ST PATRICK'S TEA BENEFITS AZALEA HOUSE PROJECT

About $35 was added to the Azalea House building fund as the result of a St. Patrick's day tea given recently by the Riddle Homemaker's club in the Guild hall in Riddle. Azalea house will be a cooperative home for 50 girls to be built on the campus of the Oregon State college in Corvallis.

The tea was a successful event with about 100 attending between the hours of three and five. The hall was decorated with green and white streamers, Irish cutouts, shamrocks and spring flowers. The tea table was covered with a hand-made lace cloth and the centerpiece of daffodils was flanked by green tapers.

Demonstration tables of 1940-50 projects showed textile painting, 4-H sewing, lamp shades, Christmas packages, frozen food preparation aids and blouses.

The program included a folk dance and those participating were Mrs. Lewis Wooley, Mrs. Earl Linquist, Mrs. William Macdonald, Mrs. Harry Dayton, Mrs. Orville Endicott, Mrs. Glenn Ryder, Mrs. Leonard Dawson and Mrs. Arthur Robbins.

4-H girls contributed to the program as follows: novelty piano duet, Karen Lou Ritchey, Jane Gould; 4-H pledge recitation, Clara Neil Strode, Sue Harrel Shirley Wooley, Irene Carolyn Dawson, Doris Huffman, Sylvia Stremcha, Roseann Nichols, Sharon Walsh, Violet and Eileen Shepherd; piano solo, Suzanne Bordeaux; guitar solos, Charlotte Strode; poem, "If," Joan Mitchell; song, "Now is the Hour," Helen Cleary, Paula Smith, Jane Gold, Sallie Smith, Barbara McDonald; "Sing Your Way Home" sung by the entire group.

Pouring were Mrs. Lufe Atkins, Mrs. Harry Williams, Helena Riddle, Mrs. Austin Wilson, and Mrs. Darrell Carter.

Mrs. Don Clark was general chairman for the tea.

Boy Scout Lesson For Son Backfires

LOS ANGELES, March 30. — (AP) — Fireman John C. Hess, 49, gave his Boy Scout son a lesson in first aid for an hour Tuesday night.

Then said son Robert: "But how do you do the fireman's lift?"

"Simple," replied the fireman, "I'll show you."

Hess then tossed the boy over his shoulder in proper fashion and straightened up. His heel caught in the rug.

The fireman was taken to a hospital with a broken leg.
