DIAL-LOG

Though being judged "Mrs. America" in the very recent annual Atlantic City beauty pageant is a new story for Mrs. Frances Clond, of San Diego, wearing a crown is "old hat" for the beautiful matron. Last May 9, she won another title at Mutual-Don Lee in Hollywood, when she was crowned "Queen for a Day" by emcee Jack Bailey. When elected she expressed the desire for—and received—a crib and mattress for her now seven-weeks old child, the last of three. She was also awarded a trip to the San Fernando Fiesta, where she also reigned as "Queen," in addition to receiving a washing machine and a completely new wardrobe as bounty for her regal role. . . . How lucky can we be!

This week, HOWARD CULVER reaches the one-and-a-half year milestone as "Straight Arrow" on KHJ-Mutual Don Lee. ### Dewey Orders Robeson Riot Investigation

ALBANY, N. Y. —(AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has ordered a sweeping grand jury investigation of the rioting that followed singer Paul Robeson's concert near Peekskill Sept. 4.

The governor said that the violence obviously was provoked by communist groups. He directed that a special grand jury be called in Westchester county to determine whether the concert was "sponsored for the purpose of deliberately inciting disorder" and whether it was part of the communist strategy to foment racial and religious hatreds.

He also ordered that the grand jury find out whether the "com-

New Radio Script Offered In Trial Of Tokyo Rose

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)—The prosecution introduced a new radio script through a rebuttal witness Monday in the Tokyo Rose treason trial.

The witness was Frances Roth of Los Angeles and a former University of Oregon student. She was employed as a war time monitor in Honolulu by the Federal Communications Commission.

Mrs. Iva Toguri d'Aquino is on trial for treason. The government says she broadcast propaganda on the "Orphan Ann" section of the "Zero Hour" program over Radio Tokyo during the war.

Assistant Prosecutor James Knapp read to the jury a script which the witness testified she monitored in Honolulu in the summer of 1945.

Orphan Ann's part consisted mainly of introducing sad, dreamy music. At one point, she called American troops "all my favorite fighting GIs."

The program contained slanted Japanese propaganda on the fighting on Okinawa, American losses and American home front news.

The prosecution apparently trying to tie Mrs. d'Aquino to a program which contained material of a treasonable nature.

Civil Service Commission Upholds Miller Dismissal

SALEM —(AP)—The state Civil Service Commission upheld Saturday the dismissal of Dr. Horace Miller, psychiatrist at the State Hospital.

Miller, fired on a charge of insubordination, had appealed. A hearing was held in the summer, but the commission's decision was not previously announced.

The commission said in a letter to Miller that it could find no evidence that your dismissal was made for political, racial or religious reasons, nor was your professional competency as a psychiatrist questioned.

The trouble was that "the personality differences between yourself and Dr. Bates (Dr. Charles E. Bates, superintendent of the hospital) were inimical to the best interests of the administration," the letter said.

NORONIC DEAD 121

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 19 —(AP)—The known dead pulled from the flame-swept S.S. Noronic stood at 121 today as divers groped below the sunken decks of the charred cruise ship in search of 84 passengers still reported missing.

munist-led guard forces," which he said accompanied the Robeson concert-goers, were a "quasi-military force."

Dewey said that the veterans who staged a protest parade during the negro baritone's concert and a "large number" of other persons who came to express disapproval "fell into a communist bear trap."

British Deny Over Population Is Cause Of Current Crisis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Concident with the Anglo-American conference in Washington, to devise ways of relieving Britain's economic crisis, along comes the Population Reference bureau, a private research agency in the capital, and tosses this bomb-shell:

Britain has 15,000,000 too many people to support. No other country in the world is so crowded as the United Kingdom, with the exception of Japan. John Bull's crisis will continue so long as he tries to support so many folk on so few acres. Bureau experts advocate spreading this excess population over the commonwealth.

Area Very Small And what's the answer to this startling estimate of the situation? Well, it's true that the United Kingdom has an area of only 94,279 square miles on which to support a population of 40,000,000. Nine of America's 48 states are bigger than the United Kingdom.

England is a sweet country with its lovely flower-gardens and green lawns and endless miles of hedges. However, the fact remains that she can't begin to provide food for her big population and has to import some 60 per cent of her foodstuffs. This was harshly impressed on her in the two world wars when she ran short of rations because of enemy blockades. Migration Follows War Quite likely that had something to do with causing a heavy emigration of Britons to the dominions right after the late war. However, part of the exodus was due to the fact that British soldiers had seen fresh opportunities while they were overseas, and were moved by the spirit of adventure to emigrate.

It impelled Winston Churchill an August 16, 1947, to appeal to his countrymen in a broadcast not to go away. He said he was shocked to learn of the projected heavy voluntary emigration of Britons at a time when the country needed labor.

"I say to them," he begged, "stay here and fight it out. Do not desert the old land."

The British government has studied this question of emigration, and while it isn't blocking departure from the home land, all the indications are that it doesn't believe heavy emigration is for the good of the country.

The government takes the position that Britain's economic troubles can't be solved by heavy migration. It holds that there is no unemployment but that there is useful work for all.

No More Movies Says Housewife Alice Faye

By HOWARD C. HEYN (For Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 19. —(AP)—Alice Faye, as fetchingly blonde as ever and as slim as a model, says Phil Harris will be the movie star in their family from now on.

"I'm happy to be doing just exactly what I've been doing for forty years," she said at the Fibber McGee and Molly cocktail party the other night. What she's been doing since the fall of 1945, when she completed "Fallen Angel," is being Mrs. Harris, housewife and mother. And, when the "Faye-Harris" radio season starts in the near future, she'll be Mrs. Harris on the air also.

Her identification on the radio show — "Miss Faye appears through the courtesy of Twentieth Century-Fox etc." — gives just the impression she wants. That she still is a star on the top lists. Technically she is, but actually she isn't.

"I owe the studio one picture, but I'm never going to make it—or, I think now, any other picture," she said. "Harris is going to be the family's star. He has just finished 'Wabash Avenue' and he's wonderful. No, I haven't seen it, but I know he's wonderful. It's in color and, boy, does that wavy hair look good in color."

Iowa City Wants To Get Out Of Housing Business

CHARLES CITY, Iowa —(AP)—Housing shortage? They are offering new houses here with a new stove and refrigerator thrown in as inducement to buy. More than that, there was a $2,000 price cut.

The stoves and refrigerators are the latest offers of this community's non-profit Home Building Corporation to get buyers for the last two of 23 houses it built. It has managed finally to get occupants—either renters or buyers—for the other 21.

It has been a long, slow process, says Mayor Harold S. Henry, president of the Charles City Development Co., Inc. The Home-Building Corporation was formed by 86 Charles City residents in an attempt to solve the housing problem of this agricultural-industrial city of 10,000. Now, after three years, the city wants to get out of the home building business.

"I don't know why I've lived so long," said he, "except I've never refused a drink."

Petty Thieves Becoming Felons Through Inflation

GEARHART —(AP)—A lot of petty thieves are becoming felons these days, and it's all the fault of inflation.

It used to be that a shoplifter could take a topcoat, and, if caught, get only a petit larceny sentence.

That was when the topcoat was worth about $25. But now the coat is worth $50—and any theft over $30 is a felony and brings a stiffer sentence.

But the Oregon State bar is trying to do something about it. The attorneys at the annual bar convention recommended that the petit larceny limit be lifted to $100.

The convention also proposed a change in the bar's code of ethics to prohibit attorneys from advertising in newspapers.

Some speakers suggested tighter restrictions on state commissions, so that publication of regulations should be required, restrictions on court appeals be removed and hearsay evidence be limited.

Motorists Must Stop For School Buses Within City

Motorists must stop for school buses that has stopped to pick up or unload children within the city limits as well as in rural areas, Chief of Police C. H. Baird reminded today.

Chief Baird said many drivers were probably unaware of the fact that the new school bus stopping law also applies to city streets. The law, enacted by the state legislature last spring as a safeguard for bus-riding school children, requires motorists to stop when coming up behind or passing from the opposite direction a school bus that is loading or unloading passengers.

"This means traffic from both directions must stop," Baird pointed out. "Cars must remain stopped as long as any children are leaving the bus or crossing the roadway."

The only exception is traffic moving in the opposite direction on the other side of a three or four-lane roadway, which may pass with caution.
