

Weyerhaeuser Workers Want Bargaining Shift

KLAMATH FALLS, June 14—(P) A group of Weyerhaeuser Timber company employees who believe they can speak for a majority of Klamath Falls Weyerhaeuser workers — union and non-union — have requested a meeting with IWA-CIO officials to determine if bargaining rights of the local IWA should be taken away from the union's northwest office.

They want to put negotiations toward ending the long strike against Weyerhaeuser's Klamath Falls plant into the hands of Klamath Falls men.

Members of the group, who asked that their names not be used, expressed dissatisfaction with handling of negotiations by James Fadling of Portland and the IWA regional negotiation committee.

About 1000 men are affected by the strike here.

Members of the group said they believe the strike can be settled within a few days on the local level. They said rank-and-file union members do not care for Weyerhaeuser's pension plan nor for the company's "package" plan of welfare benefits, but are interested in the company's secondary offer of a flat 10-cent hourly pay increase and the possibility that three paid holidays might be added to the offer.

The rank and file of union membership, they said, is not particularly interested in the union shop — which actually brings the men no money — but has been the No. 1 sticking point in negotiations between Fadling's committee and the company.

Fadling's regional negotiating committee has held out for a union shop commitment and the company has refused.

Lodges Of Freemasons Dissolved By Hungary

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 13—(P)—Hungary's Freemason Lodges, which celebrated their 200th anniversary this year, have been dissolved.

The interior ministry, which carried out the dissolution of the Soviet fraternal society yesterday, charged the lodges were "meeting places of the enemies of the people's Democrat (Communist) Republic, of Capitalist elements, and of the adherents of western imperialism."

"There were 16 lodges in Budapest, and three in other parts of the country."

Salem Kids Get July 4 Fireworks Privilege

SALEM, June 14—(P)—The kids here are going to have their July 4 fireworks after all.

The Salem city council, which voted recently to ban all fireworks, agreed Monday to change its mind at the request of fireworks dealers who said they already had laid in their stocks of fireworks.

The new ordinance, which the council said it would pass June 26, will allow sale of fireworks only during the first four days of July. And they could be exploded only on July 4.
