Military Rule Of Western Germany Comes To An End

BOONN, Germany, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Military government rule in western Germany ended Wednesday and was replaced by a high commission of the United States, Britain and France.

The ceremony opened with west German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer informing the three allied high commissioners that he had formed a German Federal government. Andre Francois-Poncel, speaking for the commissioners, said in reply that an occupation statute—a form of peace treaty—went into effect "at this very moment."

The occupation statute gives the Germans far greater rights of self-government than they have possessed since the war. Under the statute, the allies retain controls only over such key affairs as foreign trade and relations, demilitarization, decartelization and displaced persons.

Adenauer described the occasion as the "first contact between the Germans of the Federal Republic and the Allied High Commission." He said that the occupation statute was a "new chapter in German postwar history."

The Chancellor, however, asked the commissioners to consider, as soon as was possible, making revisions that would allow the Germans still greater freedom than they will receive under the statute. Adenauer said Germans must never forget the aid the United States has given them in postwar reconstruction.

At the same time, he rapped Poland and the Soviet union for seizing territory in east Germany and continuing to hold German war prisoners.

Lethal War Trophies Brought Into U. S. Cause 6,000 Death Each Year

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—That German luger that it is charged ex-GI Howard Unruth used to kill 13 people on a Camden, N. J., street was a war trophy. Eighty per cent of all armed crimes committed today are with trophy weapons. They are the perfect crime tool. They can't be traced by ballistics tests or serial numbers. Innocently brought into the country, 10 years from now they could be in a criminal's hand. Officials believe there are still thousands of German lugers and other explosive war trophies in circulation. Henry Schneider of the Treasury Department's Internal Revenue bureau tells me that explosive war trophies are causing 6,000 deaths a year. About 80 per cent of those fatally injured are children.

Most of the deaths and injuries are accidental and result from lack of the trophy owner's knowledge that they are still "alive." Time does not lessen the danger. People are still getting killed from Revolutionary War trophies. The luger, the even deadlier German "burp" gun, the "empty" shell you use as an andiron, the "butterfly mine" on your mantle, small shells—incendiaries or tracers—may go off unexpectedly today or 100 years from now.

This worries Henry Schneider. He used to be a T-man in the

Camp Fire Girls Opening Groups In County Schools

"Be Friendly—Make Friends—Join the Camp Fire Girls." With that slogan Camp Fire Girls in Douglas county have begun their annual membership march, according to Mrs. Harold Hoyt, president of the Camp Fire Girls council.

Though Camp Fire Girls is primarily an organization for girls between the ages of seven and 18; adults are urged to participate as leaders and sponsors. "In fact, Camp Fire is a family affair that's fun for everyone, mother, father and brother—as well as daughter," added Mrs. Hoyt.

News from national headquarters in New York points out that a girl's camp fire interests do not conflict with the home circle. Rather, her new skills and friendships add to the enjoyment and well-being of the entire family.

The youth agency is divided into three age groups: Blue Birds for seven through nine year-olds; Camp Fire Girls, 10 through 15 years; and Horizon clubs, serving senior high school girls.

Programs of all groups are based on the seven crafts: home, creative arts, outdoors, frontiers, business, sports and games and citizenship.

Groups are being opened in all the schools in Roseburg and in many outlying districts. Parents interested in this activity for their children are urged to have them attend the Camp Fire meetings in the schools. The organization, which was founded in 1910, now has a membership of more than 360,000 girls in the United States. The Roseburg council, which comprises Douglas county, had a membership Sept. 1 of 855 girls.

Oregon Wool Sale Collapses Under Pound Devaluing

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Western Wool Handlers association wool sale collapsed yesterday as buyers, fearful of the pound devaluation effect on prices, cut their offers or withheld them.

Only two lots in the morning's two-million-pound offering received bids and owners refused to sell at the prices quoted. Bids were sealed and prices were not made public, but Roy Ward, general manager of the large Pacific Wool Growers, a cooperative, said he understood they were 15 to 20 percent down from prices paid Sept. 16 at the association's Billings, Mont., auction.

"The domestic wool market is temporarily on the blink," he said. "I think buyers are over-pessimistic. I have talked with the secretary of commerce (Charles Sawyer, in Portland yesterday) and he, too, thinks the devaluation effect will be less than many people fear. This situation isn't as black as it's painted."

Wednesday's was the third sealed bid sale by the newly formed Western Wool Handlers association. The first two, at Denver and Billings, brought good prices—about $1.25 to $1.50 a scoured pound for the type of wool shown here yesterday. The next sale is scheduled Monday at San Francisco.

"There will be a showing of wool at San Francisco, but it may not be a sale," Ward said. He added that many of the 24 buyers here today expected to leave for the East. That likely means cancellation of scheduled sales at Salt Lake City, Casper, Wyo., Beix Fouche and Newell, S. D., he said.

Oregon Wool Sale Knowland Joins Demand To Trim Arms Aid Money

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) Wednesday joined a drive in the Senate to slash the $1,314,010,000 foreign arms program.

He told his colleagues the administration had "failed to justify" the need for the full amount. Knowland said he will support Senator George (D-Ga.) in his efforts to trim $200,000,000 from the cash proposed for arms aid.

And if this move fails, Knowland said, then he will offer a compromise plan of his own. He proposes to cut $100,000,000 from the cash authorization and another $100,000,000 from the contract authority.

Knowland voted for the bill when it was approved by the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees. He is a member of the latter committee.

But he said many who voted for the measure did so with a firm understanding they could try later to make any changes they believed necessary.

There is still room for improvement, he said, and for this reason he would vote for a cut.
