Glenn Hardy is celebrating his 16th year as the voice of Mutual Don Lee's twice-daily Alka Seltzer "Newspaper of the Air" (Sun. thru Fri., 10:00 a. m. and 9:00 p. m.) during the month of March 1950—a record for continuous sponsorship for any West coast newscaster. Hardy is a hard, conscientious worker when on the job, but he takes both work and play in stride. Before he took over his now 16-year-old job of reporting the "Newspaper of the Air" Glenn was known for his work as the popular emcee of the then-famous "Barn-Dance" show, and for his announcing of the beloved "Crockett Family" program, two of his major assignments. These more glamorous air jobs had been preceded by posts with considerable less luster, looking back to the depression days of 1932, when jobs were scarce and the tall, eager-eyed lad from St. Louis was happy to be a switchboard operator, mail boy, and all around handyman at Hollywood station KMTB. Stage-struck as a St. Louis youth in his teens, Hardy learned to play the sax by correspondence, so he could embark on a theatrical career of sorts. A well-received debut appearance at an amateur contest convinced him the theater was for him. For physical characteristics, Hardy is tall, slim and good-looking, with dark hair and eyes, and an infectious smile. Married to a pretty brunette named Yola, Glenn is the father of three boys—Jimmie, 7½; Bobby, 5½ and Christopher, 3. The family lives close to the Don Lee Hollywood station. Glenn's broadcast schedule is so restrictive he is unable to go any great distance from Hollywood at any time. That's why, during vacations, he likes to take off to California mountain lakes to fish to his heart's content and enjoy the life of the open spaces.

China's Communist Rulers Facing Difficulties, State Department Reports Reveal

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Diplomatic reports have convinced top State department officials that China's Communist rulers are running into extreme difficulties in trying to consolidate their hold on the country. As a result, these officials believe that any Chinese Communist action to spread Red control into Southeast Asia will be slowed down if not indefinitely delayed.

This, in turn, gives the United States and other western nations a little longer time. They need it to complete their own plans for aiding the Southeast Asian countries such as Indochina to put up a stout defense of their freedom from Communist domination.

Secretary of State Acheson in a speech at San Francisco last week promised limited military, economic and advisory assistance to the Southeast Asian countries. He thus completed the outline of America's basic policy toward that non-Communist area of the world. The precise steps to be taken are now in the final stages of consideration, and decisions by Acheson, Secretary of Defense Johnson and a President Truman may come fairly soon.

In China itself, where the Communists have achieved one of their greatest triumphs since the Russian revolution, there are said to be increasing reports of restlessness and discontent. Together, these are said to add up to a kind of disillusionment with the hopes many Chinese apparently had entertained, that a change of politics and rule would mean an end to some of China's suffering. Chinese picture not bright.

Instead, State department officials are studying information that shows: 1. The populous coastal areas of China are undergoing constantly increasing economic difficulties; the Nationalist blockade is cutting off supplies they urgently need. Trade has been hurt too by the Communists' general disregard for the normal deficiencies of treatment of foreigners, notably Americans.

2. The increasing reports of crop failures and food shortages and millions of people, as Acheson told a San Francisco audience, may die in the months immediately ahead. 3. The Communists still have millions of troops under arms and presumably intend to keep them that way. This is always a drain on any nation's resources and may be an extremely heavy burden when those resources are weakened by other causes.

Some officials here believe that Communist China, instead of moving into a period of Soviet-like industrialization, is being forced backward into a more agricultural economy. For its part, the United States is developing a policy of friendly sympathy for the Chinese people as distinguished from their rulers. In line with this, Acheson said last week that this government is prepared to allow trade on a strictly cash basis between the United States and China—but only in "harmless" consumer goods—not in arms.

Accused Federal Worker Cleared After 15 Months

WASHINGTON, March 21—(AP)—The story of a man who supervised secret workers in the government's bureau of standards for 15 months before he himself received loyalty clearance has been disclosed.

The story was related to members of a House appropriations sub-committee by bureau officials. Dr. Edward U. Condon, head of the bureau, told the lawmakers the agency knew the facts in the case all along. He said the security investigation of the unidentified worker took much longer than was necessary, and he hinted that "improper allegations" were made against the man and were later disproved.

Until he finally received clearance last December, the man couldn't even enter the restricted areas he supervised unless he took along one of his own men who already had been checked.

Condon himself once was called one of the weakest links in the U. S. atomic security, by the House's Un-American Activities committee. His repeated demands for a chance to deny that charge in person never were granted.

Some parts of the appropriations hearings dealing with the man who waited 15 months for clearance were held off the record, leaving gaps in the report just issued.

But at one point, subcommittee chairman Rooney (D-N.Y.) said it was a "very, very serious thing to charge a man with supervision of activities in restricted areas and then take 15 months before he is given security clearance."

Condon said the government security program, while necessary, "has been used more for malicious slander and wrecking of character than anything I know of." The navy was the agency which had the job of clearance of supervision. It took the case in September, 1948, and finally granted clearance in December, 1949.

Death Claims Daughter Of President Hayes

LEWISTON, Me., March 20—(AP)—President Rutherford B. Hayes' last surviving child—his only daughter—is dead at 82. Mrs. Frances (Fanny) Hayes died last night at the Marcotte Home here.

Her father was an Ohio Congressman when she was born Sept. 2, 1867. She spent her early childhood in the Ohio governor's mansion—her father was governor three terms—and went with him to the white house when he was elected president in 1877. Mrs. Hayes' mother died in 1889, her father four years later. Her marriage to ex-Senator Harry E. Smith in 1897 ended in divorce shortly after the First World war. Mrs. Hayes' son, Dalton, who also dropped the name of Smith, died in Florida last January.

More than one-seventh of Utah's area, or 13,130 square miles, is said to contain workable coal deposits.

Junior Class Sets Prom For Seniors Soon To Depart

The junior class prom, "the" dance of the year in Roseburg senior high school circles, will take place Friday night, March 24, from 8 to 12 p. m.

The affair, staged by the junior class in honor of departing seniors, will carry out the theme of "One Enchanted Evening." That's all the indication the seniors can have concerning the decorations now in progress, Marie Di Loreto, prom advisor, revealed. Among those working on the construction and art work are: Chuck Plummer, Larry Burr, Bob Laws, Barbara West, Peggy Knight, Doree Ellis, Joan Ollivant and Kee Briggs. Also participating in preparatory work are the junior class officers: Loren Johnson, president; Janet Foster, vice-president; Mary Lynn Holm, sergeant-at-arms; Joanne Ware, secretary, and Joan Long, treasurer.

Faculty advisors aiding the juniors are, besides Miss Di Loreto: Esther Dyar, Ralph Scudder and Ralph Purdy. Miss Dyar is in charge of the orchestra, program and refreshments. Scudder and Miss Di Loreto are in charge of decorations and Purdy is in charge of dismantling the decorations after the dance.

Patrons and patronesses are: Mr. and Mrs. George Erickson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Price, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Scudder, faculty, and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Wilshire and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Barrows, parents.

The Elks club band will furnish the music.

Extra Talk With The Butcher Costs You Just That Much More For Meat

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON. — (AP)—Madam, that extra time you take to discuss a cut of meat with your butcher helps make your grocery bill larger.

Every minute you use takes up about three cents of the butcher's time. At least, that's the way the Agriculture department figures it. In other words, the more customers a butcher is able to serve in the course of a day, the smaller the make-up the store management must make to cover the butcher's wage.

Housewives who can't make up their minds at the meat counter are one reason many retail stores are offering pre-cut and pre-wrapped meats from a self-service counter.

A recent Agriculture department survey showed that the number of such stores increased from 400 to 1,200 during the past year.

"Most food buyers like the idea," the department said. "It does away with waiting lines at the meat counter, gives larger selection of meats and makes it easier to buy the kind and quantity of meat to suit the family budget."

However, the department said, some food shoppers still prefer to talk with their butcher and then watch him cut the meat. Such shoppers seldom realize, it added, that this time could be used more economically cutting meat.

The survey showed that the pre-packaging service may help bring about changes in demands for meat. Under self-service, sales of beef steaks and roasts, poultry and specialty items have increased. Sales of smoked hams, seafoods and pork roasts have decreased compared to sales by conventional methods.

This may indicate that the self-service system is encouraging further expansion in cattle production but discouraging hog raising. Costs per package were higher
