PROFITEER?

THE FACTS OF THE PRESENT DISPUTED MILK PRICES

Can you picture the Umpqua Valley dairy farmer as a greedy profiteer — turning the products of his dairy herds into exorbitant profits — literally snatching pennies from your pocket?

He just isn't built that way — but certain interests would have you believe this fantastic story as true.

Until November 1 the dairy farmers were receiving $6.12 cwt for milk with 4% butterfat content. Considering the cost of feed, equipment and general overhead this was just about a fair wage for one who has to attend to the needs of a dairy herd seven days a week, fifty two weeks a year.

Then the Oregon State Milk Marketing Division established a minimum price of $5.50 cwt. The milk distributors immediately dropped the payments to the dairy farmer to that price — though they needn't have done so.

BUT THE PRICE OF MILK WAS NOT REDUCED TO THE PUBLIC.

The distributor simply pocketed the difference — a tidy profit indeed. Meanwhile general costs to the dairy farmer have steadily gone up. The dairy farmer was faced with increased costs of "doing business" — and a lesser price for the goods he produced.

Since November 1, the dairy farmers have been attempting to get a part of the cut in milk price restored — at least to $6.00 per cwt.

The consistent loss became intolerable. On December 20 the price of $6.00 cwt was demanded.

THE DISTRIBUTORS REFUSED TO ACCEPT THIS PRICE AND TURNED AWAY MILK WHICH WAS BEING DELIVERED.

In order to insure an adequate supply of locally produced milk the farmers agreed to temporarily accept an offer of $5.73 cwt. (The dairy farmers, however, have always agreed to serve hospitals and schools irrespective of price.)

NOW — IN FACE OF THIS SLIGHT INCREASE IN THE PRICE OF MILK — THE DISTRIBUTORS ARE GOING TO CHARGE YOU MORE FOR MILK. The distributors will still be able to line their pockets with the same profit they've been enjoying.

The dairy farmers have agreed to compromise only until a hearing can be had before the Milk Marketing Administration so these facts can be presented in their true light.

The 20 1/2c you pay for milk is divided as follows:
11c to farmer
1 1/2c to grocer
8c TO THE BOTTLER
