

Sutherland Flood Worst in 2 Years

By MRS. BRITAIN SLACK
Sutherland had one of its worst floods in two years Tuesday. The water was in the Van Woodward apartments, the Richfield station, Gordon Epps home, the Standard oil station, the Hand theater, the Waale repair shop, and almost reached several other business places on Central avenue.

East of town it was reported that the Stop and Shop store was surrounded and the homes nearby were flooded. The Signal Oil station on highway 99, south of town, had so much water around it that it was impossible to get near the building. Lena's cafe had water up to its door but the latest report said it had not entered the building.

About 4 o'clock the water began to recede and people were commencing to move back to their homes. Several cars had to be pulled from the water.

The Rock Island mill was unable to run because of 14 inches of water in its boiler room, and workers at the Sutherland-Timber Products mill walked down the railroad track to reach the mill. The connecting roads were covered with water.

Army Sergeant, 19, Held In Murder Of Woman

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 11.—(AP)—A 19-year-old army sergeant was charged with first degree murder last night in the death of a 33-year-old woman whose slashed and battered body was found on a Topeka street.

The sergeant, Robert F. Anderson, is still hospitalized with wound suffered when he resisted arrest Jan. 4, the night the body of Irene Gilbert was found.

Coroner H. L. Clark said Miss Gilbert, a market factory worker, was slashed and run over several times with an automobile.

Anderson admitted he was with Miss Gilbert earlier in the evening but denied any knowledge of her death.

Names On Bowron Recall Petition Under Attack

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11.—(AP)—More than 50,000 of the signatures on the petition to recall Mayor Fletcher Bowron are false or unqualified, says Mrs. Frances Cassidy, a taxpayer.

In a suit filed yesterday she charges it would be a waste of $350,000 of taxpayers' money even to count the names. A hearing on her suit has been set for Tuesday and the city clerk restrained from starting the counting pending decision.

The petition's sponsors say it bears 129,695 signatures, or about 50,000 more than required by law.

Roseburg Blanketed By Fresh Snowfall

South of Ashland, around Weed and Dunsmuir, Calif., slides and deep snow have caused one-way travel. Motorists have no assurance they can progress much further than Ashland. Snow storms continue to plague the state highway department in that area, and Holcomb said conditions were becoming "worse by the hour."

The highway north of here is in a condition similar to that of Roseburg, with snow measuring well over six inches in higher elevations on highway 99. According to the latest report, Portland had only about two inches.

Holcomb said no report was available on coastal roads and highways.

Power shortages and broken lines kept California-Oregon Power company crews busy during the night, with conditions that were described as being "in an awful mess" according to Manager H. C. Wells.

Wells said that although most of the local distribution is in good shape, some rural lines are down, as are lines to the coast and the Toketele line.

He said the rural telephone system is causing grief to repair crews trying to contact the central office for instructions and that the storm is raising interference with radio communication.

west, and the new south city limits and the old city limits on the east would be residential No. 2.

All the area remaining west of Umpqua avenue and north of the business district on Harvard and all the area west of Umpqua avenue and south of the business district on Harvard would be residential No. 1 to the city limits on the west and west.

The West Roseburg association had recommended that the area from Wharton avenue on the east and south of the business district on Harvard and the area to the north of the business district on Harvard be residential No. 2.

Zoning of Miller's addition was recommended as follows: The area extending from Sanford street north to the old city limits would be residential class 1. The area south of Sanford and including Sleepy Hollow would be residential No. 2.

The nine lots of Beulah's addition would be zoned as residential No. 2.

The commission approved a plat, known as Short acres, lying about two miles west of Roseburg on the Melrose road.

Communist Talk Stirs Student Demonstration

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Angry University of Oklahoma students shouted their protest last night as they burned a 15-foot cross outside the building in which the Communist party chairman of Oklahoma spoke.

The group demonstrated against Allen Shaw's address, which was made at Hillel house, just off the campus, and sponsored by the Civil Rights committee.

Amid shouts of "dirty Communist" and "come out before we burn the house down," Shaw told his audience of 40 persons:

"This is a symbol of the very thing I've been discussing. It's mass hysteria, closed minds."

DEIFICATION OF JOE
LONDON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Albania called Joseph Stalin a god today.

The official Albanian telegraph agency said the Albanian people's assembly voted to erect a statue of "the deity Joseph Vissarionovich Stalin."

Said Albanian Premier Enver Hoxha, as quoted by the agency: "The great Stalin is our people's glorious saviour."

Trapping Interests Alaskan Worker

Before the Canyonville Boy Scout troop, William Reese related that he is impressed with the Alaskan country and, especially, its trapping possibilities. He returned to Alaska Jan. 1 after visiting his wife and three children at Canyonville.

Reese is presently employed as a heavy-duty welder and maintenance man at the government air base at Anchorage. He previously worked on the Nome police force.

Attired in the complete Eskimo clothing pictured here, Reese described the attire to the group of Boy Scouts. The coat is made from coon skins which were trapped in Douglas county, he said.

He had it made before he went north. After reaching his destination he discovered it was inadequate to withstand the low temperatures, so he had it relined by the Eskimos to meet the cold—about 40 degrees below zero. The furs are turned down so as to shed water and it is only necessary to shake the coat dry. The parka hood was made from wolf skin and was added in Alaska.

The top half of the muklets, or shoes, are made of reindeer skin. The bottom half is walrus skin, which Reese says, the Eskimo women chew to shape into moccasins. The mittens are made of dog skin, the palm being tanned leather. Inside these he wears silk gloves to keep the cold from penetrating.

Dispute Over Price Of Milk Being Aired Here

Increase paid the farmer, without a corresponding raise in retail milk prices, would result in a loss.

At present, farmers are being paid $5.73 per hundredweight for milk and consumers are being charged an extra half cent. This resulted from a temporary agreement Dec. 22 between disputing factions who agreed to the above price, pending a hearing which was later set for today.

The milk dispute hearing opened this morning at K of P hall. Presiding over the hearing was Cecil Gregg, Portland, representing the Oregon State Milk Marketing Administration. The first hour was given over to providing a statistical background for the day's proceedings. Numerous charts, tables and graphs were introduced as state's exhibits.

An objection from an impatient member of the audience cut short introduction of these exhibits. The examiner explained that the statistics were needed, then proceeded. Approximately 70 distributors, producers, and consumers attended the meeting.

Daniel J. Dimmick, attorney representing Umpqua Valley Milk Producers association, ask for clarification on the purpose of the meeting, Gregg replied, "The hearing is being held to accumulate facts for the administrator. We will not mediate this dispute at this time."

At press time, the meeting was given over to testimony from milk distributors.

ects is the Luder creek-Murphy's project, located on the Umpqua river between Scottsburg and Reedsport. Approximately 40 percent of this two-mile strip has been completed.

When finished, the project will cost an estimated $170,000.

Of major interest to inhabitants of Roseburg is the proposed four-lane entrance planned near the north city limits. Highway officials were indefinite about the project, except to say that field work, including preliminary surveys, was being rushed. Surveying crews are working on the area north of the city limits to the state weighting station, a distance of about two miles.

The most costly federal project in the county, the Rock creek-Burnt creek project is scheduled for completion sometime in 1950, at an approximate cost of $1,147,700. The second federal project, Tiller-Elk creek, was nearly completed during 1949 at a cost of $18,100. The eight-mile strip, located in the southeast corner of Douglas county on the Tiller-Trail highway, was graded, surfaced and oiled.

Capt. Crommelin Raps Eisenhower

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Captain John G. Crommelin, the navy's arch foe of "army dictation" of the armed services unification, has extended his list of potential Navy foes to include Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

At the conclusion of an address to the Pacific Traffic association of San Francisco, Crommelin observed last night that "I have no quarrel with the rank and file of the army or air forces."

"I do object strenuously to the autocratic methods employed by the general staff corps of the U. S. Army in Washington," he added.

"I also abhor the influence which a powerful potential presidential candidate in army uniform, who did not and has not declared his party affiliations, could have on decisions of Congress."

After the address, Crommelin told a reporter he meant Eisenhower. The former army chief of staff was not named in the talk.
