KRNR
DIAL-LOG

Prior to broadcast time, Jack Bailey telephones one woman each day and records both sides of the conversation. This recording introduces one of the five candidates for Queen on each QFAD program.

JACK BAILEY

As a result of these remote telephone calls for candidates, many have actually been selected Queen for a Day with all the regal honors that go along with the title.
Whether the person wins or not, because the interview is used on the air, the wish of the at-home candidate is granted. However, if she does win, she will get the full Hollywood treatment, including the trip, the whirl that they normally give the Queen, plus all the clothes and gifts scheduled for the Queen that day. All telephone candidates have to do to be eligible is to send in a post card with their name, address, and telephone number and briefly telling QFAD what they would wish if they were Queen.

TONIGHT: Young Mark Fisher seemed to be able to fool all the town of Silver Horn, except for "The Cisco Kid." It's a rude shock to the townspeople, when "Cisco" discovers a "Murder at the Bank" (7:30-8:00 p. m.). The music of Claude Thornhill and his orchestra will be spotlighted on "Tunefully Yours" (8:00-8:30 p. m.), and at 8:30, Frank Purdy presents an up-to-the-minute picture of the world of sports... locally and nationally.

SATURDAY: Alfred Wallenstein and the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra will present Rossini's "William Tell Overture" as the initial composition for the "Symphonies for Youth" concert (10:30-11:30 a. m.). A documentary-type story of the latest Air Force development for the self-sustaining of downed airmen—a device called the "Flying PX" will be outlined on "The Air Force Hour" (11:30-12 noon). Secretary of the Navy Francis P. Matthews will hold this week's conference with newsmen for "Meet the Press" (8:30-9:00 p. m.).

Romance Spurs
GI To Busy Time
Of Going Places

SAN PEDRO, Calif., March 24—(AP)—Corporal Weldon H. Franck of the U. S. army is a young man who should go far. In fact he already has.

A sample of his ability at going places:

Franck, 22, hitchhiked by plane to Germany with $50 in his pocket, married a German girl, went on a honeymoon and got back to Fort MacArthur here right on the deadline of his 41-day-leave—with $5 change. His bride is still in Germany. But will be following her husband to this country soon.

The story came to light, belatedly, at the fort yesterday. Franck, of Portland, Ore., related that he met and became engaged to Annehese Bacher, 21, of Stuttgart, Germany, when he was in that country.

He said he decided to try a flying hitchhiking trip to Germany when he learned early this year that it would take three years to get his fiancée into the United States on quota. His superior officers approved the trip with air transportation when available.

So he started from Long Beach, Calif., Jan. 13, catching rides on a catch-as-catch can basis aboard U.
S. planes. He related that he and the former Miss Bacher were wed in Stuttgart last Jan. 31 in a civil ceremony five days after his arrival. He said they had a second ceremony, a church wedding, on Feb. 10.

He said his expenditures were light as traveling didn't cost him anything. Most of the $45 was spent for food. He said his German marriage license cost the equivalent of 80 cents American money. The corpsal said that on his return he applied for an immigration visa for his wife on a non-quota basis as a result, experts here to arrive here soon after April 1.
Franck didn't fancy that idea of waiting three years.
