

Unconfirmed Reported Tragic Death Of Days Creek Man After Quitting Air Force Launches Red Cross Hunt

Inquiries as to the whereabouts of Millard Schaefer, 21, of Days Creek are being made in San Francisco today by officials of the American Red Cross. Schaefer was discharged from the air force at Camp Stoneman, Calif., in February of this year and his parents have not heard from him since.

Mrs. Arley Schaefer, his mother, told the local Red Cross chapter Tuesday that a woman representing herself to be from the Red Cross came to her home at Days Creek at 10 o'clock that morning, to inform her that her son had been "fatally injured in an automobile accident at San Francisco."

Douglas S. L. m. s., executive secretary of the Douglas county Red Cross chapter, said he had received no such information. A check with the Red Cross at San Francisco indicated that neither the police, coroner, or other agencies there had information of any accident which might have taken young Schaefer's life.

Mrs. Schaefer said the woman who represented herself as being from the Red Cross drove up to her home, over three miles of rough road, in a "late model Buick sedan," blue gray in color. The woman was gray-haired, wore a dark suit, and carried a black valise. A black bulldog rode the front seat of her car, Mrs. Schaefer added.

Denied Ride In Auto

She said the woman told her Millard had been killed in an automobile accident at San Francisco at 2 o'clock Monday, and "because identification of the body was not positive," would she bring photographs of her son to the Red Cross office in Roseburg at 3 o'clock that afternoon?

Mrs. Schaefer said she asked the woman if she could ride back with her to Roseburg, but she replied, "No, I have business up at Tiller."

Millard is described as being about five feet, nine inches tall, weighing about 180 pounds, and with blonde hair. He lived most of his life at Bend and in Deschutes county, prior to going to Days Creek with his parents three years ago. He enlisted in the air force in January, 1945.

Mrs. Schaefer said she and her husband had received a card from their son shortly before his discharge in February of this year. They received his clothing and belongings shortly afterwards, but he himself did not return home.

Last summer, when the Schaefers enlisted the aid of the Red Cross, Millard was traced from Camp Stoneman to Arkansas, and back prices, with the government paying subsidies to farmers to assure them a pre-determined "fair" price for their products. The administration is not expected to give up its fight for the Brannan plan, however. The issue may prove to be an important one in the 1950 congressional campaign which involve the entire house and one-third of the seats in the senate.

Compromise Reached On Farm Prices' Support

These are the major provisions of the compromise:

1. It directs the secretary of agriculture to support the six basic crops—cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco, rice and peanuts—at 90 per cent of parity next year if restrictions are placed on planting or marketing. For 1951 the session of congress, expected to be from 80 to 90 per cent. After that they could vary from 75 to 90.

2. It allows two differing parity formulas to operate on these basic crops, with the higher of the two to be used until 1954. The newer formula then would go into effect for good. Parity is a price computed to give a farm product the same relative purchasing power it had in a past favorable period.

3. It allows supports on all other crops to move up or down in relation to supply, with special treatment accorded dairy products. These must be supported at from 75 to 90 per cent. Supports at from 60 to 90 per cent apply to Irish potatoes; wool, including mohair; honey; and tungnuts. Other farm products could be supported from zero to 90 per cent, with the decision left up to the secretary of agriculture.

May Keep Prices High

If the administration chooses to continue present support levels under the new program—as it is expected to—no substantial reduction in food costs can be expected, with the possible exception of beef, lamb and eggs.

The compromise plan provides no new method for handling costly surpluses. As is the case now, the government would buy up the surplus, remove it from the market and dispose of it abroad or in non-commercial outlets at home if it could. If the government couldn't dispose of it, it would have to take a loss.

to the home of a friend in San Francisco.

This seemed to write off Lewis' hopes for AFL aid in Murray's steel strike. There was no indication that Lewis would go it alone and provide his proposed $250,000 weekly from the miners union treasury.

Green is leading a delegation of top AFL leaders to Europe in the next several weeks. They expect to go to London to take part in forming a new world labor federation. The CIO is also sending a delegation.

Lewis may send representatives, too, but he has not decided. The leaders of the three big divisions of organized U. S. labor once were closely associated but have split widely as the labor movement divided.

High government officials say Nourse in effect has told Mr. Truman he is quitting Nov. 1 whether his resignation is accepted or not.

A Gallup Poll indicates most Americans are in favor of radio giveaways. Years ago people used to dream of finding a gold mine, striking oil or discovering a pot of lucre at the end of the rainbow. Now they just tune their radios to a giveaway show and hope their telephone bill is paid so that nothing will interfere with a lucky call. We're as optimistic as a politician's promises. The fact that chances are several million to one against us cuts no more ice than a bit of damp macaroni. It's silly to think... oops, pardon me, there's my telephone ringing! ### Vishinsky Fights To Bar Yugoslavia At U. N.

five before important problems come up in the council, in an effort to cut down vetoes on obviously unagreed questions.

Vishinsky's Claim Draws Dry Answer From Acheson

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. — (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson said today Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky is wrong in claiming that election of Yugoslavia to the U. N. security council would be illegal and contrary to a gentlemen's agreement.

Acheson drily told a news conference that as an eastern European Slav communist state, Yugoslavia appears to be fully qualified for a council seat, except that it presently lacks complete domination by the kremlin.

Acheson discussed the American-Russian row over Yugoslavia as a result of statements made by the Soviet foreign minister at a news conference in New York yesterday.

Vishinsky said that what he called Anglo-American backing for Yugoslavia as a small nation, eastern European member of the council would be illegal, would violate a gentlemen's agreement and would have "painful effects" on United Nations affairs.

Acheson said he thought that Vishinsky had implied that there was an understanding—evidently among the great powers—that he would be able to name a member of the council. Acheson asserted that was an agreement that he had never heard of.

In response to a question, he said that there had been a kind of practice of selecting the small nation members of the council on a regional basis and more or less by agreement among the nations in each region. The council has 11 members in all—five are so-called great powers which hold their seats temporarily and six are elected every two years.

He made it plain that the United States still supports Yugoslavia's candidacy, despite Vishinsky's blast.

Britain And Scandinavian Group Oppose Soviet Stand

LONDON, Oct. 19. — (AP) — Britain tapped today a Russian claim that election of Yugoslavia to the United Nations security council would be unlawful and unjust.

A foreign office spokesman, commenting on a statement made by Russian Foreign Minister Vishinsky at Lake Success yesterday charged Vishinsky with trying to bring pressure on United Nations members to vote against Yugoslavia.

Russia is backing the candidacy of Czechoslovakia for the seat on the security council being vacated by the Ukraine.

The spokesman told a news conference Britain still intended to vote for Czechoslovakia, but added:

"It is the view of his majesty's government that the Soviet attempt to bring pressure for the election of Czechoslovakia is to be deprecated and is likely to produce most unfavorable effects."

He would not elaborate. Meanwhile Norway and Denmark also were reported planning to vote for Czechoslovakia for the council. In Copenhagen, a usually well informed source said Sweden would vote in favor of Yugoslavia.

In Oslo the Norwegian foreign ministry announced it would "follow the established practice of voting for that candidate which within a certain geographical area is preferred by a majority of the countries concerned"—meaning Soviet-backed Czechoslovakia.

method to try to match the electrical stimulation of nerves that goes on under both normal and abnormal physiological conditions in the body.

The actual radio receiver is only an inch and one-quarter in diameter.

The receiver is a perfect sphere enclosed in a plastic non-irritating substance. It is connected by means of a plastic enclosed special wire to a tiny silver foil electrode which can be fitted over a nerve like a collar.

When the dogs were all set, the scientists started broadcasting to them on a frequency of 1,000 kilocycles—a frequency which happens to be right smack in the middle of the commercial broadcast band.

"We found," reported Dr. John J. Farrell of Albany Medical college, "that we were interfering with the reception of one of the local radio stations."

Farrell and his associates then made adjustments in their procedure.
