

Clothing Drive For Overseas Aid Ministers' Plan

An all-out, city-wide clothing drive was announced today by the Rev. Walter A. MacArthur of the Roseburg Ministerial association. MacArthur, the chairman in charge, stated that the coming winter months in Europe and the orient will accentuate as never before the terrific lack of proper clothing. The recent upset in international economics will be an additional reason for an abundance of clothing from America to be available.

The Ministerial association is to send all clothing thus received through the Church World Service program, an organization of many denominations, with direct channels for distribution overseas. It is hoped said MacArthur, that all families in the community, regardless of faith or creed, will participate in this desperately needed program.

The plan stressed by MacArthur is that of asking those who have clothing to share with those overseas, unfortunates to bring such parcels to the various churches of the community on Sunday, Oct. 2, which in most cases will be observed as World Communion Sunday.

Arrangements have been made with the local school authorities whereby the youngsters may bring such clothing to their respective schools on Wednesday, Thursday or Friday, Sept. 22, 23 and 24. All clothing delivered to the schools or churches will be immediately picked up and shipped to the countries on Oct. 3. There will be no delay in handling and within a matter of a very few days all collected material will be in use in foreign homes.

Business District's New Lights Will Burn Tonight

The new lighting system in the business district will be turned on tonight. The system, covering the business area, provides light on these streets where traffic is very heavy and hazardous during the early dark hours of the winter months.

The lighting system is one of the very latest on the market, giving the covered area the best lighting system of any city in the state, according to standards. The standards have replaced the existing light posts. The lamps provide a white light at least 19 times as bright as that of the present system of 54 standards, with 2,400 lumen lamps. The old lights reflect the light rays up, with less than 10 foot candle light existing on the pavement in the area near the light standard.

The new lights, reflecting the light downward, will produce 200-foot candlepower directly below them, and no place on the street between the standards will be lit by less than 50 candlepower, or five times as bright as existing standards.

The system, covering the business area, provides light on these streets where traffic is very heavy and hazardous during the early dark hours of the winter months.

Northwest Chief Logging Engineer For U. S. Named

William E. Bates, presently assigned to the Rogue River national forest, has been selected to fill the position of chief logging engineer of the Pacific Northwest region of the United States forest service.

Bates, a graduate in forest management from the university of Washington, is to fill the position vacated by the retirement of Newell L. Wright.

Following his graduation in 1933, Bates served on the Shawnee national forest in Illinois. In 1942 he was transferred to the Pacific Northwest region as inspector for the forest service in the aircraft warning program.

After the war Bates served on the staff of the Olympic national forest handling timber management activities. He transferred to the forest service office in Medford, Oregon, in 1946.

Two Portland Fires Deal $600,000 Damage

Two fires in Portland dealt $600,000 damage. One fire destroyed a building, while the other damaged a warehouse.

Fire Marshal Miles Woodworth put the tentative estimate of damage at $105,000. A stubborn roof fire at a block-long automotive supply building resulted in extensive smoke and water damage last night. One fireman was hurt.

George Rotegard, president of the Tracy and Company Auto electric service, did not estimate the damage. He said the building held about $400,000 in stock and $100,000 in equipment.

Resuscitator Buy Canyonville Plan

The Canyonville Volunteer Fire department has obtained the backing of the Canyonville Lions club in the purchase of an Emerson resuscitator, which will be available to the entire community in cases of emergency.

The resuscitator is designed to restore breathing by bringing oxygen to a stricken person's lungs. The apparatus adjusts automatically to care for an adult, a child, or even a baby, as the air pressures are regulated to amounts that cannot harm a human lung.

Resuscitation, aspiration and inhalation, all phases of operation, are controlled by one lever for simplicity and the mechanism can be operated by anyone after a few moments of instruction.

The local Lions club proposes to finance the purchase of the resuscitator from the proceeds of the next amateur boxing bout, which will be held in the Canyonville Community hall Saturday night, Sept. 24.
