RED OBJECTIVE—The vital port of Pusan (above) is the objective of increased North Korean Communist drives on the southern front in Korea. At least three Red divisions are massed for an all-out assault on the port, but are being stalled by American counter-blows. Pusan is the main seaport for landing supplies and troops of the United Nations. Exclusive photo by Norman Williams, NEA-Acme staff correspondent.

Alleged Atomic Secrets Stealer Slashes Wrists

LONDON—(AP)—A man charged with stealing a briefcase full of British atomic secrets was held in a hospital today after he slashed his wrists in his jail cell.

His condition was described as "not serious," but a preliminary hearing on the theft charge, scheduled for today, was postponed pending his recovery. He is William Ralph Wakeham, 35.

The briefcase full of atomic secrets was stolen earlier this week from Frank M. Greenlee, an official of the supply ministry's atomic energy production division.

Greenlee left the briefcase and a suitcase in his train compartment at Euston station for three minutes. When he returned they were gone. The baggage was recovered and Greenlee reported today after an examination of his papers, that all the secrets were intact.
