

New Greyhound 'Scenicruiser' To Be Shown Here

The Greyhound "Scenicruiser," a sleek, new 6-wheel streamlined bus with skylights, will arrive in Roseburg on May 3 for a showing of what Greyhound terms "a new travel miracle." The bus will be exhibited at the Greyhound depot, 346 S. Stephens, from 5 p. m. to 8 p. m. on May 3.

This announcement was made today by Andrew Murray, local Greyhound agent, who said that the showing of the scenicruiser introduces a new era in highway travel. Commander Scott, famous world traveler and star of Greyhound's "Romance of the Highways" radio program, will be the master of ceremonies at the showing.

"The Scenicruiser is a revolutionary new type of bus," said Murray. "It seats 43 passengers and gives each 'front seat' visibility, because the bus not only has spacious windows but is also equipped with two windshields and skylights that enable passengers to see the sky, tops of trees and mountains and otherwise greatly increasing the view of features along the highways.

"The bus is more than 90 percent safety glass above seat level, and the glare and strain of strong sunlight is filtered out by a new tinting method which does not interfere in any way with clear vision. The bus has lavatory, drinking fountain, two-way radio, public address system and facilities for playing recorded music.

"Wherever the Scenicruiser has been shown it has attracted thousands of interested people," said Murray, "and the new bus has been acclaimed as a revolutionary new development in highway transportation. We are making arrangements to welcome a large crowd when the Scenicruiser comes to Roseburg on May 3."

All's Ready For Vote On Roseburg Budget

West Roseburg residents living south of Harvard will vote with ward 3 at the Roseburg hotel. Residents of Millers addition and Sleepy Hollow will vote with ward 4 at the city hall.

The total proposed budget is $391,695. Anticipated revenues total $148,200 leaving a balance to raise by taxation of $153,495. The amount inside the six per cent limitation figure totals $51,497.83. The latter figure includes the amount of the city's tax base of $53,017.83, plus exempt items previously voted by the public. These exempt items include $10,500 for bond payment and interest; $9,500 budgeted for the office of city manager, and $6,490 for the public library.

Why Receipts Will Drop

While the total budget as proposed in about $21,000 less than that of the current year's budget, the estimated receipts will be $62,119 less than that of the current year. The reason for the accumulated budget balances last year have been used for the projects for which they were created, principally street lighting, a municipal garage, street widening, police radio and other works and equipment.

Improvements to the city included in the proposed budget are small in comparison, but include amounts for extension of street lights south on Stephens; permanent improvements, books and supplies for the library; an asphalt spreader, a pickup truck to replace the 12-year-old truck now in use; street lights for newly annexed areas, mosquito control and other lesser improvements.

Salaries of city employees remain unchanged, except for adjustments to place the workers on a more equitable basis. Additional help has been added to most city departments to take care of expanded city needs.

The exact millage tax under the proposed budget will not be known until after the assessor's office has closed its books for the new tax year, but the tax rate is expected to be slightly higher than the 16.6 mills of the current year. Assessed valuation will be up and newly annexed areas will also add to the assessment rolls to keep the tax levy relatively low.

The complete budget appears on page 10 of today's News-Review.

Florida Primary To Decide Fate Of Sen. Pepper

(By The Associated Press)

Florida Democrats will decide tomorrow whether to keep Claude Pepper in the U. S. Senate or replace him with Rep. George Smathers.

The Democratic primary, in which Communism and parts of the Truman national program have become involved, has attracted a record registration of 1,096,569 voters. It will be watched nationally.

Alabama also is holding a Democratic primary tomorrow of interest beyond the state borders, offering possible new light on the depth of the civil rights dispute within the party.

Ballot box fireworks in those two states are likely to overshadow primaries in Ohio, where Democrats will pick an opponent for Senator Taft (R-Ohio), and in Indiana, where both parties will nominate for 11 House seats.

Florida voters will decide what looks like a photo-finish race between the veteran Senator Pepper and Smathers, 36-year-old former marine. The primary winner isn't expected to have any trouble with Republican opposition in November, as only 60,395 Republicans are registered.

Smathers has been trying to hang a pro-red label on Pepper, contending that the senator is too friendly with organizations Smathers calls pro-Communist.

Denying this, Pepper has fired back that Smathers has been running "a Republican campaign against me in a Democratic primary," Pepper says he has followed the "Roosevelt-Truman program."

The President's civil rights proposals have figured in the Florida campaign, but not to the degree in which they've been mentioned in Alabama.

Situation Elsewhere

There, Senator Lister Hill is seeking renomination and at the same time is trying to help along a move to bring the Alabama party organization back into line with the national Democratic party.

Hill hasn't bothered to campaign against his primary opponent, Lawrence McNeil, but he and Senator Sparkman (D-Ala) have been contending that the best way to get benefits for Alabama is for the state party to turn away from the rights group it followed in 1948 and go back into the national fold.

Both sides are strongly opposed to the President's civil rights program, but differ on whether they should fight it from within or outside of the national party.

In Ohio, seven Democrats are trying for the senatorial nomination to oppose Taft. The choice is expected to lie between State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson and Mayor Michael V. Disalle of Toledo.

In a state where organized labor is gunning for Taft, the CIO-PAC didn't endorse one candidate in the Democratic primary. The Truman administration says it is keeping its hands off the primary race.

Indiana house races haven't whipped up any interest outside the state. The campaign will begin to get hot, however, after the Democrats hold a convention June 27 to nominate an opponent for Senator Homer Capehart, who is expected to get renomination at a June 30 Republican convention.

Kansas City Gambling Nets Millions Yearly

lowed the jury's report was the firing of Samuel C. Hayden as an assistant Jackson county prosecutor.

Hayden was among 15 persons named as operators of Kansas City's largest dice game. Hayden denied the accusation. Others listed as operators were Gargotta and Robert S. Greene, county superintendent of building.

In its bitter condemnation of gamblers, the jury said: "It is shocking to learn that a regular system of law violations can develop and that operators of gambling houses grow fat and wax arrogant with the profits of their nefarious enterprises, apparently without the slightest danger of prosecution for their violations of the state law."

In addition to its report on gambling, the jury said tens of thousands of dollars were exacted in Kansas City from business firms by jumping or threatening to jump real estate or personal property taxes.

Edward D. Collins Sr., and Claude Lewis, deputy assessors, were listed as the men involved. The report said the tax fixing occurred under the administration of County Assessor George R. Clark, a political associate of Binaggio.

Traffic Death Rate Short Of Record Low

Oregon's traffic death rate is failing to match the all-time low established in the early months of 1949. Secretary of State Earl T. Newberry reported Friday.

The traffic rate is a figure representing the number of lives lost in each 100 million miles of travel, as computed from gasoline consumption records and total accident fatalities. It is estimated at 5.4 for the three-month period ending March 31, as compared with 4.7 at the end of March last year.

Despite the increase, Newberry said the rate is running well below the yearly average because fatal mishaps are not keeping pace with the large gain in motor-vehicle travel. He warned, however, that the upsurge thus far this year may indicate a reversal of the trend.

April traffic death reports now being compiled show a number of high speed collisions and loss-of-control smash-ups on inter-city highways, the secretary said. Records for past years reveal that about three out of four lives lost in Oregon traffic are due to accidents in rural areas, with excessive speed the most common contributing factor.
