

McCarthy Tells Senate He Has Documentary Proof Of Lattimore's Link With Reds

WASHINGTON, April 6. — (AP) — Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) told the Senate Thursday he will supply documents showing that Owen Lattimore is a Soviet agent and "is or has been a member of the Communist party."

McCarthy has charged that Lattimore, Johns Hopkins university professor and one-time State department consultant, is the top Russian espionage agent in this country.

Lattimore has called that charge "pure moonshine." He is now on the way back to the United States from a United Nations mission to Afghanistan and will have a chance to reply formally to McCarthy on next Tuesday at a Senate committee hearing.

The committee has been looking into McCarthy's charges that the State department is a haven for Communist and Communist sympathizers.

Headed by Senator Tydings (D-Md.), it is a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee.

McCarthy made his promise to produce documents to back up his charges at the outset of a Senate speech.

McCarthy's intention of making the speech had been well publicized and galleries of the Senate chamber were packed with spectators.

But only 36 senators—and only eight of them Democrats—were on the floor when the Wisconsin Republican began speaking.

Last Monday McCarthy asked FBI director J. Edgar Hoover to have an FBI agent on hand when he addressed the Senate "so I can turn over to him documents in the Lattimore case which I consider of some importance."

Hoover promised to have an agent present, but there was no indication whether he had arrived when McCarthy started to speak. McCarthy said that in a public hearing he had referred to Lattimore as a "bad security risk." He said he should have referred to him then as a "bad policy risk."

He added: "Today I intend to give the Senate documents to show that Lattimore is a Soviet agent and is or has been a member of the Communist party."

more is a Soviet agent and is or has been a member of the Communist party."

He also said that a witness he did not name would be able to testify that Lattimore was "important in party circles for years."

McCarthy said he plans to discuss also the cases of Philip Jessup, ambassador at large, John S. Service and Haldore Hanson. He has accused these State department officials of pro-Communist leanings.

Jessup and Hanson have denied the Wisconsin senator's charges in public hearings. Service is to be heard soon.

McCarthy said he is convinced that two distinct but interlocking operations in the State department are "almost completely controlled and dominated" by persons more in sympathy with the Communist cause than with American democracy.

He named them as the Far Eastern division and the Voice of America.

McCarthy added hastily that he did not mean that all employees of the two divisions were Communist sympathizers.

"All but a small percent are honest and loyal Americans," he said. "But the small percent has been doing almost untold damage."

As he talked on, McCarthy pulled a document out of a batch of others on his Senate desk. He said it showed the prospective witness who would testify that Lattimore had been a member of the Communist party for several years.

Liaison Task Charged

Lattimore's instructions, McCarthy said, were to become acquainted with important government officials and to act as a liaison between the inner circle members of the party and the Fellow Travelers over whom the party had no discipline.

In this mission, McCarthy told his colleagues, Lattimore himself was one of those subject to party discipline.

McCarthy said he is turning the name of the mystery witness over to the FBI.

McCarthy then turned to another affidavit which he said had been signed by a man who is willing to testify before the Tydings committee.

Scholar Envisages Israel As Center Of World Peace

By LARRY ALLEN

TIBERIAS, Israel. — (AP) — A 78-year-old archeologist and Theologian from Los Angeles is campaigning on the shores of the Sea of Galilee as the first settler here from the western United States.

The "camp" of Antonio Frederick Finner consists of two luxury American style trailers which he occupies with his daughter, Adele Stanford.

"We are anxious to settle in Israel and continue our work for the good of the country," Finner said. "We believe that the biblical prophecy has been realized to a great extent with the establishment of the Jewish state."

"I am sure Israel will become the center for world peace and culture in the not too distant future."

Finner is happy he decided to leave California for a home in Israel. From his trailer, he says, he has a "million dollar view" of the Sea of Galilee and the snow-capped Mount Hermon.

Finner first visited Palestine over 20 years ago and has carried out considerable biblical research. His studies of Bible history took him to Hashemite Jordan where years ago he claimed to have discovered Mount Nebo, the peak from which Moses looked out at the forbidden land of Israel.

"I was the first to ascend the mountain by car," Finner said. He established a count of how he came to make his charges.

McCarthy said Lattimore had been described as one of the chief architects of American Far East policy. Any charge that Lattimore is a Communist, McCarthy said, could be made only after "deep study" and with proof to support the accusation.

"The senator who had this information," he said, "and didn't give it to the committee would be guilty of disloyalty."

"I was the first to ascend the mountain by car," Finner said. He established a biblical institute, lecture hall and printing house in Los Angeles and claimed to have developed a "graphic system for the study of the Bible."

In 1928 he said he published a book "Palestine Speaks" with 600 pages of illustrations. His society for Bible study consists of eight directors, including his daughter and son-in-law, and five others in Los Angeles.

He and his daughter, who is 27, find life along the Sea of Galilee quite pleasing. She hauls water for the trailers in buckets from the sea 50 feet below.

Finner said his son-in-law, V. K. Stanford, manager of the tool production department of the Douglas Aircraft Co., is expected to join them here shortly and may have some business to do with the Israeli government.

Writer Likes Greenwich Village, Leo, The Intelligent Piano Mover

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK. — (AP) — Now you can believe about Greenwich Village what you want to, but I will always love it—if for nothing else—because Leo, the intelligent piano mover, still lives there.

This fellow Leo is one of the gentle characters you bump into in the village, which is not a nest of international Bohemian sin, as people might think. It is a place people are born into or move into and live work-a-day existences, pretty much like Chicago, Hubbs, Ala., or Peculiar, Mo.

One of the most neighborly characters in neighborly Greenwich Village is this fellow, Leo, he was a great guy if you had to move from one apartment to another, but you really did have to count your books first.

I would be the last man to say that Leo would take another "slow" reading material. But by day Leo was a mover by trade, and at night he used to go around the village bars peddling books. Where he got them was his secret.

Bound With Rope

The books were bound up in a rope that tied a miscellaneous market. For half a buck you could buy the third volume of "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," or pay a dollar for "Gone With the Wind." Leo's big problem was in delivering sets. If you depended upon him for your study of history, he might carry you through the lives of three Caesars—and then you would have to skip fifteen or more centuries to "Sinful Cities of the Western World," priced 75 cents. I never did find out what happened to the Caesars.

The other night I bumped into Leo at a village refreshment stand for the first time in years. Leo had dropped his drab workaday garb and was wearing a snazzy gabardine coat.

"I quit moving pianos five years ago," he said. "Tried to lift one and tore my guts out. Spent months in a hospital."

The suspicion remains, however, that he has maintained his contacts with other movers, as he still had a rope tied bundle of books for sale.

When Leo doesn't sell his books, he goes home and reads those he has left. This has given him an assorted education.

"I went to work at 8 and spent 20 years earning a living for other children in the family," he said. "The trouble with this world is that by the time you understand what is wrong with it, it is too late to do anything about it."

Leo basically loves authors and thinks they are underpaid—all except poets.

"The churlishness of poets is beyond belief," he said. "It began with this guy Horace. He used to get drunk and criticize his patrons so much that they had to carry him outside and beat sense into his head."

"They've been like that ever since—churls, that's what poets are. No gratitude in them, and society owes them nothing. Not a thing."

Leo, who loves Shakespeare and can hum Verdi, might be prejudiced. He has a book written by a village poet and could peddle it for a buck, instead of a quarter, if it only were autographed.

HOUSING VOTE DATED

ASTORIA, April 6.—(AP)—An advisory vote on federal low-rent housing proposed for Astoria will be taken here in the May 19 primary election.

The city council decided to put the proposal on the ballot to determine popularity of the plan to build 115 homes for rent. The council said the vote would not be binding.

while he's sober," Leo complained, "because he says I'm mercenary. And if I buy him a dime beer he won't sign it because he gets delusions of grandeur."

"And you know what kind of poet he is? He's the kind that will write up on Worcestershire sauce!"
