Supreme Court Orders New Trial Of Damage Suit

SALEM, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The state Supreme court has ordered a new trial in the suit of a Portland coal stoker dealer against the Iron Fireman Manufacturing Co.

The dealer, Chelsea, N. Howland, won $27,564 damages against the company in the circuit court of Judge Frank J. Lonergan. But Tuesday's decision, by Justice James T. Brand, said there must be a new trial because neither party had a fair trial in the lower court.

Howland claimed that the company, in 1944, gave him an exclusive dealership for sale of home-size coal stokers in Multnomah county. He said the company later came out with a new type, which it sold through other dealers and which it also sold direct to purchasers.

Howland claimed this caused him to lose money, and brought the suit.

The high court was in a reversing mood. At its five opinion day session, it had five opinions. Three of them reversed circuit judges, another upheld the lower court, and the fifth opinion threw a case out of court.

Sam Pace, 50, who was convicted and sentenced to 20 years in prison for helping his 14-year-old daughter, won a new trial when the high court reversed Circuit Judge Victor Olliver of Linn county. The opinion was by Justice Harry H. Belt. The case occurred in Albany.

Released Ammonia Gas Routs City Residents

OAKLAND, Calif., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Upwards of 1,000 persons were forced to flee their homes before dawn today as waves of ammonia gas spread through 20 square blocks of west Oakland.

Cores were overcome and many made ill. Five were known to have been hospitalized.

A tank car, filled with liquid ammonia, was being pumped out at a fertilizer plant when a pipe split and the cargo spilled into the streets. Gas formed quickly.

Growing Pains Noted In California's Status

BERKELEY, Calif.—(AP)—Now ranked second state in population by the census bureau, California is producing statistics like this:

In 25 years it has increased its livestock almost 60 percent—a third faster than the country as a whole. But California, with a population growing five times as fast as the rest of the nation now imports more livestock than ever.

Dr. Ivan M. Lee, agricultural economist at the University of California, also notes that during the same period, California never produced enough meat for itself, nor enough chickens. In the mid-thirties it stopped exporting eggs and began importing them. It never supplied itself fully with milk, butter, and cheese, but at the same time produced a surplus of evaporated and dried whole milk. Turkeys are the only livestock product in surplus, says Lee.

Two Printing Pressmen's Locals Lose Charters

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The AFL International printing Pressmen's union Tuesday revoked the charters of locals in Washington and Newark, N. J., which have demanded an accounting of the $500,000 estate of the late George Berry.

Berry, one time U.S. Senator from Tennessee, was the union's international president for more than 40 years.

The ousted locals are Local No. 1, composed of pressmen employed at the government printing office and Commercial shops here, and local No. 31 at Newark.

Local No. 1 announced plans to take court action, probably today to preserve its status in the International union.

Members of the two locals filed a suit in State courts of Tennessee recently demanding an accounting of Berry's estate and return of any assets found to belong to the union.
