Jersey Governor Aims To Be First To Succeed Self

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 4.—(P)—Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll next Tuesday will try to do something no other New Jersey governor could do — succeed himself as the state's chief executive.

A decisive victory might well stamp the 47-year-old governor as a front runner for the 1952 Republican Presidential nomination.

Driscoll is the first New Jersey governor to seek the office under a new state constitution, adopted in 1947, which permits a governor to serve a consecutive term.

His opponent in the Tuesday election is Democrat Elmer H. Wene, a onetime Congressman backed by Frank "Boss" Hague whose once all-powerful political machine has been creaking of late.

How much influence Hague still wields may determine the election which many politicians see as a close one.

During his campaign Driscoll has stressed his record as governor the past three years. On numerous occasions he has jabbed at the present Democratic national administration.

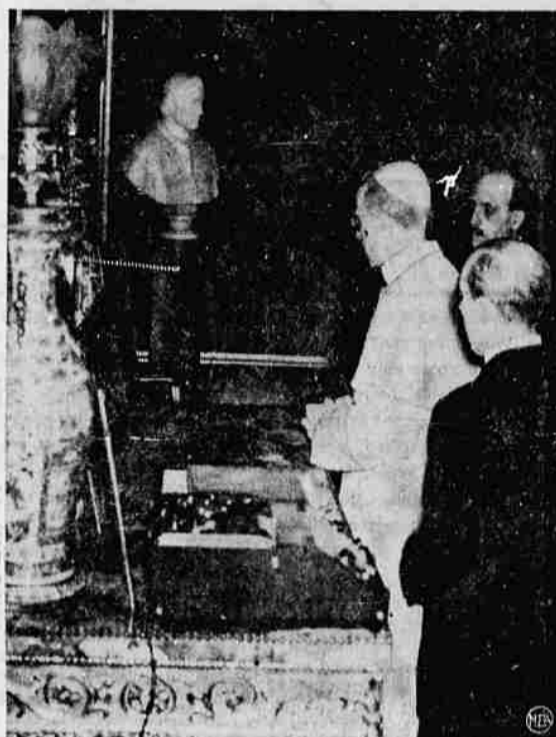

In discussing his record Driscoll points to a new streamlined state government and enactment of a program of civil rights and social measures. This, his associates say, has placed him among the leaders of the GOP Liberal wing.

His attacks on the Federal government have centered on taxes and spending. The Democratic party, he says, is the party of big government bent on "centralized power in Washington."

Nursing Home Hit By New Charge

ASTORIA, Nov. 4.—(P)—The State Board of Health, which relicensed a Seaside nursing home last spring, was asked today to take another look at the situation. The Clatsop county welfare administration moved 10 patients from the home Saturday and said they were "inadequately attended."

Mrs. Bertha Roth, county administrator, identified the place as Mary's Nursing home. She said there had been numerous complaints and the State board made an investigation last spring, then continued the license.

The operator of the home, Mrs. Mary E. Aschenbrenner, blamed employees for complaints. She said they had been lax while she and her husband were in Portland.

Mrs. Roth demanded the State board now make a decision on whether the ten welfare patients are to be returned to the Seaside home.

ROAD VACATION ASKED

The Douglas county court has issued a resolution asking the county engineer to examine, with the view toward vacating, a short strip of county road number 6, known as the Edenbowser-Millwood road.

California has 95 institutions of higher learning, 36 colleges and universities, 14 professional schools and 45 junior colleges.
