Chief Mills said any person who wishes to burn rubbish or trash in an outdoor fire must call in to the fire department for their permit.

Gunpowder is a mixture of salt petre, sulphur and charcoal.

Ten Women On List In Congress

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Though women constitute the majority of voters in this country, there are only 10 women in the second session of the 81st Congress. Their representation in Congress this year brings the over-all total to 47 women elected or appointed to both houses since 1918, when the first, Jeannette Rankin, a Republican, was chosen.

Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith, Republican of Maine, is the only woman in the Senate. In the House there are four Republicans—Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts, Mrs. Frances P. Bolton of Ohio, Mrs. Katharine St. George of New York and Mrs. Cecil M. Harden of Indiana; and five Democrats—Mrs. Mary Norton, New Jersey, Mrs. Helen Gahagan Douglas, California, Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, Connecticut, Mrs. Reva Beck Bosone, Utah, and Mrs. Edna F. Kelly, New York.

Mrs. Kelly is the latest woman to come to Congress. She was elected last November from the 10th New York District (Brooklyn) to fill out the unexpired term of the late Andrew L. Somers.

In the state legislatures, women's representation is more noteworthy. There are 217 women serving in 1950 state legislatures, according to a tabulation by Republican National Committee. Women are serving as state treasurer or auditor in four western states. Most recent appointment was that of Mrs. Alta E. Fisher named by the governor of Montana to fill the vacancy caused by the death of her husband, a Democrat.

Other state financial officials include Mrs. Lela Painter, Republican, Idaho's treasurer; Mrs. Beris E. Baker, Republican, auditor of North Dakota; and Mrs. Ana Frommiller, Democrat, Arizona, auditor. Mrs. Lottie M. Randolph of Ohio is the first woman so far to announce her candidacy for a statewide public office in 1950. She seeks the Republican nomination for secretary of state and is the first Ohio woman in more than two decades to be a primary candidate for a major state position.

THIEF GETS DIAPERS

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—There's a flabbergasted footpad somewhere in this neighborhood.

Mrs. William A. Lagosier told police that the interesting looking box some thief snatched from her car contained soiled diapers, destined for the laundry.

Mrs. Randolph served as Ohio's assistant director of agriculture, first from 1939-'44, then again in 1947-'48. She is a grandmother.
