Here, Mrs. Warren Johnson, from San Jose, Calif., wife of an oil company employe, shows her youngster the real Thanksgiving turkeys from the U. S. A.

Stroble Hears His Crime Detailed In Session Of Court

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22—(AP)—The State of California is moving swiftly to settle its account with Fred Stroble, the little, retired baker who is charged with the brutal sex slaying of six-year-old Linda Joyce Giucoti.

Stroble, 66, will appear for arraignment Friday, just 10 days after the girl's battered body was found in the backyard of his daughter's home where he was staying.

At a preliminary hearing yesterday, Stroble sat with downcast eyes as gruesome details were read from his own confessions. He did not look at Linda's red shoes and an axe on the counsel table. Spectators packed the courtroom.

The confession included a statement that the little girl was killed last Monday in a bedroom at the home of Stroble's daughter because she screamed when he fondled her.

Dr. Frederick Newbarr, county autopsy surgeon, testified that he found 30 to 35 wounds, abrasions and discolorations on Linda's body. There were several skull fractures. Stroble admitted he used a necktie, hammer, axe, icepick and butcher knife in his attack.

The bag-eyed ex-baker summed up his attitude in one sentence to newsmen: "I think it will be better to have things over with as quick as I can."

Ann Sheridan Sues For $350,000 On Contract

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22—(AP)—Ann Sheridan has filed a $350,000 breach of contract suit against RKO Radio Pictures, Inc.

The actress' suit, claims she was contracted to play the feminine lead in the film "Carriage Entrance," but that the studio gave the role to Ava Gardner.

Miss Sheridan said original plans called for her to play opposite Robert Young, but that after he declined, she had approved five other male actors, including Robert Mitchum. Mitchum, she said, will play opposite Miss Gardner.

Paris and New York designers are ganging up to put a little more sparkle into men's clothes. One French tailor says, "Man is in a state of vestimentary inferiority." We wonder if he'd like to step outside and say that. Mme. Schiaparelli burbles, "Men are dying to dress up, only they're afraid of being conspicuous." To help the shy lads out, the designers suggest raspberry linen slacks, black ski outfits with red scarves and green-laced boots, purple opera capes and alligator shoes with inch-high crepe soles. Well, we know a fellow who wears bright red suits... fellow named Santa Claus.

Here's a tip from HENRY KROHN, our alignment expert: Let us check the front system of your car and prevent an accident. No charge for the checkup, remember, and special low prices are now in effect for alignment and wheel balancing.

Washington reports that both marriages and divorces dropped in 1948. This seems to carry out the old quip that the greatest cause of divorce is marriage. Cousin Of Castor Oil Effective In Skin Disease

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—An old drug, a cousin of castor oil, often helps overcome psoriasis, one of the oldest and most stubborn of skin diseases, skin specialists report.
The drug is undecylenic acid, a by-product of castor oil. It has been known for about 90 years, but only lately was tried against psoriasis.
Results vary, but up to 40 percent of patients get rid of the skin ailment, at least temporarily, the studies show.
Psoriasis, one of the four most common skin ailments, is an outbreak of reddish patches of skin with silver-colored scales. They appear mainly on the scalp, and around knees and elbows. The disease may spread over large areas of the body. The outbreaks come and go, and may continue throughout life.
Medical historians report the disease was often mistaken for leprosy, even as late as the middle ages. The cause has not been learned, and for centuries nothing could be done for it.
Some drugs and salves help, but don't bring permanent cure, said Dr. Herman Goodman, associate clinical professor of dermatology and sphilology, New York university medical college. But undecylenic acid, a fat-like chemical, looks promising.
Dr. Henry Harris Periman of Philadelphia tried it on 17 patients with chronic psoriasis. All showed improvement, with relief from itching, and complete or partial clearing up of the scales.
Continued use of the acid also seemed to prevent recurrence of the disease in some patients, Dr. Periman said. It is taken by mouth, in gelatin capsules to hide its bad taste and odor.
Vitamin A brings benefits sometimes also, Dr. Goodman said.

The volt, measurement of electricity, was named after Alessandro Volta, inventor of the voltaic cell, or "wet" battery.
