oct. 27, I was feeling indisposed," Sgt. Harrell said he was told by Victoria. "I slept from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m., at which time Ralph and I discussed dinner and he decided to have a few drinks instead, since I did not feel well. "He had, during the course of the day drunk a quantity of home brew and whiskey, which he himself, had made and usually kept on hand. Shortly after that, he left the house and I saw the car headed toward Elkton and knew he was going over to visit Walt Peterson, with whom he drank frequently.

Goes to Sleep
"It was for that reason that I made up a bed in the living room as I disliked sleeping with him when he was drunk. I went to bed in the living room and shortly after, went to sleep. I did not hear or see Ralph come in. "However, I did hear him talking in the kitchen later that evening—and saying that he was going to see if he could catch any fish from the creek. I don't know to whom he was speaking as I was too sleepy to be interested. Later that same night the baby awoke me. I gave him his bottle, which was in his crib. "The statement continued that she had awakened in the night to turn off the light which hung in the doorway of the bed room and she "heard him breathing heavily and I took it to be snoring or the effects of the liquor. I returned to bed and went back to sleep." Victoria said she was awakened in the morning by what she took to be a knock on the door. She looked through the living room window, but saw no one; then she went through the kitchen outside, looked at the chickens, and picked up the mail from the front mail box. After that, she went into the bedroom. "It was then that I saw Ralph on the bed for the first time. He was lying there with his head slightly to the right; blood on the bed beside him; blood on the nose and on the lips. I shook him several times and kept calling his name, but got no response. "I placed my finger on the hollow of his throat to see if I could feel some sign of life, but could feel none. It was then that I fainted and I don't know how long I was unconscious."

To See Doctor
In the remainder of her statement, Victoria told how she made arrangements with her neighbors, the Farnsworths, to take her and the baby into Drain. As she looked "sick," the Farnsworth asked if she were going to see a doctor, and she said yes. "Victoria named the places she visited in Drain to get checks and that she purchased a ticket to Eugene on the bus. At Eugene she realized it was "too late to see a doctor," so she purchased another ticket and continued her trip to Portland. "When I reached Portland, I lost that feeling of dread but was bothered by the fact that I could remember so little about the day's events. I knew I had cashed several checks from the bank stubs but could not remember how many or where I had cashed them. I couldn't remember having seen Ralph after the afternoon of Oct. 27 and because of that I sent him a telegram explaining my sudden departure and asking him to call at the hotel where I had registered as Victoria Mojonner. "She concluded her statement that she did not kill Ralph, "neither did I contribute in any way to his death. I know of no one who should have wanted to kill him, neither is it my opinion that he would have committed suicide."

Election Watched In Pennsylvania

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The outcome of a special Pennsylvania election tomorrow may go a long way toward shaping campaign strategy for the 1950 congressional elections. From the outside, the battle looks close between Mrs. Ethel Coffey, Democrat, and John P. Saylor, Republican, for the congressional seat in the 26th district. Mrs. Coffey is seeking to succeed her war hero son, Rep. Robert L. Coffey Jr., killed in a plane crash last spring. Saylor is a Johnstown lawyer and war veteran. Personalities have almost been swallowed up, however, in what is regarded as a strategy battle between the Republicans and Democrats. Republicans have seized on President Truman's announced intention of taking a personal part in the 1950 congressional struggle. In the closing weeks of the campaign, they have been concentrating their fire on the President and on the democratic congress.

Scotch Light For Bicycles To Be Continued

Police Chief Calvin H. Baird announced today a continuation of the Scotch light bicycle marking program initiated earlier this summer.

He urged all students with bicycles to have their vehicles at their respective schools next Wednesday and Thursday so that the city police department can finish the marking job. Students are requested to bring their bikes to school on those days, whether they ordinarily ride them to school or not, and leave them in the regular bicycle parking racks. Every school in the city will be serviced he said. The Scotch light, a permanent light reflecting substance, was purchased by the Roseburg Active club as a part of their safety program. The marking drive is being carried out through the cooperation of the city police department. No charge will be made for application, the chief said.

Five Persons Drown In Sea Over Weekend

An amphibious craft overturned yesterday and dumped nine men and women into the ocean. The other two victims were lost along the southern Oregon coast near Coos Bay and Florence Saturday. Drowned in a duk upset were Donald Haussman, 18, Portland; Zack Fitzgerald and Willard Linn, both of Boring. Haussman's father, Fitzgerald's brother, and Linn's wife were among the six duk occupants washed safely ashore after fighting heavy seas for as long as an hour.

The duk, christened the "Pride of Pacific City" and launched only a week ago as a tourist attraction, overturned about a quarter-mile from shore. One survivor, Joseph Schwab, said heavy combers battered the craft. One wave washed Linn overboard. The others donned life jackets, and then another comber dumped them all into the sea.

The surf was too rough to launch a lifeboat. Coastguardsmen from Astoria, thinking Haussman and Fitzgerald might be floating in their lifejackets, flew over the area trying vainly to locate the men. The boat was one of three operated by Don Clearwater, Portland. The skipper, Ray Russell, Pacific City, was among those to reach shore. The Saturday drownings took the lives of Harold W. Curry, 29, Sutherlin, who was swept into the surf near Florence while fishing from rocks, and Lloyd Mael, Empire, who disappeared when an outboard motorboat capsized at the mouth of Coos Bay. Sports fishermen rescued Mael's companion, Eugene Darco, also of Empire. He had clung to the overturned boat.

Surviving besides her daughter are a son, Roderick T. Lamont, Portland, and six grandchildren. The body will be taken to Portland tomorrow by the Roseburg Funeral home for the services. Cremation will follow in the Portland Crematorium.

He said the group has 30 members in the Philomath-Corvallis area.

Flying Captain Gets Navy Head's Backing

"Crommelin has not been working under the joint chiefs of staff, showed up for duty as usual. During the morning he attended a meeting of his group which does spade work on America's top secret war plans. In speaking out Saturday he said: "I hope this will blow the whole thing open and bring on another congressional investigation."

That wish won one congressman's endorsement. Rep. Sasser (D-Md.) said congress should take a hand in the row. Sasser, a top-ranking Democrat on the house armed services committee, indicated he feels such a review might help settle the dispute which flared into public view during the recent congressional investigation of the air force's B-36 bomber. He said he favored an inquiry into the roles of the army, navy and air force in defense and security.

were sent aloft in speeches by Adm. Louis Denfeld, chief of naval operations, at Annapolis, Md., and by Secretary of the Navy Matthews in Honolulu. Kimball said in Richmond that the navy's budget for this fiscal year "will be roughly $4,000,000,000." This is $900,000,000 less than the navy had in 1949. It compares with the approximate $4,900,000,000 that both the Senate and House are willing to give the navy for fiscal 1950.

Kimball's disclosure was viewed as a hint that Defense Secretary Johnson may require the navy to hold down to a $4,000,000,000 figure. Kansas is the greatest wheat producing state in the United States.

Theodore Heuss First President Of West Germany

BONN, Germany, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Prof. Theodore Heuss, whose books were burned by Hitler, was elected first president tonight of the new West German republic.

The 65-year-old educator, candidate of the three-party rightist government coalition of the new state, received 416 of 800 votes cast on the second ballot, better than a clear majority. Dr. Kurt Schumacher, chairman of the socialist party on the left, was second with 312 votes. The first ballot ended in a deadlock.

Heuss, a scholarly, white-haired professor of politics who likes a good cigar and an occasional glass of beer. The election of Dr. Heuss as president was the early selection of Dr. Konrad Adenauer as first chancellor (prime minister) of West Germany and the subsequent end of allied military government over the western part of this conquered land.

Buch's body was dragged from the lake last Friday evening. Police said they did not know the exact date on which Buch killed himself or the motive for his deed.

Buch was adjudged a major offender in two denazification trials. At the second trial last July, however, the Munich appellate court reduced his forced-labor sentence from five years to the time he had already been under arrest—3½ years.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The steel strike crisis was put up to strategists of the CIO United Steelworkers today. They held the answer to President Truman's request for an 11-day extension of the strike truce expiring tomorrow midnight. Steel industry's big five accepted the extension. Also in the union's hand is the working man's demands for a fourth round pay increase—specifically whether to accept the presidential board's formula for settling the steel wage dispute. The board suggested a 10-cent hourly package covering pensions and insurance but not wages. Decisions on the board recommendations also are expected from more than 60 steel companies as soon as officers and boards of directors finish studying the fact finders report. The steelworkers executive board went into session at Hotel Sheraton, CIO and Steelworker President Philip Murray, spearheading labor's drive for a fourth round pay boost, got behind closed doors with other union heads to plot their course.
