

Arab-Jewish Situation At Jerusalem Not Inviting For Holy Year Pilgrims In 1950

JERUSALEM, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Holy year pilgrims to Rome in 1950 have only a slim chance of being able to visit Jerusalem, the Holy City of Christendom.

In 1933—the last holy year—thousands of the faithful flocked to Jerusalem and other shrines in Palestine either before or after their trip to Rome.

Today, however, a state of war still exists around the Holy City, although an armistice has stopped actual fighting.

Military and other restrictions make travel difficult. There is no passage through the armistice demarcation lines except to a privileged few—chiefly United Nations personnel.

Even if tourists could get here, there is no place for them to stay. Arab refugees have crowded into every habitable place on the Arab side of the line. Limited hotel accommodations are stretched to capacity by U. N. employees. Pilgrim hotels, like the hospice Notre Dame de France, have been wrecked by the fighting.

The picture may brighten if the U. N. general assembly is able to arrive at a satisfactory solution on the future of Jerusalem. It has before it a proposal by its Palestine conciliation commission to split the city into Arab and Jewish zones, with a U. N. commissioner authorized to protect the holy places in the vicinity and an international court to settle disputes.

Neither Arabs nor Jews have indicated acceptance of such an arrangement.

Churchmen are not optimistic about holy year pilgrims being able to come here on any large scale, no matter what happens. They believe, however, there is a possibility of a few special groups—such as church dignitaries—being granted entry.

Church sources say Israel so far has permitted only a handful of religious pilgrims to enter Jewish territory to visit or inspect holy places.

Israel holds such places as the Holy Cenacle—site of the last supper—just outside the old walled city; Nazareth to the north, where Christ spent the first 30 years of his life; and Cana in Galilee, where Christ performed his first miracle.

On the Arab side, in or near Jerusalem, are the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, the Garden of Gethsemane and the Mount of Olives. The Arabs also hold Bethlehem to the south.

A large influx of pilgrims undoubtedly would bring much-needed currency to both Israel and Arab Palestine. This factor may influence favorable decisions clearing away present obstacles.

to tourists. Egypt, for example, has planned a propaganda campaign aimed at attracting pilgrims there during their stay in the Mediterranean area.

Flight Contests Are Started By Canyonville Club

The South Umpqua Model club of Canyonville held its first flight contest Sunday, Sept. 25. Boys entering the contest were Jerry Zumwalt, Bill Hoffee, Andy Worrall and Maynard Hoff. Club members expressed the opinion the contest was held too soon after organizing as many of the boys had models started but were unable to finish in such a short time. However another contest is scheduled the latter part of November, and there will be more contestants at that time.

First prize, a class A engine, went to Jerry Zumwalt. Second prize, a set of flying wires, was awarded to Andy Worrall.

Several members of the Roseburg Model club brought their models down and staged an exhibition show, among them was Floyd Ward, who put on an exhibition aerobatic flight with his stunt wagon 30.

Judges were Warren Jeffrey, Roseburg, president of the Roseburg Model club; Carl Fair, Roseburg, a member of the executive board of the Roseburg Model club; Charles Hamlin and Ladd Womack, both of Canyonville.

President Tom B. Campbell expressed his appreciation to all the members of the Roseburg club for the interest and to all the local club members for their enthusiasm for the first flight contest.

The next regular meeting of the South Umpqua Model club will be held Sunday, Oct. 2, at 1 p. m. After a short business meeting the boys will take their planes out to fly.

Darrell Vredenburg, club vice-president, is ill.

Fall Style Show Especially For 4-H Clothing Members Set At Junior High Monday

Especially for 4-H clothing members and leaders, a fall style show, entitled "Footlight Fashions for the 4-H Club Modern Miss," will be held at the Roseburg junior high auditorium, starting at 4:15 p. m. Monday.

In charge will be Miss Ada Marshall, 4-H club stylist for the Simplicity Pattern company, and Mrs. Winnifred Gillen, state 4-H club agent. Sixteen garments, including outfits for school, sports, wear, dates and formal parties, will be modeled.

According to the announcement from the office of County Club Agent Frank Von Borstel Jr., Mrs. Gillen will speak briefly about garment construction and judging style revues, and then Miss Marshall will present the style show.

These garments will all be new 1949 fall styles and such as the 4-H members can make themselves. Since this is at the beginning of the 4-H year, they can get some good ideas, said Von Borstel. Topics which Miss Marshall will include are the selection of suitable style for the Junior Miss, picking the right material and use of accessories. The home economics classes of the Roseburg schools are also invited to attend the show, which will last a little more than an hour.

"We are fortunate to have the opportunity to see this show, as Miss Marshall is to be in Oregon only six days," said Von Borstel. She flew here from New York for the Pacific International exposition in Portland. A former 4-H member herself.

Deer Tournament Plan Of Eagles

The Roseburg Eagles lodge is holding a deer tournament for members of the lodge.

The tournament will include the largest buck deer, either white tail, mule or black tail. A prize will be given for the largest one of each kind. The only requirement is that the deer be weighed at the Sanitary Meat market on West Cass street. The member must get a weight slip and be present at the lodge meeting. The lodge meets each Tuesday at 8 p. m.

At last Tuesday's meeting, a committee was set up to collect used and broken toys to be distributed to shut-in and needy children for Christmas.

These toys can be brought to the Eagles hall, corner of Cass and Pine, or the addresses where they may be picked up may be mailed or called to the secretary. Everyone who has toys not wanted should turn them in even if broken, because in some cases parts off one may be used to repair another.
