Add Cheese To Garden Plate

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

To turn garden vegetables into appealing summertime main dishes, team them with cheese. Cheese like all dairy foods, now in plentiful supply, is rich in first-class protein.

Tomatoes and Corn Au Gratin (Serves 4)

Two and one-half cups canned tomatoes (No. 2 can), 2 1/2 cups canned corn (No. 2 can), 2 cups

Chief Tye's footprint.

Monday the girls planted friendship seeds and registered for camp classes. The day was closed with a camp fire at which each cabin presented a stunt. Tuesday camp fire entertainment was provided by impromptu numbers from the campers. Nature was stressed at the evening dinner.

Pod day, Wednesday, proved to be exciting and each camper chose a girl (a "podner") for whom she would do good deeds during the day. At the hoe-down banquet that night the "podners" were revealed. The banquet tables were decorated by nature classes and a folk dancing party in the evening closed a full day's activities.

Tumbleweed day proved the spirit of hiking and many of the campers spent a night out, cooking their breakfasts. Those who remained in camp and enjoyed a shorter hike were treated to a "yummy roast" and slept out under the stars.

Friday night was devoted to a carnival with each cabin having a concession. Admission was a myrtle leaf which was cured for bay leaves by the nature classes.

Sunday morning the girls, in their white blouses and blue shorts, attended a vesper hour followed by Sunday dinner. During the afternoon parents called for their daughters and second week campers arrived. Campers during this week will find activities along a theme of "Sky Gypsies."
