

Newcomers Get Plea To Help In Red Cross Service

Red Cross volunteer service presents an excellent opportunity for newcomers to the City of Roseburg to get acquainted and at the same time achieve considerable personal satisfaction through the performance of a needed and worthwhile community activity.

That was a statement of Douglas Simms, executive secretary of the Douglas County chapter of the American Red Cross, who today issued an appeal for volunteer workers.

"Many people who are 'short time' residents of Roseburg have found that their social outlets are somewhat limited because of their 'newness' in the community," said Simms. "It is to these people that the local chapter of the Red Cross addresses its appeal for volunteers."

"It is the feeling of the chapter board of directors that as a volunteer Red Cross worker, newcomers to our city would be able to greatly shorten that 'getting acquainted period' and would soon find themselves firmly established as members of an enthusiastic group of community-minded citizens engaged in the performance of much-needed services, either in the Roseburg Veterans hospital or in the chapter headquarters," he said.

"There are ample opportunities for volunteers to serve in the entertainment and instruction corps, staff aide corps, motor corps, or in the Gray Lady group at the hospital; or as members of the production and supply corps or the social welfare aide groups at chapter headquarters."

"Anyone interested in the Red Cross volunteer services, regardless of previous Red Cross experience, is invited to contact chapter headquarters in the armory (telephone 832).

"Red Cross feels that the feeling of satisfaction experienced by Red Cross volunteers is one of the important contributions of the organization to its members."

Simms said prospective volunteers may contact: Mrs. Edward Titcomb, volunteer services chairman; Mrs. Joseph Boudreau, Gray Lady chairman; Miss Maryanna Peterson, field director, American Red Cross, at the Veterans hospital; or Miss Ruth Swinney, Junior Red Cross chairman.

Aluminum Workers Join In Pension Strike

recommended by the board—but not unless the steelworkers contribute too.

Big Aluminum Company of America, which makes 50 per cent of the nation's aluminum, says it met the steelworkers' demand for six cents for pensions and four cents for insurance.

The company said negotiations collapsed Friday night over the union's refusal to accept a provision that the proposed pension plan be subject to any future adjustment in federal social security laws.

Alcoa Strike Orderly
There was little, if any picketing, at Alcoa's plants. At New Kensington, Pa., where 4,000 are employed, three union representatives and three company officials appeared at the main gate.

"This strike is very orderly," an official commented. "The men simply are not coming to work."

Other Alcoa operations were struck at Badin, N. C.; Alcoa, Tenn.; Bridgeport, Conn.; Edgewater, N. J.; Detroit; Bauxite, Ark.; Richmond, Ind., and Mobile, Ala.

As the steelworkers struck Alcoa, Murray continued his stumping tour of the steel centers at Bethlehem, Pa.

"Frankly, I do not know when the strike will end," the veteran labor leader said at a news conference.

Then, in a speech to some 20,000 steelworkers, Murray declared some steel companies "believe the non-contributory principle in pensions is okay for steel executives but not for the workers."

Murray said he has been out of touch with U. S. Conciliation Director Cyrus Ching and added the steelworkers are "prepared for an enduring struggle to win the security to which every human being is entitled."

The steelworkers made no immediate estimate of the number of fabricators closed down during the week end. So far, 28 fabricators—employing about 50,000—have settled with the union. They've agreed to pay the entire cost of employee pension and insurance programs.

The soft coal miners have been idle since September 19. They quit after their pension and welfare payments were suspended.

Marine Corps' Head Hits At Army Agenda

the Air Force have joined up to outvote the Navy, 21. Cates and Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, a former commandant of Marines, were called as the last witnesses for the Navy. Next the committee will hear the other side of the dispute from air force and army men.

What Navy Wants
Broadly, the Navy's argument is this:

First, that present military policy puts too much reliance on the air force high flying B-36 bomber and the atomic bomb.

Second, that the other services want to do away with the Marine Corps and naval aviation, reducing the navy to a transport and anti-submarine force.

Cates said he heartily endorsed everything the Navy has been saying along that line.

For two years, the Marine commandant said, a lot of the time, energy and attention of the Marine Corps leadership has been consumed by resisting "inroads and incursions" against the corps.

These "inroads" have been going on, he said, despite the specific protection thrown around the corps by Congress when it passed the unification law putting the Army, Navy and Air Force under one department.

Marines' Power Weakened
Cates added:

"The manifest combat power of the Marine Corps is being destroyed and dissipated and its mobilization potential ignored."

Cates said the "Army general staff group" stands today within "measurable distance" of achieving three objectives against the Marines, in spite of what the law says.

He listed the objectives this way:

1. That Marine units be limited to regiment size and the corps cut to 50,000 to 60,000 men.

2. That amphibious warfare, the specialty of the Marines, be recognized as an army function.

3. That the Marine Corps not be expanded appreciably in wartime.

Cates went on to complain that fundamental questions regarding Marine weapons and equipment are passed on by Army, Navy and Air Force officers.

Marines' Ignored
The Marines have no important post in the defense department, he said, and thus "lack adequate representation" in matters vitally concerning them and the national defense.

From its "submerged position at the bottom of this vast administrative structure," Cates remarked, it is hard for the Marine Corps to keep the position Congress intended it to have.

Cates said the solution of present troubles doesn't lie in more laws but in "a simple show of loyalty and good will in complying with the spirit of the law we have," in the "type of teamwork that the American people expect their leaders in uniform to display."

"Craft-A-Month" Plan
Slated For Outlining
A meeting to plan the YMCA-sponsored "craft-a-month" program will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Methodist church basement. "Y" secretary Marlen Yoder announced.

Persons who know some craft and are willing to devote a little time teaching other adults are requested to attend the initial meeting Tuesday night. At this time, the YMCA will determine if sufficient voluntary leadership is available to warrant beginning such a program.

According to preliminary plans, the group will meet once a week, in order to offer different craft instruction during the year. Four craft sessions a month are planned. The Rev. W. A. MacArthur has consented to aid in the program and will be in charge of ordering materials.

Jack Mathis On OSC Rooks '11' In Friday Game

CORVALLIS, Oct. 17.—(Special)—Jack Mathis, the captain and a standout tackle on the 1948 Roseburg high school eleven that fought to a 19-19 tie with the state champion Grants Pass team, started for the Oregon State "Rooks" Friday afternoon against the U. of O. Frosh team.

The combination that clicked for the "Frosh" was the passing attack of Hal Durnham on the tacking end and Jack Wilkens on the receiving end. The Oregon State "Rooks" lost 33-6.

The defeat broke a string of "Rook" victories since the end of the war. In 1946 there was no official club, but the Oregon State Junior varsity, composed mostly of freshmen, defeated the baby Ducks twice, repeating the feat in 1947 and 1948. The two lineups were sprinkled with all-state material coming from the Shrine game played last August in Portland.

Out of a field of twenty-three candidates for Homecoming queen a list of ten was announced Thursday, which included Joyce Graham from Roseburg, representing Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. From the ten that are now left, five will be selected next Tuesday. This group will compose the court with one girl being chosen queen Thursday night. The identification of the queen will be kept secret until the Mid-night show being held during Homecoming weekend at 10:30 on October 28. The Homecoming will be held Oct. 27-28, with the football game with Washington State college Saturday as the main attraction.

Sigma Nu, one of 28 national fraternities on the Oregon State college campus recently initiated seven men including Clyde Olmscheid, Roseburg. Sigma Nu is the fraternity which Stanton Cornutt of Roseburg and Edward Shirliff of Myrtle Creek pledged during the first rush week Sept. 26.

Four high school bands from neighboring cities participated in the first OSC Band Day Saturday. They marched in a downtown parade before the OSC-Montana football game and played at half-time.

TRAFFIC FINES PAID
Judge Ira B. Riddle reported disposition of the following cases involving traffic violations:

Vernor Roy Benson, Winston, speeding and no operator's license, $15 fine paid; Vernon Darrell Clement, Roseburg, failure to yield the right of way, $10 fine paid; Claude Dwain Hensley, Drain, reckless driving, forfeited $50 bail.

Patients Nicely Treated
At Eugene Football Game
Patients from the Veterans hospital at Roseburg were royally entertained as guests of the University of Oregon at Saturday's football game in Eugene.

A busload of patients made the trip, according to "Dick" Malarkey, hospital reporter. The group was given an ovation from the stands when introduced over the public address system, and Bill Kirkpatrick, Donna May Brennan, Portland, and Sally Waller, Eugene, a committee on student activities, brought cigarettes, coffee and soft drinks for the visitors.

Following the game, Malarkey reports, a steak dinner was served at Eugene's Veterans Memorial hall, where the group was entertained by seven veterans organizations.

CIO Steel Strike Not To Get Aid Of AFL

That wasn't exactly what Lewis was talking about. He suggested that at least nine AFL unions were rich enough to join with the United Mine Workers in contributing $250,000 a week each towards the steel strike.

Sawyer said that the steel strike which began Oct. 1 has cut steel production to 10 percent of capacity causing metal-consuming industries to draw on their existing inventories. Should the strike continue to Nov. 15, "it is expected that shortly after that date 80 percent of the production of these steel-consuming industries will be lost, with serious damage to the nation's economy."

Sawyer expressed concern for more than 200,000 small manufacturing firms and additional thousands of service establishments which he said depend on steel.

Lewis' "Grandstanding"
There was no immediate indication that his survey of the possible effects of the strike was an advance signal for some drastic government move.

Murray, in a carefully worded statement, also suggested that the steelworkers to the last man would "lend help and assistance to the mine workers."

Lewis' critics said he was making "a grandstand play" to boost the morale of his own miners, who have been on strike since Sept. 19. The union, although it had more than $13,000,000 in its treasury at last report, pays no direct strike benefits. Miners at St. Michael, Pa., telegraphed Lewis that "we believe a kitty should be raised to alleviate poverty in the mining fields first."

Canadian Immigration authorities boarded the train here for the trip to Vancouver, B. C.
