

Big Democrat Dinner Poses Many Problems

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON (AP)—At 7:45 p.m., on the night of Feb. 16, a green light will flash in the National Guard armory here, and 550 waiters will dash out.
Thereupon, 5,200 diners, faithful Democrats who are affluent enough to shell out $100 a plate, will start chomping away at the Jefferson-Jackson day dinner.
It sounds easy, written that way. But President Truman, who only has to make the main speech, has a snap compared with the chore of getting the dinner arranged.
At least, that's the view of Mayflower and Statler hotel officials, who are splitting the catering job for the big feed.
The hotel people have a heap of statistics and assorted data to weave their point.
To begin with, there's the geography problem.
The armory is a monster of a building in southeast Washington. The food will have to be cooked in the hotels, four miles away.
Then there's this additional worry: The night before the banquet Georgetown and George Washington universities will be using the armory for basketball.
So, lurking along the sidelines, as intent on the game as any cheerleader, will be a group of cleaning people, table-setter-uppers and other functionaries. The moment the final whistle blows, they'll spring into action.
By daylight the last traces of Life Saving Medal To Be Given Boy Scout

EUGENE, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Governor Douglas McKay will present a gold life saving medal to life scout LeRoy D. Mann, 14, of Sultan, Wash., at a ceremony tonight in the Springfield high school.
The youth, a former member of troop 37, Springfield, was listed last October by the national office of Boy Scouts of America as one of four scouts in the nation entitled to receive the gold medal for saving a life.
The boy rescued Gerald LaPlant, 15, from drowning in the Thurston slough last June.

basketball will be scrubbed from the big hall, and 520 tables will have been set up.
At 10 a.m., the table linen and the silverware will begin to go on the tables. By 4 p.m., the food will begin to arrive, to be kept warm on 12 special charcoal burners.
Walters To Ride
A special fleet of buses will bring the waiters, the 75 captains, and 50 stewards.
Then at the great moment, Jack Wencher, the maitre d'hotel for Statler, or Max Steiner, the ditto for Mayflower, will push the button that will light the special light, and the dinner will be on.
The job of feeding 5,200 people calls for considerable equipment, of course. Such as: 16,000 salad plates, 11,000 teaspoons, 1,100 ice buckets, 25,000 ice cubes, 1,100 ash trays, 5,200 wine glasses, etc.
And once the dinner is over, the hotel people aren't through, either. They have to hustle right in and clean the joint up. An automobile show moves into the armory the next day.
