Prowling Circus Elephant Displays Huge Appetite
CIRCLEVILLE, O.—(AP)—Big Burma is just a little girl, elephant of 7,000 pounds. And she is almost divinely elegant at times. But, oh what a glutton she is! And how she showed it here.
Care-takers of the Mills Bros. circus' winter quarters at the county fairgrounds insist that this is what Burma did:
Around 3 a.m. she broke loose from her stake at one end of a large livestock barn. In the dark she tip-toed past her sleeping handler, then past 30 other sleeping workmen, and thence past a dining table—without rattling a dish.
Her destination: the cookhouse truck at the other end of the barn.
Once arrived, she had an early Thanksgiving dinner which—the circus people insist—consisted of:
One hundred pounds of potatoes, 25 pounds of onions, 20 loaves of bread, 10 pounds of pancake flour, eight candy bars and a box of shredded wheat.

KRNR DIAL-LOG

Rita Williamson, producer of "What's the Name of that Song?" is looking for pet ideas. No, Rita isn't seeking the favored notions of radio fans, she's interested in pets in the strict sense of the word. An animal lover all her life, Rita recently had to give away her little Dachshund because of having to leave him alone in her Huntington beach trailer home when she's busy in Hollywood. She dearly wants a pet but needs one that may be left on its own occasionally and one she would be permitted to carry with her when traveling. Fans of her show are asked not to send in pets—just ideas. Meanwhile, Rita is seriously considering a flying squirrel, common to Mississippi and a tiny animal that trains like but more readily than canines. "What's the Name of that Song?" is a regular Wednesday night feature on KRNR. (8:00-8:30).
Should you arise early on Thanksgiving day and expect us to sign-on at 6 a. m. as per usual . . . you're due for a 45-minute wait. Signing off early too . . . 11 p. m. Special Thanksgiving productions on slate for tomorrow include the Roseburg Ministerial association-sponsored "Annual Thanksgiving Service" at 9:30 a. m., originating from the First Christian church; "U. S. Air Force Thanksgiving Services" recorded in Burtonwood, England, bass of the 59th Air Depot wing of the U. S. Air Force, with a Thanksgiving message from Major General E. W. Anderson of Long Beach, Calif., commanding general of the group. Messages also from various chaplains as well as Thanksgiving hymns sung by the group's youth choir under the direction of Sergeant Luther Sunderland of Moevotown, Pa. (3:00-3:30 p. m.)
Tomorrow night's "I Love a Mystery" thriller will be heard one-half hour earlier . . . 10 to 10:15 p. m., followed by "Music You Want"—10:15 to 10:30 p. m., one time only. At 10:30, Mutual-Don Lee will present a special Thanksgiving festival concert, featuring Noble Cain, noted conductor and composer, directing the 3,000 voices of the Oklahoma State high school chorus. This group will be joined by 1,000 singers and instrumentalists from the Oklahoma Agricultural college. (Thurs., 10:30-11 p. m.)

Court Clarifies Portland Curfew Case Decision

SALEM, Nov. 22—(AP)—A person can walk on the streets of Portland during the curfew hours for exercise or social purposes, and he won't be violating Portland's curfew ordinance.
That's what the State supreme court said today in refusing to reconsider its October 18 opinion which held that the curfew ordinance is constitutional.
The ordinance prohibits any person to be on the streets of Portland between 1 and 5 a. m. unless he discloses a lawful purpose.
Today's opinion denying a rehearing written by Justice James T. Brand, made the earlier opinion more clear.
It said:
"A person complies with the ordinance if in going upon the street he has or discloses a lawful purpose. The use of the streets for the purpose of going to or from points within the city or for the mere purpose of walking for exercise or for merely social purposes, is a lawful use whether in daytime or nighttime."
"And such use of the streets is for a lawful purpose. He goes upon the street as an innocent man entitled to the presumption of innocence and he need take no affirmative action to demonstrate his innocence. The lawfulness of his purpose is disclosed by his use of the streets for the purposes for which they were established. He must be deemed innocent unless his voluntary conduct overcomes the apparent and presumed innocence of his movements by disclosing a purpose to violate some law other than the ordinance in question."
