HAVING A RAFT OF FUN—Nineteen-year-old Mark Strider sets out from Dayton, Ky., bound for New Orleans, La., on a home-made raft. The modern Huck Finn doesn't even have a map to show him the way, but says, "Somebody told me it's 1236 miles to New Orleans, and I just like to travel."

Married Teachers Upheld By Montana Official

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Miss Mary Condon, Montana's superintendent of public instruction, spoke out Monday in behalf of married teachers. Miss Condon told a group of educators that, while the teachers' union opposes employment of married teachers, she herself "would rather have married teachers than no teachers at all."

That, she said, might be the alternative in these days of shortage. She cited a case in which single teachers, without college educations, were given $250 per month jobs provided they went to summer school. Hiring such untrained women to teach, she said, meant paying $250 a month "to a baby sitter, and not a good baby sitter at that." She urged schools not to lower teachers' educational requirements. Miss Condon spoke at the opening of the western regional conference of the Council of State Governments here. Low Navy Morale Threatens U. S. Security, Admirals Say; Probe By Congress Probable

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—(AP)—A secrecy-shrouded sheaf of papers indicating deep concern among high officers over navy morale brought a promise today of a thorough congressional investigation. In the documents—which came to light under highly unusual circumstances—three top admirals say the spirits of navy men are at such a low ebb that national security is imperiled.

Chairman Vinson (D-GA) said the House Armed Services committee will "get to the bottom of this" as soon as possible. The committee will be busy for some time yet with its B-36 bomber investigation, scheduled to be resumed tomorrow.

The Navy complaints were contained in typed copies of papers signed with the names of Admiral Louis Denfield, chief of naval operations; Vice Admiral Gerald F. Bogan, commander of the first Pacific fleet; and Admiral A. W. Radford, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet.

Vinson told newsmen the complaints, in view of "the responsibility and high standing" of the men whose names were signed to them, merit full consideration.

He noted, though, that they were not official documents officially released and said, too, that there was a possibility that propaganda on behalf of the navy might have been the motive behind their publication. In speaking of such a possible purpose he was referring to navy complaints, some public and some otherwise, that the navy is getting a bad deal out of the "unification" of the army, navy and air force.

The gist of the documents was this:

1. A statement by Denfield that a "navy stripped of its offensive power means a nation stripped of its offensive power."

2. An assertion by Bogan that navy morale has sunk "almost to despondency" because of "a false bill of goods."

3. A statement by Radford that most Pacific fleet officers concur in Bogan's and Captain G. Crommelin's views. Crommelin has publicly charged that the navy's attack force is being "hubbled to death" at defense headquarters.
