

Pioneer Klondike Hospital Burns; Sister, 78, Dies

DAWSON, Y. T., Jan. 12 (CP)—Topped in a flame-swept room Sister Mary Gleason died in the fire which Tuesday destroyed the three story 75-bed St. Mary's hospital here.

Two other persons were injured, an unidentified Sister who was badly scorched while trying to save equipment, and a fireman.

Seventy-seven patients and other members of the nursing staff were evacuated without injury. Cause of the fire is unknown, but it is believed to have started in the chapel.

Sister Mary, 78 years old, was the oldest member of the Roman Catholic order—the Sisters of St. Ann—at the hospital. She came here during the gold rush days of '98 when the hospital was opened.

A brisk wind and 40 below zero weather hampered volunteer firefighters two of whom risked their lives in an attempt to rescue the nursing Sister.

Built at the height of the Klondike gold rush, the hospital served a wide area spotted with mining camps and lonely trappers and prospectors' cabins. Some of the patients were Yukon oldtimers who followed the trail of '98 and never returned to live "out side."

Leg Removed, Girl Wonders When She'll Again Skate

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—A few hours after 13-year-old Ruth Miller's left leg was amputated near the thigh, she was wondering how soon she'd be able to skate again.

A roller skating enthusiast, she took "one more good skate" recently in preparation for the surgery yesterday. Hospital attaches said she is "in fine spirits."

The operation was performed to block spread of a malignant bone tumor.

Last November when her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall, told her the surgery was necessary, the girl said "if I can't live with two legs, I'll die with two legs."

But later she read the story of Betty Lou Marbury, 10, of Brownsville, Tenn. Betty, after asking the nation to pray that her right hand might be saved, subsequently decided "God wanted my hand" and had it removed to prevent the spread of a malignant bone tumor.

"If God wanted that little girl's hand, then maybe God wants my leg," Ruth said.

Now she is happy because her doctors believe she can be fitted
