Fish Resources in National Parks Reported Gloomy

By VERN HAUGLAND
WASHINGTON, March 3. —(AP) —A wildlife expert drew a gloomy picture today of the fish resources of the national parks and monuments.

Victor H. Cahalane, chief of the biology division of the National Park Service, set forth these points from a summary of wildlife resources:

Mount Rainier, Wash. — Fishing only fair.

Great Smoky Mountains National Park, N. C.—Tenn.—A heavy concentration of fishermen occurred again in 1949; the pressure tends to deplete some of the more accessible streams early in the fishing season.

Yellowstone Park, Wyo.—Mont.—A tremendous increase in fishing pressure forced reduction of the catch limit to five fish per day per person. Special protective measures imposed for grayling.

Glacier Park, Mont. — Fishing fair to poor. (It used to be wonderful.)

Rocky Mountain Park, Colo. — Streams extremely heavily fished; park cannot possibly produce enough fish to satisfy the anglers. Yosemite, Sequoia and Kings Canyon Parks, Cal. — Streams and lakes over-used and increasingly depleted.

But the reports were not all bad. Steelhead fishing at Olympic Park, Wash., has been excellent, Cahalane said. So has the angling for rainbow trout, large-mouth black bass, sun fish and bluegills at Lake Mead in Arizona and Nevada.

"The many lakes in Lassen Volcanic Park, Cal., also have continued to supply good angling," he added.

And at Crater Lake, Ore., where fishing had been exceedingly poor for eight years, suddenly improved during 1949 "until it could be described as good."

Cahalane said Crater lake was stocked with considerable numbers of fish, at excessive cost in terms of fish caught, immediately before 1942, but has not since been stocked.

"The tremendous increase in angling success during 1949 plainly has been due to natural causes," he said.

"In all national parks areas, manpower has been so inadequate that not even a fishermen's creel census, considered the most elementary type of check, has been possible," he added.

Elkton

By PHYLLIS A. SMITH
Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hendrickson have announced the sale of their grocery department at Green Acres, near Scottsburg, to Mrs. Lydia Roe. Mrs. Roe has been in the grocery business for a number of years and will give the same good service to the Green Acres customers as they are accustomed to, she said.

Mr. and Mrs. George Binder spent five days in Aberdeen, Wash. on business.

Sunday guests at the E. J. Madison home were Mrs. Birdie Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Rudolf and children of Roseburg.

Mr. and Mrs. William Emel and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Compton went on a combined business and pleasure trip to Bellingham, Wash. over the weekend.

Miss Margaret Burger, instructor at Elkton high school, had as her guests over the weekend her sisters, Phyllis and Barbara. Both the girls are students at Linfield college.

The Elkton high school basketball squad are in Ashland, where they are participating in the invitational tournament.

The road into Kellogg is again blocked with a slide.

James Hershberger was elected student body secretary to succeed Connie Clemo who graduated from high school last semester.

Plans were made at the Girl's league meeting, to send two delegates and an advisor to the Girl's League day to be held in Springfield, May 13.

The answer to everyday insurance problems
By KEN BAILEY

QUESTION: We belong to a social group of about twenty couples and each couple takes turn as hosts for a house party at which the others are guests. Martha, a local maid of all work, always helps with the serving and cleaning up at the home where the party is given. Last week Martha slipped, going down stairs to the basement party room and although she wasn't hurt, some of the group thought we should take out some form of insurance covering our liability in such an accident. Is Employer's Liability the proper kind? ANSWER: Employer's Liability insurance covers your legal liability in accidents to servants, but it would be much simpler for each couple to own Comprehensive Personal Liability coverage. That sort of policy covers your liability for accidents to past time service and gives a lot of additional protection for a very small premium. No family should be without it.

* If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office, we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be no charge or obligation of any kind.
