FIRST AND PRESENT PRESIDENT of the Bellview club is Mrs. J. J. (Lora) Kester, who with four other active charter members served as hostesses at the club's thirtieth anniversary celebration this week.—(Picture by Fredrickson's Photo Lab.)

Bellview club celebrated its thirtieth anniversary at a charming party Wednesday afternoon at the attractive home of Mrs. P. W. Beckley at 118 S. C. ad-wick street. Daffodils and fern formed the living room decorations, while the dining table was prettily decorated with an attractive centerpiece circled with five orchid corsages made by Mrs. Geneva Elliott in honor of the five charter members still active in the club.

Mrs. J. J. (Lora) Kester, first president of the club is again serving as president in the thirtieth year of the organization. The club was organized by Mrs. C. W. Clough, now Mrs. Flannagan of Watsonville, Calif., who served as the first secretary. Greetings were sent to the club by Mrs. Flannagan, Mrs. A. A. Murphy, Mrs. Mona Allen, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Victor Iler, Mrs. Forward, Mrs. Mary Watson, Mrs. Esther Morgerg, Mrs. Roberta Kester, Mrs. T. F. Patterson and Mrs. Hazel Cabe, who were unable to be present. Mrs. Cabe is a daughter of Mrs. Kester and is now residing in Hillsboro.

Mrs. Kester very graciously welcomed the group and told of the early beginning of the club which became federated with the state Federation of Women's clubs in 1921.

Mrs. W. A. Pearce gave the club motto and Miss Irene Walker, secretary, gave the club history and called the roll with each member responding with short talks on incidents remembered during the club years.

Mrs. J. J. Kester, Mrs. P. W. Beckley, Mrs. Ross Lovelace, Mrs. W. A. Pearce and Mrs. Fred Boyer, charter members, who are still active members of the club, wore beautiful corsages of roses. The five acted as hostesses for the anniversary party.

Mrs. Beckley read the Twenty-third Psalm, which was followed by Mrs. Fred Boyer and Mrs. Ross Lovelace presenting an impressive candlelight memorial service honoring members who have passed on. Mrs. Beckley read the club collect and a social hour followed.

Six present were former members of the club and included: Mrs. W. F. Price, Mrs. Edith Brauch, Mrs. Lizzie Gardner, Mrs. Ralph Richter, Mrs. Blanche Boyer and Miss Hannah Dawson.

Mrs. Jacka Vannie of Grays Harbor, Wash., and Mrs. Frederick J. Porter were guests. Later in the afternoon, Mrs. Carl E. Roslund, a member of the club, accompanied by her two granddaughters, Janna Krueger and Anitra Kohanauu, joined the group.

At the tea hour the five hostesses served lovely refreshments.

The club will meet February 1 at a twelve-thirty o'clock luncheon at the home of Mrs. Harry Collison with Mrs. Echo Banning and Mrs. Ethel Roslund, assisting hostesses.

Sidelights... Here and There

Topic of conversation for the week has been "what kind of stove do you have?" and the fact that the modern generation is dependent, almost entirely, upon electricity.

Undaunted by power failure, however, a group of friends surprised Story lies on his birthday Tuesday evening. The lies are long-time residents of Roseburg, since 1910 to be exact.

With flashlight in hand and three candles gleaming in the lies living room Story received a floorlamp from his friends for his den. Daughter-in-law Olive lies baked a birthday cake for the event Tuesday morning between spurts of power.

Bellview club members observed their 30th anniversary Wednesday afternoon despite the fact it was cold outside. Daffodils brought a touch of faraway spring to the club, and the warm friendship radiating between the members cancelled all thoughts of snow, ice or cold winds.

The afternoon was devoted to a program during which time members related an incident during their membership. Memories recalled everything from food to clothes. Lora Kester, first president of the club, capably leading the ladies in another successful year. Talisman rosebuds were pinned on her shoulder.

Serious side of the program was lighting candles for departed members and many a tear was quietly shed for the friends who are no longer here.

Five orchids for the five charter members were expertly fashioned by the clever fingers of Geneva Elliott and encircled the centerpiece. Honored at this affair were the charter members who have remained active in the club since 1920. For the benefit of the public the Bellview members subscribe to the polio, cancer and Red Cross drives, care for the needy in their own community and contribute to the social life of the members at a meeting once a month.
