

Lions Bidden To Yoncalla Meet

Invitation to attend the Yoncalla Lions club charter night meeting Saturday night, May 13, was extended by Tom Ellis, secretary of that club, to the Roseburg Lions at the latter's meeting Thursday night in the Hotel Umpqua.

The Yoncalla Lions program will be held in the new high school in that community. The Drain Lions are the sponsoring club and will arrange the meeting. With Ellis were Lewis McDaniel and Harley Means. The club, organized March 28, now has 29 members.

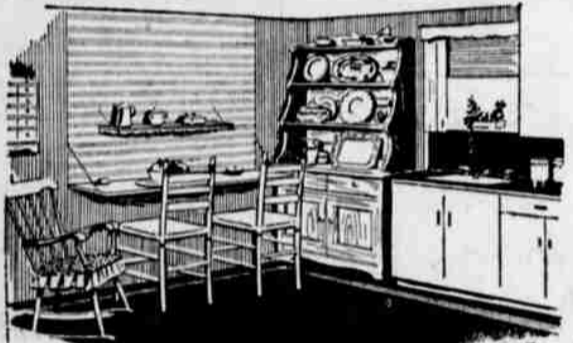

The Roseburg Lions will hold nomination of officers May 11. The program for that night will be a debate between selected teams, made up of club members, on the forthcoming airport bond election issue.

David C. Shaw, Gold Beach attorney and democratic candidate for congressman from this district, spoke on the office of strategic service. An account of his talk is contained in a separate story.

Interior Decorating... can be FUN!
By ONA BARRON

KITCHEN PRIVILEGES

Those of us who live in rented houses of indeterminate vintage frequently find ourselves faced with the task of modernizing a drab, cheerless kitchen. To equip this room with up-to-date metal sink and storage units often entails unreasonable expenditure... particularly if the landlord is uncooperative. But paint, wallpaper and imagination can transform a what-seems-like hopeless kitchen into one of the gayest, most cheerful spots in the home.

Composition board was used to enclose the old-fashioned sink in the kitchen sketched above. Deep green linoleum on floor repeated in drainboard cover and splash-board. Woodwork and cupboards were painted a soft, receding green to contrast with gay red-and-cream peppermint stripe wallpaper.

Color-matching paper in wider stripe has been used horizontally to form interesting panel on snack shelf wall. Snack shelf and smaller shelf above were fashioned from pine planking and hung with metal chains.

Maple ladder-back chairs slide under snack shelf when not in use. China dishes on maple hutch give room a festive air. Small rocker with red chintz cushion adds quaint homey touch. Floor interest has been heightened by stenciled red-and-cream border.

We're proud of our maple selection, and extend you a cordial invitation to come in and see it.

Gideon Leader Will Be Sunday Pulpit Guest

Pulpit guest for the First Methodist church this Sunday will be Thomas Dryden of Portland, president of the Gideon society. Rev. W. A. MacArthur announced today.

Dryden will address the local Methodist congregation at 11 a. m. on the work of the Gideons and the responsibility of every Christian person. He comes to Roseburg while serving his seventh year as state president of the organization which is particularly known for its program of placing Bibles in all of this nation's hotel rooms.

Dryden first became interested in the Gideons' work while in Anchorage, Alaska, in 1917 and he has been active in the work since that time. He is well known in this state as a Christian layman and has been a Sunday school teacher for 27 years.

Rev. MacArthur said today all persons of the community are invited to the Sunday service, including those who do not regularly attend another Roseburg church. A free offering will be taken at the close of the service to further the program of the Gideons.

Included on the Sunday morning service will be music from two choirs. The adult choir, under the direction of Lloyd Riffe, will sing the anthem, "Savior, Like a Shepherd Lead Us," by Noble Cain; and the junior choir will perform "In the Garden," by Miles.

Amateur Program Open To All; Auditions Set

Everyone, ages one to 100, will be eligible to try out for the Roseburg Active club sponsored amateur show May 16.

The auditions are scheduled for Saturday in the junior high school auditorium. All participants should be on hand for the auditions, which will take place between 9 a. m. and 12 noon. Persons unable to attend may make other arrangements by calling 519R1, the home of Kenneth Atterbury, general chairman.

Numerous prize awards will be available for the winners the night of the big show. All proceeds will be used by the club for civic projects.

Dispute Over Milk Prices Not Settled

ing for regular deliveries to the Roseburg Veterans hospital has been complied with, he said. The Veterans hospital has not been without milk since the strike began.

Local dairy farmers today confirmed the report issued previously from Grants Pass that the local milk price dispute will be discussed here Tuesday by Thomas L. Ohlsen, milk marketing administrator, meeting with grade A dairymen.

Willing To Negotiate
Members of the Umpqua Valley Milk Producers' association declared today they were willing to submit all negotiations to arbitration through a federal conciliator, giving him the facts for a decision.

"However," they continued, "we will not accept dictated prices from any individual, such as the milk marketing administrator, or the president of any corporation."

The producers group said they wanted "practical answers to a few problems."

"We wish to negotiate and retain a price for our milk which is the same as we have had for the past 90 days. This is a wage return for our labor."

"We want to reach some understanding with the distributors so that milk from certain farmers' herds with bacteria count of 500,000 cannot be mixed and sold with our good milk, which meets state requirements of less than 80,000 bacteria count."

Price Satisfies Consumers
The farmers' group also indicated milk was available at several stores at a 20-cent price and that several merchants have indicated there is no consumer resistance to such a price.

The farmers also claimed to have the support of some local persons in picketing the Umpqua dairy. They said two local women have contacted them to offer their services on picket duty to support the farmers' position.

Spokesmen for one of the larger wholesale grocery firms said today that movements of canned milk had picked up "only a little."

They said there was no cause for alarm of a shortage and that their orders for shipments here of canned milk were "just about normal."

Wartime Strategy Task Described By D. C. Shaw

Frenchmen, who had been brought out of France, to obtain information. They were to be flown back in moonlight, but bad weather delayed the flight a month, and one of the men was killed upon landing by parachute. It took many weeks to train another man for the job.

It was necessary, he stated to learn the loyal groups and persons in Europe. The business and church classes were practically wiped out by the Germans. The labor class was about all that remained. But it was known there were many persons in Europe who were sympathetic and willing to help the cause of the allies. The problem was to contact them. An old man, a former longshoreman in France, proved of tremendous value in supplying dock information about that country as an aid in the invasion.

Future espionage, said Shaw, must first operate on facts, and second, wherever friends are known, information must be available as to who they are, what they can do, how they can be reached and how they can work for us. We cannot conduct war without friends, he declared.
