

Could The Democracies Work With A Tito Bloc? Question Posed By Foreign Analyst

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

AP Foreign News Analyst

Czechoslovakia's official communist newspaper charges Marshal Tito, Yugoslavia's red dictator, with plotting to entice Russia's eastern European satellites into an anti-soviet alliance.

Whether this be true, the fact remains that Tito's defiance of Moscow's domination is being followed by conspiracies and disturbances among other satellites. The Czechoslovak and Hungarian communist governments claim to have uncovered plans for actual rebellion by force. The ferment also has shown itself elsewhere.

Well, supposing disaffection among the satellites is growing—as the evidence indicates—what is its real significance? How would the democratic world be affected if Tito did succeed in forming an anti-Russian bloc? Could the western nations work satisfactorily with such a Tito bloc?

Communism Differs

In seeking an answer to these vital questions we must note first that Moscow and Yugoslavia are working under two different types of communism. The Russian brand is bolshevism, which calls for world revolution in order to bring all nations into the Soviet bloc under direction of Moscow. This creed, which works by strong-arm methods, holds that the sovereignty of any red nation rests in Moscow.

The Tito brand of communism thus far appears to belong to the common or garden variety of bolshevism was born. The Tito communism stands for absolute nationalism of the state and the retention of sovereignty.

Moscow calls its ism "International Communism," as opposed to Tito's Nationalist State.

Two Definitions

With those definitions before us, which brand of communism would the democracies find it easier to get along with? The answer to that isn't difficult, always assuming that Tito would stick to the tenets which he now advocates. One naturally would choose the Tito communism as the lesser of two evils because it professes to honor the sanctity of national sovereignty.

Of course, any form of communism is totalitarian and subjects the individual to regimentation. However, reports on the Yugoslav set-up indicate that it is more liberal to the individual

Alaska Termed Defense Bastion By Symington

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Alaska was termed by Air Secretary Symington here Monday a defense bastion standing between the "air frontiers of the continent" and the "only nation in the world powerful enough to launch an attack against the United States."

Symington predicted at a news conference that Congress would pass a public works appropriation of $137,000,000 for military construction in Alaska.

The secretary said one of the first projects would be speedy construction of a $50,000,000 radar screen to detect enemy planes in the territory.

All the northern states were included in Symington's reference to "air frontiers," including Detroit, Mich., which he said would be a target in case of war.

A member of Symington's party, Rep. Mitchell (D-Wash.) told the Anchorage Chamber of Commerce he was impressed by the visit and would "take back the

Family Doctors Stage Comeback States Physician

SEATTLE — (AP) — The family doctor is staging a comeback in prestige in this age of specialization, Dr. Stanley R. Truman of Oakland, Calif., president-elect of the American Academy of General Practice, said here today.

"We are beginning to realize that the specialist is not a doctor superior to the general practitioner," said Dr. Truman.

"The specialist is needed, of course. But the average family, especially the city family, has found it needs a doctor who can take care of 85 per cent of its ailments—which the well-trained practitioner can do."

He said that the general practitioner looks at the entire patient, while the specialist looks at only one part of him.

"Fifty per cent of the aches and pains are emotional in origin," Dr. Truman said, and the family doctor, knowing the entire history of the family, is better able to cope with these problems." He called the University of Washington medical school an outstanding example of a school giving special attention to general practice and encouraging students to enter the field.

Second Victim Dies In Canton Shooting Scrape

CANTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Willard Freeman, 41, American businessman from Bridgewater, Mass., died Tuesday of gunshot wounds suffered in his suburban home last Thursday.

His was the second death in the mysterious shooting. Harold Harris, 45, a British trader, was killed instantly. Leonard Clark, 42, San Francisco explorer, was wounded in the chest but will recover. Harris' wife and children are at Esquimalt, B. C.

The trio fell victims of a .32 calibre pistol after a friendly drinking party that ended in a fight.

Chinese police today said they had "100 per cent proof" of who did the shooting. There has been no arrest.

Freeman's attractive widow, Maya, 33, said she slept through the fight and shooting in an adjoining room.

Harris was shot three times. Freeman twice and Clark once near the heart. Neither Freeman nor Clark was aware that Harris died in the affray.

Clark has said he found the world's tallest mountain in northwest China recently.
