THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

By ABRAHAM LINCOLN

I go for all sharing the privileges of the government who assist in bearing its burden.

As I would not be a slave, so I would not be a master. This expresses my idea of democracy. Whatever differs from this, to the extent of the difference, is no democracy.

Let us have faith that right makes might; and in that faith let us to the end, dare to do our duty as we understand it.

If we do not make common cause to save the good old ship of the Union on this voyage, nobody will have a chance to pilot her on another voyage.

Why should there not be a patient confidence in the ultimate justice of the people? Is there any better or equal hope in the world?

While the people retain their virtue and vigilance, no administration, by any extreme of wickedness or folly, can very seriously injure the government in the short space of four years.

No government proper ever had a provision in its organic law for its own termination.

Labor is prior to, and independent of, capital. Capital is only the fruit of labor, and could never have existed if labor had not first existed.

It is difficult to make a man miserable while he feels he is worthy of himself and claims kindred to the great God who made him.

Among free men there can be no successful appeal from the ballot to the bullet, and they who take such appeal are sure to lose their case and pay the cost.

It has long been a grave question whether any government not too strong for the liberties of its people, can be strong enough to maintain its existence in great emergencies.

Men are not flattered by being shown that there has been a difference of purpose between the Almighty and them.

If you once forfeit the confidence of your fellow citizens, you can never regain their respect and esteem. It is true that you may fool all the people some of the time; you can even fool some of the people all the time; but you can't fool all of the people all the time.

You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift. You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong. You cannot help the wage earner by pulling down the wage payer.

You cannot further the brotherhood of man by encouraging class hatred.

You cannot help the poor by discouraging the rich. You cannot establish sound security on borrowed money. You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than you earn.

You cannot build character and courage by taking away man's initiative and independence.

You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could and should do for themselves.

Lookingglass

By HAZEL S. MARSH
 Word has been received from Mrs. Anna Jones of Pomona, Calif. of her safe arrival home following a two-months' visit in this area, and with her daughter and family in western Washington. Mrs. Jones, who is 83 years old, made the trip by bus unattended and, to quote her, "thought nothing of it." Mrs. Jones, with her husband, the late Peter Jones, moved to Pomona 20 years ago after having resided in the Lookingglass area for many years. Mrs. Jones still owns the ranch in Lookingglass which is now operated by Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Swift and family.

Mrs. Jones was a leader in community activities during her residence here and took great pleasure in renewing her acquaintance with former neighbors, among them were: Mr. and Mrs. Corvin Heard, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Meredith, Mrs. L. B. Howard and son Ches. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Buell, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Rogers, Mrs. John McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. Creed Cranfill, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Strickland, Tom and Elijah Ollivant, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Jacoby and family and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Voorhies, all of whom still reside in the valley. Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Krove and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Andrus and family are former residents now living in Roseburg, with whom Mrs. Jones visited. She was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Marsh whose home adjoins the Jones ranch, during her stay in the valley.

Mrs. Jones also visited at the homes of her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones and children in Myrtle Creek, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ollivant in Ollaia and

Mass Meeting At Drain To Begin X-ray Campaign

A mass meeting will be held at Drain Tuesday, Feb. 14, to start the campaign for an intensified chest X-ray survey in Douglas county. The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the grade school. Plans this year are to begin the first in a series of an intensive three-year campaign designed to cover the entire county and to obtain X-rays of 80 percent of the adult population.

Following the Drain session, a meeting of the district chairmen will be held in Roseburg Wednesday, Feb. 15, at 1 p.m. in room 205 Pacific building. C. R. Bradford of Portland will then visit each area to be surveyed and plan a house-to-house canvass with the volunteer workers, furnish kits and give consultation service.

Location of the X-ray unit in each area and hours of operation will be announced following the meeting. The state mobile unit will be at Drain Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 27, 28 and Mar. 1. The Oregon Tuberculosis & Health association unit will be at Roseburg Feb. 27 and 28. The units will then move to other Douglas county cities to be announced.

GREEN FUNERAL SET
 Funeral services will be held in Eugene Tuesday for Max O. Green Sr., who died last week from injuries suffered in an airplane accident near Klamath Falls. The services will be held at 2 p.m. in the Poole-Larson mortuary.

"Dedicated To The Great Task Remaining Before Us"

In the Day's News

or Hanford, Washington. At Harwell, he was HEAD of the theoretical physics branch, which is the heart of atomic science.

In the United States, during the war, he visited Oakridge, our No. 1 atomic plant, and Los Alamos, where our first atom bomb was produced. He had access, apparently, to ALL of our atomic knowledge.

HE fooled the British first. The British vouched for him. So, naturally enough under the circumstances, we accepted him unhesitatingly. That is how he came into full possession of all of our top-drawer secrets.

WHAT kind of a man is he? Well, he was a young communist back in Hitler Germany. That is how he came to go to England. In his confession, he says:

"When I learned the kind of work I was to do in Britain I decided to inform Russia and I established contact through another member of the communist party."

So he went on finding out things and telling them to the Russians all through the war and clear up to 1947. He explains: "I believed Russia would build a new world that I would take part in it."

He was a fanatic, you see. You never can tell what a fanatic will do.

EVENTUALLY, he says, he came to have doubts about Russia. He arrived finally at the point where he disapproved of many of the actions of Russian policy. Because of illness, he missed one of his rendezvous with Russian agents, and when he got well he decided not to go to the next one.

But by then the damage had been done. He had given to the Russians (according to his confession) the essential facts about the atom bomb and what made it tick. He may also have given them all we know about the hydrogen bomb.

A BRILLIANT scientific screwball? Apparently yes. He describes himself as an individual with a split mind—a fantastically advanced Jekyll and Hyde. He says of himself:

"I used my Marxian philosophy to conceal my thoughts, which had to be separated into two compartments. One side was the man I wanted to be. I could be free and easy and happy with other people without fear of disclosing myself because I knew the other compartment would step in if I reached a danger point . . . Looking back now, the best way is to call it controlled schizophrenia."

SO there you have it. All the mummery, all the secrecy, all the ridiculous ritualistic business with which we have surrounded our atomic enterprise has been merely wasted effort which actually delayed and confused our progress.

Secrecy never was much good because secrets can't be kept. We have this startling demonstration that it is no good now. Maybe the knowledge will shock us into more intelligent ways of meeting the grave problems that admittedly face us in the present crisis in human progress.

Seating Capacity For Band Concert Will Be Enlarged

Roseburg high school band director E. G. Stiles announced today that 450 seats will be set up on the main floor to enable the senior high school auditorium to hold a capacity crowd for the band concert Thursday, Feb. 16, at 8:15 p.m.

The band has been practicing hard on the concert numbers the past week and will put on the finishing touches Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday for the program. The stage crew set up the band stage Saturday afternoon and the band will hold a dress rehearsal on Wednesday night.

The varied program which will be presented Thursday night includes solos, saxophone quartet, cornet quartet and a "German band."

The German band will be something new to concert followers, and will provide the audience with several pleasing numbers during concert intermission. The German band is made up of ten pieces, including clarinets, cornets, trombones, bass horn, and alto horn.

The concert band will play twelve numbers, including overtures, popular music, concert marches and a little boogie-woogie.

Tickets for the program are 80 cents for adults, 50 cents for students, and 30 cents for children.

Youth Praised For Aiding Girl Hurt At School

By MRS. GEORGE W. BACHER
 Coleen Tissino was rushed to a physician in Roseburg Friday to be treated for serious injuries received when her right arm was accidentally jammed through a glass door during the noon hour at the Green school.

As the pupils filed into the cafeteria for lunch, Coleen approached the door leading out of her classroom, unaware that another student was opening the door for her.

The "Y" Craft class will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Methodist church social rooms. Linoleum block-printing is the craft for this month. Any adult in the community desiring to learn a craft, or he or she can teach others, is urged to attend.

Douglas Forest Protective Assn. Meeting Slated

The annual meeting of the Douglas Forest Protective association will be held Wednesday, Feb. 15, in the Hotel Umpqua civic room, starting at 10 a.m., announced Secretary-Treasurer H. O. Pargeter.

The annual report of the secretary will be studied, election of officers held, and recommendations for the coming year will be considered.

The association officers include E. R. Walsh, president; Weldon Kline, vice-president, and Pargeter, secretary-treasurer. The board of directors include Kenneth Ford, Robert Van Orden, Tom Mehl Sr., Clyde Martin, Frank Heath, Waish and Kline. Fred Southwick is district warden.

The 38th annual report recently submitted recommends completion this summer of the Quines Creek warden station. The ten-man crew house is about finished, and a five-room residence and a garage are still to be constructed. Recommended also is the obtaining of a site and construction of a two-room house for a warden station on Little river. Completion of the Harneis mountain lookout and the purchase of new transportation equipment are also suggested.

Turkey Judge Writes Of Broad Breast Breed

H. P. Griffin, veteran judge of the Northwestern Turkey show, is author of a featured article, "Selecting Broad Breasted Bronze Breeders," appearing in the February issue of Norbest Turkey News, official publication of Norbest Turkey Growers association.

Judge Griffin, in telling the story of the broad breast breed and advising how birds should be selected for breeding purposes, credits the Northwestern Turkey show with making the breed popular.

Now you Know!
 The answers to everyday insurance problems
 By KEN BAILEY

QUESTION: The brick wall of my neighbor's garage threatens to collapse at any moment and if it fell, might crush my frame garage which is very close to it. When I warned my neighbor of the possible damage unless the wall was repaired, he said he had a Home Owner's Liability policy which would take care of it. I, too, have a liability policy but I seem to remember that it does not cover property damage. Can you tell me if I'm right?

ANSWER: You are right. A straight Home Owner's Liability Policy does not cover property damage. However, for a very small premium the property damage coverage can be added and it is always wise to have it included in your policy.
