Here and There

Roseburg has been brimming with social events these past few weeks. Private affairs offer many opportunities for new spring outfits. Clubs and organizations are bringing their activities to a close and the end of May will see these taper to a summer vacation.

Beta Sigma Phi chapters are installing new officers and Monday evening the four local chapters gathered for a formal banquet at Carl's Haven. Talk about a bevy of beauties! Roseburg is fortunate in having such a large group of good looking young matrons.

Just 14 years ago Beta Sigma Phi was organized in Roseburg by five young women and their sponsor, Mrs. H. C. Church. Now the group boasts a membership of more than 100.

Jean Josse, local BSP member who moved recently to North Hollywood, Calif., has found her sorority membership of especial interest. She was invited to a North Hollywood chapter recently and immediately found herself at home in the group. One local chapter is writing to a chapter in England.

Schools are rounding out their social activities also and last Saturday night the Latin department held a Roman banquet. Class picnics and other clubs are holding their final activities. Music groups are climaxing their year's work with public programs and in the near offing is the junior high school operetta, "The Outlaw King".

Along the line of music come the spring recitals by local music teachers when the young sprouts make their public appearance with quaking knees. Mothers hold their breath till Junior and Mary strike the final key.

Mrs. S. Clarence Trued will present a group of pupils in recital Sunday as the opening gesture of National Music Week.

Spring and music go hand in hand into the warm summer months which are just around the corner.

OUR DIAMONDS ARE MORE THAN TEN MILLION YEARS OLD

Yes, our diamonds as well as practically all of the diamonds worn by men and women today, are at least 10 million years old. Since the day your diamond was formed in the slowly cooling molten lava in a volcano, the face of the earth has been almost completely changed.

The Grand Canyon of the Colorado river had not yet begun. The Colorado river had cut no deeper into the earth than has our Deer Creek. Mt. Mazama, later to explode and form Crater Lake was just beginning to erupt to form a mountain.

The oldness of your diamond attests to its durability and hardness. Many diamonds have been found in stream gravels hundreds of miles from the place where they were formed, having been washed along by the water and gravel. Most of these diamonds were found to be very slightly the worse for wear from their rough mode of transportation.

It is only fitting that the diamond—the hardest and most brilliant of gems should be the symbol of the engagement, an agreement for long standing, for a diamond is really forever.
