Building Time Limits Cut For Oregon Vets

By MRS. CECIL HARTFORD

PORTLAND — (AP)—Oregon veterans of World War II wanting state farm or home loans face curtailed building time limits.

The advisory committee of the Oregon department of veterans affairs ruled that applicants for self-construction loans must have 40 percent of their building completed within six months. Assurance of ability to meet the deadline will be required prior to granting the loans, the committee reported.

Meanwhile, the committee set up a more lenient policy for veterans recalled to service. Those with state loans will be granted a three month waiver of payments. These later will be adjusted in accordance with circumstances of each loan.

Employment At High Level Pace In Douglas County

High levels of employment continued for the third consecutive month in Douglas county. The peak was reached during the last week of the month when approximately 900 pickers started harvesting the string bean crop. This work should be completed by the end of August and then closely followed by the prune and walnut harvest, reported George T. Foster, local Oregon state employment office manager.

Pessimistic reports concerning uninterrupted operating schedules are being received from sawmills throughout the area. The railroad car shortage is responsible. One mill has shut down and the rest indicate that storage space is rapidly being filled up with lumber that is sold but cannot be shipped. Unless relief is obtained during the month, serious complications might develop which would be a threat to the county's economic situation at this time of year.

There was little change in the number of claims for unemployment insurance. The total is approximately 400 percent less than for the corresponding period of last year. Available job openings at the end of the month indicated more work opportunities than during June and 300 percent more percent of the openings were in than July of last year. Nearly 50 the lumber industry, with the major demand being in the semi-skilled fields.

Employment prospects appear to be very good in all types of work and such conditions should continue to exist well into the fall.
