KEY WEST, Fla., Dec. 3—(P)
— President Truman moved shead today with plans to ask Congress for a strong civil rights program while this country spec-ulated on the range of his new anti-discrimination policy in fed-eral housing.

The White House gave full en-dorsement to a statement by So-licitor General Philip B. Perlman in New York that future housing projects cannot expect federal aid if they write clauses against tenants of any color or creed.

The full extent of this ruling awaited further clarification.

Meanwhile, the President resumed work on the "state of the union" message he will deliver to Congress in January in which he will renew his demands for:

A federal anti-lynching law. 2. Repeal of the poll tax as a requirement for voting for federal officers. A whole series of other laws designed to ban discrimination against Negroes and other minority groups. This same message, to be de-livered in person, also will call for repeal of the Taft-Hartley act and the passage of measures Mr. Truman advocated in his 1948 election campaign.

Varying reports said from three to nine new craters had appeared on the side of the volcano.
A youth who saw the dawn eruption of the main crater said it looked like a "monstrous pyrotechnic spectacle."
"Geysers of flames and sparks soared out of the main crater," he said. "There was a great roar, then silence. It was like looking at a color movie without sound."
The youth said at an altitude of 4,000 feet, on the crupting side of the volcano, the air was "heavy and almost unbreathable."

Skeleton Found; May Be Solution To Disappearance

GRANTS PASS, Dec. 3—(P)—Discovery of a skeleton, hidden in the brush beside an empty pickel bottle, pointed today toward a possible solution of the mysterious disappearance of a young hospital orderly here.

Deputy Sheriff Louis Rinquette happened upon the skeleton yes-terday as he was trying to get a new lead on what happened to Robert Orvai Dunniway, 23, who vanished in July, 1948.

The skeleton was in thick underbrush, about 250 yards from the house where Dunniway had lived with his mother, Mrs. Martha Morris. The position indicated that the man had been sitting down, one foot tucked under him.

a young, snort man, like Duliniway, An examination was under way to determine what the pickle bottle might have contained.

Search for Dunniway first began more than a year ago, when his grandmother, Mrs. May Dunniway, 919 Columbia St., Rediands, Calif., wrote the sheriff's office saying the boy had never arrived for an expected visit with her, and asking an investigation. The mother here could throw no light on his disappearance. Officers said he had planned to take a plane to Rediands, but never boarded it.

The skeleton bore no obvious sign of violence, and a wrist watch was still on the hand. The watch could not be identified until police located the mother, who was not at home. SCENES OF EXCEPTIONAL BEAUTY will be shown on the screen at Roseburg Junior high

Steady Nerves Saves Girl's Life

DETROIT, Dec. 3 — (P) — Laura Cassell, 20, probably owed her life today to the steady nerher life today to the steady nerves of a garage mechanic and a policeman—and surgeons skill.

Laura's Father, Jack Cassell, was driving her to her department store job yesterday.

At an intersection where police said the signal light had failed the Cassell car collided with another.

Laura was flung sideways Walter H. Anderson, state de-partment records chief, testified Laura was flung sideways against the steering whee.

The wheel splintered and Laura was impaled upon the gear-shift lever. It entered her chest through her left side.

Police and Laura's father dared not remove the lever.

But they called John Richer, mechanic at a nearby garage.

As Laura gritted her teeth, Richer sawed the lever from its mounting while Patrol man George Mortimer held the girl.

Then Laura, who is small and seems fragile, was rushed to Harper hospital. Anderson also testified that a document in German text, one of the papers offered in evidence by the government, did not go to Hiss' office in that form.

He said a translation of the document which did go to Hiss' office was not among Chambers' say papers.

Anderson also testified that some of the papers did not bear the stamp of Hiss' office. Cross said he would continue per hospital.

An hour-long operation followed. The broken gear-shift lever was removed after her chest was
