Non Stop Swim Down Ohio River Is Planned

HUNTINGTON, W. Va.—(AP)—When those English Channel swimmers tire of their trade they might try the jaunt George Holderby has mapped out for himself. He's planning to swim 160 miles non-stop down the Ohio river, from here to Cincinnati. Holderby, 42, is ready for the test but after examining the river decided it was too low. A native of Proctorville, O., Holderby once crossed the river in 16 minutes with his hands tied. Another time he swam 30 miles from Miller, O., to Huntington. He predicts he will cover the 160 miles in about 45 hours, counting on the current to float him a good part of the way. Between the two cities he'll have to pass through nine locks, like a boat.

BODIES BROUGHT ASHORE AFTER CRUISER SINKING—Coast Guardsmen beach a lifeboat through the surf at Diones Point near Nantucket Island, Mass., bearing three bodies of persons drowned in the sinking of a 38-foot cabin cruiser several miles off the coast. A total of nine bodies were recovered following swamping of the cruiser Constance in a thunderstorm. Two persons saved themselves by swimming ashore. A volunteer search plane may be seen in the distance.—[AP Wirephoto].
