COMING TO INDIAN THEATER

COLEEN GRAY and BING CROSBY in a happy, romantic scene from Paramount's "RIDING HIGH," with Charles Bickford.

Hollywood Scene

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
HOLLYWOOD, (NEA) — Exclusively Yours: Ginger Rogers and Movie Lawyer Greg Bautzer, after a year's romance, are giving a reasonably accurate facsimile of two people blueprinting marriage plans. Hollywood expects them to brave the rice-and-old-shoes as soon as Ginger winds up "Illegal Bride" and gets her final divorce decree from Jack Briggs in mid-August.

Trade paper headline: "Burt Lancaster Interviewed While Balanced on Top of 15-Foot Pole." Gosh, things are tougher than I thought.

The Juliette Shelby living at Laguna is Silent Star Mary Miles Minter, who took the new tag because she hates being reminded that she was ever a flicker queen. Big laugh in "Pretty Baby" when Zachary Scott sits down at a lunch table and tells the waitress: "Scramble me a couple of benz-drine tablets."

United Artists is digging into the vaults for more oldies to peddle to TV. Two Jack Benny's and two Claudette Colberts are being dusted off.

Danny Thomas, who was handed a tragedian's cloak at MGM, gets his first chance to play comedy in Fox's "Call Me Mister." Danny told me:

"For once I'm not a Greek clock-maker. For once I do not say to my leading lady—she was Margaret O'Brien, by the way, and she's only got three million—that she should quick drink up her milk or she will be late for school."

Need a Sixth Sense
Inside story on Ruth Roman's failure to land the wife role in "A Streetcar Named Desire." Director Elia Kazan thought Ruth was too sexy. The Roman lass is still laughing. For years she couldn't get a break, because Hollywood thought she wasn't sexy enough. Bob Taylor is bored with looking ferocious lions in the face. He has cabled Barbara Stanwyck to rush over to Italy, war or no war, and help him blow out the candles on his birthday cake.

Producer Robert L. Welch has an introduction after my own heart for Bob Hope in "Fancy Pants." The picture opens with Bob facing the audience in cutaway saying:

"No popcorn eating during my performance, peasants." It's been eight years since Paul Henreid popped two cigarettes in his mouth in "Now Voyager" and handed one to Betty Davis. But he is still getting ribbed about being a suave light-up whiz. Just back from Europe, where he scouted locations and equipment for his forthcoming "Rendezvous in Vienna," Paul told me:

"This silly thing is still following me. In Paris, a woman came up to my table and asked me if I would light two cigarettes at the same time. A terrible comedian in a Vienna night club saw me come in and stuffed 10 cigarettes into his mouth. The other day Red Skelton saw me and put five cigars into his mouth. I can't get away from this thing."

Funny twist to Vic Damone's platter hit, "I Love the Girl." Tune originally was titled "I Love the Guy" but the lyrics were rewritten for Vic.

rays. Flipped Star Bob Hope: "Himmmmm, first time I've seen a plaid head."

Big talk of "Storm Warning" will be a big fight scene between Ginger Rogers, Doris Day and Sieve Cochran. Says Steve: "Ginger slapped me hard enough to feel it during a rehearsal, but on the take she let me have it good. I had a headache for two days."

Incongruous sight on the "Born Yesterday" set: Judy Holliday, the "dumb" heroine, in heavy concentration on a crossword puzzle in the Saturday Review of Literature.
