Lieut. Col. E. W. Maddox Retired From Service

and later director of supply. In the latter assignment Col. Maddox was responsible for all supply activities in connection with the housing, feeding, clothing and equipping of troops, and all matters pertaining to transportation, both motor and rail.

As director of supply, he initiated a work simplification plan which was adopted by headquarters Eighth Service command and made mandatory for all posts, camps and stations under their jurisdiction. This resulted in great manpower savings among civilian personnel.

Unit Governor in Korea Upon the inactivation of Camp Chaffee in 1946, Col. Maddox was transferred to military government troops and assigned to duty in Korea, where he assumed command of the 6th Military Government company. He acted in the capacity of military governor for an area equivalent in size to about four counties in Oregon, under the direct supervision of both the provincial and national military governors.

Col. Maddox has been awarded the army commendation ribbon for good conduct medal, and the following campaign ribbons: World War I, with three battle stars; American defense, Asiatic Pacific, American theater in World War II. In addition he was awarded a ribbon of merit by the state of Arkansas for outstanding services rendered during the flood of 1943.

The son of B. W. Maddox (now deceased) and Mrs. Maddox of Roseburg, Col. Maddox was born here June 7, 1886. Upon leaving the service, together with his wife and daughter, he returned to Roseburg to make his permanent home.

Col. Maddox, a 32nd degree Mason and a member of the Elks lodge, is presently employed as a salesman for McDonald Candy Co.

Fir Bark Yields Wax, Tannin, Says Forestry Expert

Experiments have revealed that wax and tannin may be extracted from Douglas fir bark in sufficient quantities to justify commercial operations, stated Dean Paul M. Dunn, who heads the Oregon forest products laboratory of the Oregon State college school of forestry, speaking before the Roseburg Chamber of Commerce Monday noon.

Dean Dunn, who has been particularly active in developing industrial uses for forest wastes, was here in connection with an Oregon State college alumni association meeting Monday night. With him were Bob Knoll, Oregon State alumni manager, Pete Elliott, Oregon State football end coach, and Jack Begelman of the physical education department. Gordon Walker, president of the Roseburg OSC alumni chapter, introduced the guests.

The speaker did not elaborate on the uses of bark, except to sound an encouraging note for future northwest industries using waste products.

Oregon, he said, leads the nation in conservation and reforestation plans. However, only about 73 per cent of cutover lands are being restocked, and the aim is to raise the percentage. The cut of Oregon timber is mounting to an all time high of over eight billion board feet last year, he said.

Reforestation is a cooperative program of state, federal and private land owners, Dunn emphasized, in outlining the forest program not only of restocking but also of protection from fire, disease and insects.

He discussed plans to rehabilitate the 1933 Tillamook burn and the cutover lands. This he described as the biggest land rehabilitation program in the United States, for which the people have voted an expenditure of more than 10 1/2 million dollars over a period of years.

He also discussed the spruce budworm fight.

Coal Miners' Union Cited For Contempt

(Continued from page One) to the satisfaction of the court, it will mean a hearing next Monday before Judge Keech. The UMW could be fined any amount the judge deems proper. If still out next Monday the strikers will have been in defiance of the court order for two weeks. The order was renewed yesterday until March 3.

Entire Wealth Jeopardized The union paid $2,130,000 in two fines for similar scrapes with the courts in 1946 and 1948.

Judge Keech could wipe out the UMW's rich holdings, built from nothing since 1933. These assets consist of huge bank accounts, four valuable Washington office buildings only a couple of blocks from the White House, bonds and bank stocks.

Lewis was held responsible along with the union both previous times. He has met the court orders this time. Two communications from Lewis failed to get the miners back on the job. They insisted on lifting again their traditional war cry: "No contract, no work."

They have been without a contract since the old one expired last June 30. Lewis has been whittling away at one enormous coal stockpile to improve the miners' bargaining position in the meantime. Two strikes and a three-day work week have brought the nation's coal reserves to an amount estimated at barely enough to last ten days.

Lewis in Tight Spot The stage was reached painstakingly in a bitter cold wave, and Lewis is suddenly confronted with the possibility of real hardship. He has maintained in the past that the miners' strikes have been settled short of the danger point.

Brownouts and coal rationing have been ordered in New York state. Commercial establishments were put under rationing in the District of Columbia. Some night workers were forced into sweaters and coats as heat was reduced in Washington's coal-fueled private office buildings.

The stater hotel, where Lewis and the coal operators resume negotiations toward a new contract today, was prepared for the shortage. It had a two-way heating plant which could use oil or coal.

Government buildings were not included in the District of Columbia rationing order, nor were homes or schools.

BROOKVILLE, Pa., Feb. 21.—(P)—Firemen fought their way through a band of men identified as coal strike pickets today to put out a fire at a mine tippie near this Western Pennsylvania mining community. Two men were reported injured.

One fire company from neighboring Summerville was stopped by a barrage of stones. Another fire fighting outfit from Brookville, five miles to the north, got through the road block and put out the fire at the non-union surface mine owned by W. W. Carrier.

A tippie is used to load trucks with newly mined coal. The relatively small operation has been producing about 1200 tons of soft coal a day during the six-week "no contract no work" strike of 372,000 United Mine Workers.

Carrier said the men were pickets. He declared a band had visited the property yesterday, saying they would be back.

The mine owner said he had been notified three carloads of state police were enroute to his mine.

Sheriff Joe Shaffer of Jefferson county said he planned to telephone Governor James H. Duff and ask for state help.

Matt Karlinger, Former Roseburg Resident, Passes

Matthew (Matt) Karlinger, 64, resident of Roseburg and Douglas county for the past 35 years, died at his home east of Oakland Feb. 20.

He was born Sept. 22, 1886, at Auhof, Austria, came to the United States in 1907 and gained his citizenship in 1912.

He was married at Pittsburgh, Pa., on May 9, 1919, to Miss Hattie Krouser. He came to Roseburg in 1913, and in 1918 moved to Denver, where he resided for two years. He then returned to Douglas county where he has lived since.

For many years he was engaged in an automobile repair business in Roseburg and in 1931 moved to Oakland where he has been engaged in farming.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Hattie Karlinger, Oakland; four sons, William H. Karlinger, Portland; Stewart M. Karlinger, Canyonville; Ralph G. Karlinger, Oakland; and Earl M. Karlinger, Corvallis. One son, Arthur, was killed in World War II. He is also survived by a sister in Austria and four grandchildren, Keith, Kenneth, Arlene and Donna Karlinger.

Funeral services will be held in the chapel of the Long and Orr mortuary Thursday, Feb. 23, at 2 p. m. in the Rev. Kenneth W. Knoll, First Christian church, officiating. Concluding services and interment will follow in the Masonic cemetery, Roseburg.

Vogeler Given Prison Term Of Fifteen Years

(Continued from page One) down the sentences it had taken into consideration that most of the defendants had not been convicted of crimes before, that most were married, and that they made "sincere confessions," and that, in the cases of Vogeler and Sanders, they acknowledged not having "any grudge" against Hungary.

The judge said Vogeler and Sanders had been ordered by their military superiors "to carry out their activities in this country."

The defendants stood quietly with folded hands and expressionless faces as Judge Olby announced the sentences.

Griger, Radio and the other defendants all are Hungarian nationals. The court sentenced the Rev. Istvan Justh, Roman Catholic priest, and Kelemen Domokos, accountant in the Standard company, to 10 years. Edina Doery, a barmaid, was given a five-year term.

United States Minister Nathaniel Davis had been barred from visiting Vogeler and Sanders during their three months in custody. Immediately after the sentencing he called a news conference.

(In New York, Paul Ruedemann, a Standard Oil company of New Jersey executive who was expelled by Hungary in September, 1948, after signing a sabotage confession, commented:

"In Hungary today a man can be forced to 'confess' because he sees nothing else to do. He is confined to a dungeon with no hope of getting out unless he does confess. He is deprived of food and water, questioned constantly, brought to such mental and physical exhaustion that anything—even poison—seems better than what he is going through."

The trial lasted only three days. It was held in the same courtroom where Cardinal Mindszenty confessed to plotting against the state and where former Vice Premier Rak doomed himself by confessing to treason. The same prosecutor, Alapi, conducted those trials. The same presiding judge, Olby, sentenced Mindszenty to life imprisonment.

Calmly and unemotionally Vogeler told the court last week that he was a professional agent working out of U.S. Army Intelligence headquarters in Vienna. He said he had been instructed to obtain special information about radar production, rockets, uranium and oil deposits in Hungary and to help atomic scientists to flee the country.

He declared that he sent economic and political information to U.S. Intelligence headquarters.

Charges Ridiculed (In Vienna, his Belgian-born wife, Lucile, termed the charges against Vogeler "utterly ridiculous and fantastic." She said she and her husband were in Chicago, Ill., in 1942

Daylight Saving Gets City's Tentative Nod

(Continued from page One) an original motion of last fall, calling for a bond issue election and advising the steps be taken to acquire or condemn needed property for the improvements under an ordinance called for would set the election date in connection with the primary election May 19.

Plans and specifications for West Roseburg sewers, as submitted by City Manager M. W. Slinkard show the estimated cost of $162,418 if clay pipe is used and $156,490 if concrete pipe is used. A hearing on the cost estimates, prior to any formal action by the council was set for the next council meeting Mar. 5.

The sewer plans call for the line to start west of the Oak Street bridge, run west picking up sewage by gravity flow along the southern portion of West Roseburg to the Coates addition. The line would thence extend north to a pumping station, where a pump would lift the sewage sufficiently to permit gravity flow east along the Umpqua river to the Laurel wood vicinity. There the sewage would be pumped across the river to the disposal plant.

Two New Ordinances Two ordinances were read for the first and second times. One would replace the present bicycle ordinance and require annual licensing of bicycles at 50 cents a year. At present only an initial license of 25 cents, with no time limit, is charged.

The second ordinance specifically would prohibit construction of fraternal or club buildings in class 2 residential zones, and provide minor changes pertaining to setback lines and the maximum areas of lots which buildings may cover.

A petition, bearing 40 names, was submitted asking that houses in class 1 residential zones cost at least $4,800 and that the house cover at least 800 square feet. The matter was referred to committee for study.

Exams For Food Handlers Upon recommendation of the police and health committee, the city attorney was instructed to prepare an ordinance requiring all food handlers to have physical examinations every six months. The ordinance would be patterned after one now in effect in Eugene.

Percy Croft, heading a committee to investigate enlarged water mains in certain West Roseburg areas, reported California Oregon Power company is working on an overall plan for that area, but is not yet ready to put it into effect.

The company informed him that if the work is desired at an earlier date, it would be up to the city or the residents to advance the expenditure necessary, with the cost to be refunded over a period of years. No date was given as to when Copco would be ready to extend its water program, but it is indicated that the work will probably and asked: "Who was he supposed to be spying against there?" commenting on his confession Mrs. Vogeler said, "It is obvious to anyone who knew Bob at all that he has been drugged or subjected to some kind of torture to make him say all these things."

(Sosthenes Behn, chairman of the board of I. T. and T., issued a statement in New York last week saying the charges against Vogeler were "fantastic in the extreme and totally untrue." He expressed the belief that the confessions by Vogeler and Sanders "could only have been made under circumstances of extreme duress, coercion and threats."

Vogeler's arrest last Nov. 18 as he was leaving Budapest for Vienna strained diplomatic relations between the United States and Hungary.

Protesting the fact that Vogeler was held incommunicado for three months without being allowed to see American diplomatic representatives, the State department ordered two Hungarian consulates closed in the U.S. and banned American travel to Hungary.

Croft also reported his committee had investigated the proposed extension of Umpqua Ave. E. in West Roseburg to tie in with Riverside street, near the high school. He recommended that the matter be referred to the planning commission first for study. He said projects included the fact the streets involved are of 60-foot, 40-foot and 25-foot width. He also stated that certain property might have to be acquired, for which the city at present has no funds.

Gasoline Contract Let The finance committee reported the gasoline contract was let to Shell Oil company at $21.50 for ethyl gasoline and $19.50 for regular gasoline.

A consent petition was submitted asking that the property on which the new Conservative Baptist church is located in the north part of the city be annexed. The matter was referred to the city attorney for study and he is in turn to refer the matter to the planning commission for recommendation.

A petition asking for street lights in Miller's addition and Sleepy Hollow was referred to the city manager, with assurance that action to provide some relief would be forthcoming as early as possible.

L. W. Sanders, in answer to petitions asking that a trailer court be prohibited from being established on the west side of Fullerton street, stated the three trailers at the stated location are for private use only, and not for rent to outsiders. He said there was no intention to establish a court there.

R. Glickman, who stated he had purchased the bankrupt stock of the Pen & Camera shop on Jackson street, was authorized to dispose of the stock at the location, but was instructed that no outside stock could be brought in for disposal here, as the business would be only temporary.

Waiver of bond was granted the Ace Electric Co. for establishment of a business here. Dr. C. D. Parkinson was authorized to proceed with plans for construction of an eye, ear, nose and throat clinic building on south Main street. Set-back line problems had delayed his plans.

Dale Adams of 805 Short street protested the manner in which house trailers were parked on property adjoining the city building inspector was instructed to investigate.

A resolution was adopted asking the county to release to the city all roads which have been accepted in the newly annexed areas.
