Food Price Boosts Slated For Senate Investigation

WASHINGTON, July 21 —(AP)—Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) said Thursday a senate investigation of sharp food price increases will begin within two weeks.

Gillette, chairman of a senate agriculture subcommittee, called the recent price increases "vicious, unjustifiable and unpatriotic." He remarked that certain persons are "in a position to exact from the public exorbitant prices."

He made the statement about a hearing devoted to the dairy situation after Senator Lehman (D-Lib-NY) said:

"There is no justification whatsoever for the price increases of the last few weeks. President Truman has said there is food in sufficient quantity to care for apparent needs."

"It is a terrible thing," Lehman added, "to foist price increases on the consuming public."

Senator Thye (R-Minn.) said there should be no fear of a shortage in food supplies. He said such fear has caused the recent runs on stores for various commodities.

Housewives Halt Unloading Of Cement For Road Job

READING, Pa., — (AP)—A band of broom-wielding housewives halted work on the Pennsylvania turnpike extension — protesting the unloading of loose cement as spreading a gray dust over their washlines, breakfast cereal and even their hair.

The women converged on the reading company rail yards yesterday, demanding the unloading be stopped until another site can be found.

The housewives said they had twice appealed to the city council, but the parade of cement-bearing trucks moved out of the rail yards — casting a gray pall over the neighborhood.

It reached a point, the women said, where they couldn't even spank junior without raising a minor dust storm or brush their teeth without tasting cement.

The broom-wielding band won its point. City councilmen instructed the contractor, C. S. Langenfelder of Baltimore, to find a new spot for unloading his cement.

And meanwhile, work on the highway project near Morgantown, Pa., was stopped — no cement.

How to attain a youthful, graceful walk:

First, you must stretch the Achilles tendon, which has grown shorter from lack of use, caused in many cases from wearing high heels all the time. Of all the muscles in the body, age shows first in the Achilles tendon if it isn't kept supple.

Second, you must strengthen the stomach muscles to be able to hold your weight from falling beyond the balance point necessary for a graceful step. This will correct that heavy, tired-looking walk that is so hard on your feet and arches. It's easy to look better and feel better. Begin by calling 1728-1 and Mr. Patterson, director of the Roseburg School of Dancing will tell you all about his plan to give you a beautiful, healthy figure.

The current concept of home decoration is revolutionary. It frees us from a lot of old, outmoded ideas. It inspires us with confidence and determination to plan and furnish our homes to fit our particular modes of living and express our individuality and personal taste. Whatever style we choose—Modern, Contemporary, Traditional—we are free to interpret it in our own way. We no longer slavishly copy one-period, but choose the furniture we like best of different periods and dramatize it with new fabrics and colors to create an atmosphere of originality and charm.

The new modern unit furniture offers unlimited possibilities for novel, space-saving arrangements.

In the modern room sketched above cabinet-chests flank television-radio combination to form room's focal point. Book shelves (unit pieces) piled vertically give unexpected wall interest. Horizontal lines are restful, and bright book jackets add color richness. Blond wood stands out importantly against gray-turquoise walls and chocolate brown carpet. Rough-textured linen sofa upholstery has brown pattern on turquoise ground. Lounge chair is cyclamen pink.

This is just one suggestion for combining modern units. Come in and let us help you choose units that will be adaptable to your mode of living, and give your home up-to-the-minute smartness.
