WHY NO POWER?—That question was explained Monday at the Chamber of Commerce noon forum luncheon by H. C. "Doc" Wells (standing), district manager for the California Oregon Power company. One point Wells impressed upon his audience was the fact that the local area suffered slightly in comparison to many other sections of the Northwest. He said every precaution is being taken to assure that recent power shortages will not be experienced again next year. (Staff photo)

Penland, Last GAR Leader, Reaches Birthday 101

VANCOUVER, Wash., Jan. 24 (P)—Theodore A. Penland, the last commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, observed his 101st birthday yesterday in a hospital.

A visitor in this area, Major Gen. Philip B. Fleming, chairman of the maritime commission, dropped in to pay his respects. So did civic delegations and friends.

Penland entered the army hospital here Dec. 22 with a cold. He now appears fully recovered.

Gabriel Heater is a man of proved ad libbing abilities. Fourteen years ago he ad libbed for nearly an hour to springboard himself to national fame. And though he prepares scripts for his week-day broadcasts, he usually deviates from the written lines to accent his points on the air. It's well nigh impossible for his listeners to tell when he's reading from script or talking "off the cuff." His engineer can, however. For Heater, when ad libbing, always stares at a blank piece of paper.

Transcribed "Report from Congress" feature begins a new series on KRNR tonight at 9:30 and each Tuesday hereafter, featuring Congressman Harris Ellsworth and Walter Norblad of Oregon. Reminding you to tune in "Linger Awhile" tomorrow for an extra-special guest-shot, featuring Mrs. Lee Marsh, polio victim. . . February will bring several program changes, by the way. . . "Linger Awhile" included in the shuffle.

"Tick's" Tips On Veterans Hospital

By L. J. "TICK" MALARKEY

This is the short, short story of "Andy"—a patient. A few years ago he was standing atop spring boards on the business end of an axe and falling saw thumping over big timber down near the Sweet Home country. In fact, "Andy" is a logger of the old school who followed his trade through many a new strip of virgin Douglas fir in the Northwest hills.

One morning he said to the camp "bull buck," "I don't feel so good—can't go out this morning." Something had happened to his right side.

The VA, Roseburg, admitted him and today this Greybeard of War I is getting around a lot better than when he came in. In fact, every afternoon he waits for the News-Review and part of his prescribed physical therapy is delivering copies—aided by a cane—to each of the five floors of the Administration building. "Andy" doesn't take the elevators; he climbs the stairs.

The reason for the above is, first, to show what a determination to get well can do; and, secondly, how appreciative an "Old Timber Beast" can be, when he said:

"Say 'Mac,' could you get something in the paper to say I want to thank that American Legion lady, Mrs. Ulrich, for the canteen book. It sure comes in handy because us 'Scovie Loggers' really like our coffee. Patient Andy can't tie popples because the right hand doesn't work so good; but 'Micky the Mite' Nellie Ulrich knew someone who could do the job. And did.

So popular has become the coffee and donut hour, Saturday mornings, that the V.F.W. auxiliary ladies put on for patients, a larger room in the Recreation building may be necessary. The music hall was really jammed this last Saturday when Marie Glade, Cora Carlson, Mary Anne Sinclair and Nurse Erika Gra-

Atoms Save More Lives Than Taken, Scientist Asserts

BALTIMORE. — (P) — More lives have been saved by atomic energy than were lost in the atom bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Dr. John Z. Bowers of the Atomic Energy commission says.

Dr. Bowers, deputy director of the commission's division of biology and medicine, called nuclear energy the "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde of our civilization."

He didn't elaborate on his comparison. The army estimated that 78,150 persons lost their lives in the Hiroshima blast, and the U. S. strategic bombing survey put the number killed or missing in the explosion over Nagasaki at from 35,000 to 40,000.

But he did discuss various ways that atomic energy is being employed to assist mankind in an address at the Enoch Pratt Library's atomic energy institute.

"It is a great force which turns out the most destructive weapon ever known to mankind and at the same time develops energies which are used (to save) more lives than were destroyed by the great blasts at Hiroshima and Nagasaki," he declared.

Atomic energy's first and most important use is in research. Bowers explained. Through radioactive isotopes, medical men can unravel the mysteries of body through the body channels in a way never before possible.

Second is its use in therapy, he said, where it is used in the treatment of malignant cell growths such as cancer. It has been especially effective against thyroid cancer, he added.
