'Cowboy Breakfast' At Fairgrounds Big Success As Just An Experiment

By WARREN MACK

Many "extras" have been provided at the fairgrounds, augmenting the necessities provided by the county fair board. Individual members of the Sheriff's posse are not financially able to foot the bill themselves, nor is money always forthcoming from county funds. The rodeo itself is usually a money-making affair, but every cent—after expenses—goes back into improving the fairgrounds and maintaining the buildings.

However, someone in the posse came up with an idea recently to enrich the posse's coffers and enable them to finance the new 4-H club room in the main exhibit building (more of that 4-H room later).

So Sunday morning, posse members and their wives held their first practice "Cowboy Breakfast." It wasn't really a "dry run," as the army saying goes, because the food and hospitality were real enough. But yesterday's breakfast did give the posse auxiliary members some idea how many they could serve and what the project would cost.

Held from 8-10 a. m. in the 4-H room, wives of posse members did themselves proud cooking real man-sized breakfasts. The entire so to speak, consisted of either ham, bacon or steak. Some hungry posse members couldn't make up their minds to such a choice and "reluctantly" tried all three. Then, of course, eggs and hash brown spuds were added to each plate and guests were given a choice of hotcakes or fresh biscuits (or both). Gallons of coffee topped off the meal.

Superlatives Voiced
The greatest compliment to the ten ladies (and some husbands) who helped prepare the king-size breakfast was the way in which guests piled in, cleaned their plates and asked for more, if they could find room for seconds.

Sheriff "Bud" Carter leaned back in his chair, sighed and remarked something to the effect that this "was the best darned food I ever ate." Doc Carter's guest, Burns stock breeder Wilbur Haynes, declared, "I sure enjoyed this; there was really plenty to eat."

One unidentified member of the posse was heard to say, "Haven't eaten so good since I got married."

Other members of the posse and their families; county fair board officials, invited guests and a News-Review reporter all agreed the plan was a big success. Kitty Aldred, Active club candidate for queen of the Sutherland Timber days carnival, momentarily forgot her self-imposed diet, but couldn't quite keep up with her escort, Del McKay. Both decided the majority was right—the breakfast was a success.

Credit for the feed went to Mrs. C. T. Tipton and Mrs. George Miller, co-chairmen of the event. They were assisted by cooks and helpers, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cook, Mrs. Jack Culver, Mrs. Dwayne Jones, Mrs. A. C. Sherlock, Mrs. Stewart Stephens and Miss Anita Spencer. Club Room Improved

In addition to trying the mass breakfast idea, the event was also in the form of a baptism of the recently-completed 4-H club room. Last year, county fair planners decided the 4-H dollar dinners, food displays and baking contests were being held a little too close to other exhibits in the main room. So, posse members took over the idea of sealing off a portion of the exhibit building for 4-H club use.

They partitioned off a room 20 feet wide and 40 feet long, sealed it with plywood, some of which was donated, and installed three surplus electric stoves. The entire west wall is composed of glass panels, enabling fair goers a perfect view of what goes on inside the room and vice-versa. The room is the posse's gift to the 4-H club, to be used for future fairs and other events.

As a result of Sunday's experiment the posse will offer breakfast to the general public, as well as cowboys and stock handlers, come Sunday, June 25, which begins the second day of the Douglas County Sheriff's Posse rodeo.

Breakfast will be served family style from 7-10 a. m. and popular prices will prevail. The posse says no one will complain about the price—customers are guaranteed all they can eat. And if yesterday's affair was any indication, once around the table will be plenty for most folks.

Sisters Die When Horses Toss Them Into Water

ARCADIA, Calif., June 12—(AP)—Two teen-age sisters whose frightened horses tossed them into a reservoir drowned yesterday despite frantic rescue attempts by a boy companion.

The equestrian trio, all experienced riders, were returning from a day-long ride part way up Mt. Wilson. The sisters were Aileen, 17 and Alice Young, 13, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Noah H. Young of nearby El Monte. With them was Edward Dean Patterson, 16, also of El Monte.

Sutherland To Spray Sewers For Mosquitoes

At a meeting June 5, the Sutherland city council decided to spray open sewer ditches for mosquitoes. The advisability of spraying mill ponds was discussed, but the council thought open sewers were the main breeding places.

The main topic of the meeting was a water shortage in the higher levels of town. Several people from Sixth avenue were present to complain of a lack of water when people irrigate their lawns and gardens. Fifth and Fourth streets were also affected. The council decided to change watering regulations so persons living in certain sections may irrigate only two hours on two days per week.
